THE SMART FOLK DRESSED FOLK

The Spiderweb

MY DEAREST MADGE:

Having attended a Spiderweb Party at Ethel Morrison's last evening, and not returning home until the wee sma' hours, my brain is filled with cobwebs and I am longing for some one to brush them away. It really was a most enjoyable party, and I wouldn't have missed it for a kingdom of apple trees.

In the large doorway between the living room and library hung a huge spiderweb which Ethel had woven of white cord. Attached to this were strands of colored ribbon to correspond with the number of guests. When we had all assembled, Ethel announced, "Walk into my parlor," said the spider to the fly, which was the signal for every one to select a ribbon and follow wherever it led until we secured the favor tied at the end. The ribbons led upstairs, downstairs and in my lady's chamber, from attic to cellar, and we had a screamingly funny time with the tangled ribbons, almost scrapping over which was which. Mine terminated in the butler's pantry after leading me a merry chase, and tied to the end was a dainty lace centerpiece.

Now about the frocks.

Jane Hanley wore one of the smartest frocks I have noticed this winter. It is a Chloé model and developed of cream serge ornamented with Russian embroidery in red and black silk.

The blouse and overskirt combined resembled a Russian peasant's smock, with the collar and cuffs edged with skunk fur. Modified bishop's sleeves were set in a dropped shoulder seam with a cording of the serge. The hem was outlined with a band of fur and the waist enfolded with a belt of black patent leather.

If you are desirous of keeping abreast with fashion, make a Russian suit immediately for it is the mode of the next moment. You will be interested to learn that Mabelle Reynolds followed your advice and had her sulphur-colored satin trimmed with bands of clipped ostrich. The bodice was cut with a V-shaped neck line and finished with frills of white mousseline de soie on one side. Bands of the clipped ostrich outline the peplum drapery and the left side of the bodice.

In a frock of almost Quaker sobriety, Josephine Carey with her Titian tresses appeared at her best. Crepe de chine is such a lovely material, especially in tones of gray. A deep yoke outlined with red embroidery made the bodice distinctive. The collar, cuffs, belt and band extending from the neck to the waist line were of black crepe de chine. An old-gold satin piping outlined the collar, cuffs and one side of the bodice front.

I wore my salmon-pink satin, which you have seen, so it needs no description.

What have you planned for Valentine's day? Why, not visit me, and we will celebrate it in true lovers' fashion?

Always devotedly, ELIZABETH.

HELEN THURMAN

LIGHT TURNED ON CIVIL SERVICE

Method of Making Appointments in England to Be Investigated.

Coal Miners of Kingdom to Be Given Further Increase in Wages.

LONDON, Feb. 1. — The method of making appointments to civil service positions in England is now being investigated, largely because of the simple fact that a certain number of appointments are made on the basis of the position of the candidate in the list of candidates. This method is being investigated because it is considered that it is not fair to the candidates who are not in the list of candidates. A royal commission has been appointed to inquire into the entire situation of the civil service appointments, and the commission has presented some strong criticisms of present methods. It is alleged that caste and patronage are taken into consideration, particularly in the appointments of officials of the labor department, who are chosen not because of their qualifications, but because of their ability to bring personal influence to bear.

Most of the best positions went to sons of relatives of politicians or officials, and the suggestion that the best places are kept for a certain class of the community. A representative of the association asked directly by the chairman of the commission, Lord Alton, whether he thought there was any ground for the suggestion that heads of departments are plainly biased in favor of a certain social class. He replied: "I should say so. I think it is unquestionably a preference for the class of man who is credited in the main, as I have seen, from Oxford and Cambridge."

INCREASE IN WAGES. Coal miners in the federated area of England and Wales have been given a further increase in wages of five per cent, effective soon. This is in addition to the five per cent increase granted last October, and it brings the wages of all the men in and around the mines up to 60 per cent above the standard rate of 1902.

Latterly the coal trade has been booming, and the miners are thus sharing in the prosperity of the owners. This last advance was granted by the unanimous vote of the Coal Conciliation board, composed of mine owners and representatives of the miners' union. It adds upward of $5,000,000 to the annual payroll of 400,000 men.

The Scottish and South Wales coal fields, where there is always more or less trouble between the men and the employers, are not in the federated area. Sir Henniker Jensen, who was largely responsible for the introduction of penny postage between the colonies and Great Britain and between England and America, has been gathering statistics which show that last year $25,000,000 were received in the United Kingdom from America and the colonies in money orders.

Some of this money, of course, was in payment for goods, but Sir Henniker estimates that by far the larger portion was sent as Christmas or other presents from those who have prospered across the waters to poorer relatives at home. From the United States alone, for example, came over $14,000,000, of which $5,000,000 was for Ireland, Canada sent $1,500,000, Australia $1,500,000, India $1,000,000, New Zealand $1,200,000, South Africa $4,000,000 and other places about $1,500,000.

GOLD IS BURIED. There is holed in India every year a sum of gold equal to the amount taken yearly from the mines of South Africa. The African miners extract this treasure from the grip of the earth, and it is a circulation: the natives of India seize it with avidity, hoard it and hide it, save it and lay it aside for the future, and the future and effectively remove it from circulation. Thus is the work of the South African miner largely nullified.

These facts derived from statistics issued lately by a firm of Indian bankers, and the amount of wealth in gold, jewels and precious stones stored away and buried in India today is practically incalculable. Gold is put also to some queer uses in India. In some parts of the country thin gold leaves are taken by the people for medicinal purposes, and thousands of dollars' worth is consumed in regaling the domes of religious buildings. A great demand having recently been noticed for sovereigns with a shield on the obverse, an inquiry was made and it was found that a certain maharajah had reported them to form a center to each tiny pane in the windows of his palace.

MONSTER SUBMARINE. The first of England's monster submarines, the B-1, has just been commissioned. The new vessel is a remarkable advance upon her predecessors of the "dreadnaught" class. She has four times the displacement of the A's and carries a pair of 18-pounder quick-firing guns, with disappearing mounts. Her oil consumption is 450 tons per day, and she is capable of 16 knots on the surface and 10 knots submerged. The surface tonnage is 700 tons, and the submerged tonnage is 1,000 tons.

The personnel of the navy will materially swell the expenditure, as it is understood that Prince Louis of Battenberg, who as second sea lord, was responsible for the recruiting and training consented to take the position of first sea lord. The new estimates have also to take account of the "retained" money of Germany and her allies of the triple alliance.

CASHIER LOSES PAY FOR WORKMEN IN FACTORY. (Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1. — M. Verhee, a cashier employed by a motor car company, recently lost a pocketbook containing $11,000 in notes and gold, part of the workmen's pay, between the bank and his firm's works at Putaux, near Paris. When he left the car for a drink at a cafe he sat on his pocketbook for a moment. A few minutes after he had returned to the cafe but there was no sign of the money. Mr. Verhee stated immediately afterwards that he wished to have left the money in the cab.

Miss Joan Ashurst Morris, only daughter of Mrs. Ashurst, Morris of 44 Cadogan Square, has engaged to Mr. Alexander Napier of Napier has just been announced.

Mlle. M. Favronowa appears as Ting-a-Ling (the Spirit of Christmas) in Charles Urban's delightful fairy play, "Santa Claus," at the Scala Theatre. Mlle. Favronowa, who is only 11 years of age, is not only a wonderful dancer but possesses remarkable dramatic power and sings most charmingly.

Here is a snapshot of Mlle. Monna Delza, the favorite Parisian actress, en route for the theater in her smart limousine.

Miss Olive Slaughter is the only daughter of W. Capel Slaughter of Berkeley House, Berkeley Square, and White Ness, Thimble, whose marriage to J. M. B. Sanders, Esq., of Wales' Leinster regiment, is announced to take place in February.

Miss Chloe Browne is the daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Arthur Browne and a niece of Lord Kilmarnock. Her marriage to Hughie A. Bagot-Chester is announced to take place next month. The wedding will be one of the most interesting functions of the season.

BOY VIOLINIST IS IDOL OF LONDON

American Youth Charms Society of Musical Women at Capital.

LONDON, Feb. 1. — Maurice Warner, a 17-year-old American violinist, who was discovered by American women and introduced to the Ladies' Electric Club of New York, which furnished the funds for his training by the most masters, and who has created a stir in musical circles, particularly in St. Petersburg, is now being introduced to the most part of things which have been written, re-written, and exhausted in America and England a generation ago.

Warner was first tutored by Mr. Adamowski at the Boston Conservatory, and he himself idolized by musical America, declared: "America will have reason to be proud of Maurice Warner. I do not believe in taking the risk of injuring one so young by overpraise, but this lad is simply wonderful."

Paderewski, who heard the boy play, wept as he said: "He will become the greatest violinist on earth." That settled Maurice Warner's career. The Electric Club sent to St. Petersburg, where he studied under Professor Leopold Auer. Playing at a concert given by the Russian court, he achieved the distinction of being recalled again and again. Coming to London, Warner went direct to the American embassy, where he was introduced to "see and see Mrs. John A. Hartness, Brunswick Square." She, after hearing the young man play, was so delighted that she gave a private concert in her home and invited many music lovers to hear him. All were unanimous in declaring Warner to be what Carl Busch said of him in 1905, one of the most wonderful prodigies of the day.

PLAN WATER PLANT. TANGIERS, Feb. 1. — The committee of Public Works at Tangiers has recently submitted to the magistrates for its endorsement a proposal for constructing a water plant at Tangiers, to cost within a maximum of 1,800,000 francs ($347,400), payable out of the accumulated expenditure at the disposal of that committee.

BRIEUX'S NEW PLAY AROUSES ALL OF PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 28. — M. Brieux's new play, which deals with the love woman's chances of earning an honorable living, has started Paris writing in Paris, but writing for the most part things which have been written, re-written, and exhausted in America and England a generation ago.

"I declare that, with exceptions, lonely women are condemned to submit by fair means or foul to the tyranny of masculine lust and self-protection even to the extent of ferocity. If I am mistaken let women say so."

Mme. Severine, taking these words as her text, assures M. Brieux he is right. There is only one mistake in his phrase: she writes, "It is nothing extraordinary, it is a law of nature." M. Brieux, taking these words as her text, assures M. Brieux he is right. There are no exceptions. "The most famous, the most successful, the most independent woman in the world, if they were willing for a moment to abdicate their pride, to lay aside their masks, to put off their pretense, to be sincere, would tell you that their value would have remained in obscurity had they not been brought to the light of day by the removal of material cases, was proportionate to its free development. My dear Brieux, you seek the remedy; there is one. It is nothing extraordinary, it is a law of nature. I take it for what it is worth. But in the present state of affairs there is no other, and that gives it a kind of virtue."

Paris, Jan. 28. — M. Brieux's new play, which deals with the love woman's chances of earning an honorable living, has started Paris writing in Paris, but writing for the most part things which have been written, re-written, and exhausted in America and England a generation ago.

REACHES 134 ON SOUR MILK DIET

The Grandfather of Bulgarian Statesman Outlives 24 Children.

LONDON, Feb. 1. — Mr. Angeloff, Bulgarian consul general to the Balkan peace delegation during its deliberations in London, belongs to a long-lived family, and is a devoted believer in sour milk as an article of diet. He says that his grandfather, who died about twenty years ago at the age of 134, lived to a great extent on sour milk.

"He was a wonderful old gentleman," said Mr. Angeloff, "with a grim sense of humor. I remember him saying at a birthday party that he hoped to live to see all his family in the grave, and he did live longer than the majority of his children, of whom he had twenty-six."

"The long life of Bulgarians in general is a matter of common knowledge. We are a very temperate people, and, being largely engaged in agricultural pursuits, we live in the open air. We are great vegetarians, and some of the poorer people live practically on vegetables and sour milk. My own father is now 88 years of age and active as a man of 40. He frequently spends eight hours a day in the saddle riding round his estate, and he still has all his teeth."

BOY SCORES SUCCESS. BERLIN, Feb. 1. — Eddy Brown of Chicago, a boy violinist, won a triumph in his first public appearance at the concert this week. On Wednesday a big audience unsparingly applauded the program, which tested the player's ability to the fullest. The concert included a recital and a waltz dance dedicated to young Brown by the composer, Victor Kuzko, and played for the first time from manuscript.

PRINCE TIED TO APRON STRINGS

The Unaffected Love of Young Wales for Mother Delights Britons.

Historic Jacobean Quenby Hall to Be Auctioned With Big Estate.

LONDON, Feb. 1. — The Prince of Wales has become a great favorite with his fellow students at Oxford, and nothing has made a greater impression than his unaffected devotion to his mother. The irreverent undergraduates with a not unkindly wit have given him a new nickname, "Mary's Little Lamb."

The prince is a good sport, too. A friend, who has had many opportunities of meeting and studying the royal student, said the other day that he is performing very well in the soccer field. It is not that the prince prefers soccer to "rugger" football that he plays the former, but because in the latter game the whole field can mark you down and go for you, whereas at soccer you have only to encounter the special attentions of a single antagonist.

"Of course," added the informant, "the prince did not choose soccer on that account. He is a decent young chap, with plenty of pluck. But he's going to be king and he can't, therefore, do everything he would like. He is getting over his shyness now, which everybody noticed when he came up."

SHYNESS CHARACTERISTIC. That the Prince of Wales should be shy may seem strange to ordinary mortals, but everybody who has come in contact with his family is very well aware that abnormal shyness was characteristic of all King Edward's children.

Shortly before the end of the last term the prince was cycling with a companion along the streets of Oxford, an exercise of which he is very fond. The prince was on a conspicuously new epic and span machine, and, stopping in front of a second-hand shop, he turned to his friend: "Here, take this thing inside and see if you can swap it for a second-hand one." The royal order was immediately obeyed, and thereafter, for the remainder of the term the prince was daily seen plodding along on one of the shabbiest machines in Oxford.

OLD HALL TO BE SOLD. Quenby Hall, in Leicestershire, one of the few perfect specimens of old Jacobean architecture in the kingdom, with the estate of 2030 acres on which it stands, is to be put up for auction by order of Lady Henry Grosvenor at Messrs. Knight, Frank & Rutley's room, in Hanover square, on February 25.

All through its history the character of the mansion, both interior and exterior, never has been altered. Not at any period, from 1610, when the building was begun, up to the present day, have any so-called "modern" improvements been introduced, except, perhaps, in the matter of sanitation, introduction of bathrooms, electric lights, and a flat roof, but otherwise nothing, not even to the extent of displacing a leaden pane.

Quenby Hall belongs to the time when the classic influence was gaining a strong hold in England. It is an H-shaped house, of three stories, with a flat roof, its plainness relieved by an intermixture of stone and brick, and by the free use of bay windows rising from ground to parapet.

Quenby Hall remained from its erection till the end of the eighteenth century in possession of the ancient family of Ashby, though it was on the lands of Quenby that the old Convent of St. Mary de Praetis was founded in the early twelfth century.

IN NATURAL PARK. The hall is approached by a long drive through a natural park of about 150 acres, and from its windows there is an uninterrupted view of beautiful country. In the stately reception-room is an old massive oak carved and arched screen and a grand old stone chimney-piece. The living room is all oak panelling. The tapestry bedroom, the grey bedroom, the saloon, or "great" chamber—in fact, nearly every room in the mansion possesses something of artistic or historic interest. It is full of valuable old furniture, tapestries, which may be sold with the house.

The gardens are well kept, the stabling is ample and there are a number of farms on the estate, which bring in good annual rentals.

Quenby is a favorite resort of the Quora hounds, and is also a center for the Cot-timore, Mr. Ferrie's and the Delvois hounds, which provide hunting six days a week. The noted "Billedon Collop" Hill, known as "The Dales" is upon this estate, and forms a portion of the well-behaved.

FRENCH COMPOSERS NO MODERN MOLLY CODDLES

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1. — If contemporary music is not always what it ought to be, some people even pretend that it is degenerate, crazy and morbid. It is, we are told by medical experts, because composers neglect athletics and physical training. Some noted French composers are determined now to merit the reproach. Several have taken it as a rule to indulge in most violent sport. M. Nouragues practices boxing and wrestling and has even been seen competing in foot races. M. Carpentier attends a physical training school every morning, and another composer, M. D'Almeida, spends two hours every morning in bowling or playing tennis.

KAISER CONSENTS TO APPEAR MIDDLE AGED

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 1. — The Kaiser has consented to have a new likeness of himself made for the Prussian coinage. This will be the first change made during his reign. The face which has appeared on the Prussian coins for the last twenty-five years shows the Kaiser as he was when he ascended the throne, with the sharply upturned mustache which he had at that time. He has now ordered a likeness which reveals him at middle life, but a style will be kept secret until the appearance of the new coins after his majesty's silver jubilee in June.

'TRAITOR' SAYS HIS KIND ARE SNOBS

"Philosophy of Snobism," Published Under Pen Name, Hits Author's Friends.

Many Seeking the Identity of "Marius Scott," Vowing Awful Vengeance.

(By CAMILLE GIANFARRE.)
ROME, Feb. 1.—Roman society, both "black and white" as well as the moneyed aristocracy of the Italian capital, will pay an extravagant price to any person who will discover the identity of Marius Scott, author of "The Philosophy of Snobism," just published. Scott candidly admits he is an aristocrat and a full fledged snob. He is also a man endowed with a philosophical turn of mind, who, while a member of society, has devoted his best efforts to the study of the mode of living of his thousand confederates of the snob set.

His conclusion, although not aimed at any single person or group, has cast a shadow on Roman society just at the time when the social whirl is in full swing. The book made its appearance in a quiet, unobtrusive, almost clandestine way, not preceded by advertising of any sort and unreviewed by the dailies. It was put on sale about a week ago.

OLD ARISTOCRAT APPEARS.
It would have, perhaps, passed altogether unnoticed had not a lady who signed herself "Old Aristocrat" written a letter to one of the papers protesting against some of the writer's statements and declaring that the writer had seen fit to hide his identity under a nom de plume for fear of social ostracism.

From that day the success of the book was assured and just now Roman society is not the subject of much envy on the part of those who, in former days, looked at it as a world of gaiety and pleasure.

At the same time there are 10 or 15 men suspected of being the author of the book who are passing many a bad quarter of an hour and doing their best to defend themselves against the charges of being rascals and defamers of friends of both sexes.

Scott says the old time aristocracy of blood has greatly degenerated with the corresponding change for the worse in its mode of living and noble ideals and aims in life.

NO LONGER CASTLES.
"Society's exclusive abodes," he writes, "are no longer old patrimonial palaces or stately castles, full of traditions of noble deeds and inspiring memories, in whose salons the eye rested on old tapestries, artistic decorations and works of art which educated the artistic taste of their frequenters. Society now meets, and moves at sea and mountain resorts where traditions are absent and where the snobs of the whole earth find ready hospitality."

"This kind of society is of latter day creation and was born wholly for mundanity's sake. Like free masonry, modern society is international in character and its abodes are modern luxurious hotels. Society knows no frontier and he who is once admitted is forever a citizen of the high fashionable life of every country."

MORAL OF ITS OWN.
"In short, like free masonry, mundanity can ever be a religion and a professional career. At the same time the social whirl has a moral of its own but this moral is autonomous, as it reverses the principle of the snob and middle class moral. It considers as obsolete any sentiment of family, makes unfaithfulness one of its basic principles and has very few scruples in matters financial. The society man of fiction is nothing but a symbol and a myth. He does not exist."

The book is replete with pungent aphorisms and sad considerations. In it the author betrays the born aristocrat, who, after due reflection, has come to believe that the life of a society man is not worth living. One of the most pungent remarks the author makes about modern society is this:

"The spiritual father of the present day snob is Beau Brummel, the son of a major domo, a nephew of a candy maker."

But who is Marius Scott? The publishers refuse to say.

According to the latest report he is a count who is about to give up a life of leisure to devote his time to politics.

AUTHOR'S GIRL IS SEEKING HIS MANTLE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—A popular newcomer in the American colony is Miss Margaret Porter, only daughter of the late O. Henry, the famous American writer of short stories. "Peggy Porter," as she is known to her friends, together with Miss Violet Irwin, has leased a magnificent atelier on the Quai de Beethune, on the ancient Ile Saint Louis, where she seeks inspiration from the most magnificent view in Paris, up and down the Seine.

It is just around the corner from the house that sheltered the love of Heloise and Abelard, and is already known to the aristocratic and literary crowd as one of the most delightful tea salons in town.

Miss Porter is 23 years old and beautiful. She is regarded as a second edition of her father in the matter of wit and brilliant repartee. She does not intend to return to New York until she has achieved something in her father's field and she spends hours daily writing short stories. She is also at work on a play, a comedy of suburban life on Long Island.

Miss Porter, who is working a few months in the Rue de Valenciennes, Paris, is a long time to break in, but I want to make good as Margaret Porter, not as O. Henry's daughter. Until then, I'll remain here."

NEW PORTRAITS OF SOME OF EUROPE'S PROMINENT

HWEA WILLIAMS

SO THAT YOU WILL KNOW

Here are LORD AND LADY HARDINGE, recent victims of an attempted assassination. Lord Hardinge was seated in a howdah on a state elephant when a bomb was thrown at him. It exploded in the howdah, but mainly backwards, killing one of the attendants on the back of the elephant. Lord Hardinge was wounded by a fragment of the bomb which struck his right shoulder, causing a wound four inches long, exposing the muscle and the bone. There were also slight wounds on the back of the neck and right hip.

Lady Hardinge was riding in the howdah by the side of her husband, but escaped the effects of the bomb, although of course she was much shaken. "Are you hurt?" she immediately asked Lord Hardinge, who replied: "All right; go on." Lord Hardinge then said: "We cannot go on; there is a dead man behind." Almost at that moment the victory reeled and fainted. The elephant was stopped and the victory was lowered to the ground.

A new portrait of LADY EILEEN ELLIOT shows the eldest of the three beautiful daughters of the Earl and Countess of Minto, and is unmarried. Her sisters, Ladies Ruby and Violet, are married respectively to Viscount Errington, eldest son of the Earl of Cromer, and Lord Charles Fitzmaurice, younger son of the Marquis of Lansdowne.

MRS. HWEA WILLIAMS was organizer of a grand revel and masked ball which took place at the Savoy hotel on the 26th for the benefit of the London hospital. Mrs. Hwea Williams is one of the best-known hostesses in society and has many friends. The ball was one of the most attractive functions of the new year.

A charming camera portrait of Mlle. LUCY JOUSSET is shown. The rising young actress is a big favorite at the Theatre Imperial, Paris. Mlle. Jousset is possessed of that statuesque style of beauty which is so much admired by Parisians but seldom found among them. She has appeared in most of the well-known theaters on the continent and always with unvarying success.

LADY NORAH HASTINGS is the second daughter of Lord and Lady Huntingdon, whose debut will be one of the most interesting events of the coming season. Lord Huntingdon married Miss Maud Wilson, the daughter of the late Sir Samuel Wilson, who has one son, Lord Hastings, and three daughters—the Ladies Maud, Norah and Marian Hastings. Lady Norah is very accomplished and a great lover of open-air sports, following hounds with a zest that is such a feature of the rising generation at the present time.

LOUIS XIV BALL WILL SURPASS ALL OTHERS

(By W. ORTON TEWSON.)
LONDON, Feb. 1.—The event of the year was the wonderful 100 years ago ball, which was held in Albert hall in June and at which the most famous society women are already organizing their side lines. There will be the usual nuptial, the usual court of that period, the usual procession will appear members of several old Roman Catholic families. Of course, the English court of that period will be represented and those who attend will not be restricted to wearing costumes of the French court so long as they are of the period of Louis XIV.

LADY NEWBORN, one of the handsomest Americans in London, is the daughter of Mrs. Cecil Bingham. She is taking keen interest in the balls while another American, Mrs. Charles Bingham, has promised to do likewise.

The Hon. Mrs. Bingham, formerly Mrs. Chauncey, is so handsome that she entirely overshadows her daughter, Miss Alice Chauncey, and the Melton Mowbray ball, which she will undoubtedly be the belle of the evening. The two were staying with Sir Humphrey and Lady de Trafford, who had gathered together the prettiest girls and women they could find for their house party. Mrs. Bingham will divide her time between the London hospital, the power of General Bingham, is quartered, and town but when the season proper begins she will start entertaining on a large scale in London.

PROMISES TO RETURN.
Mrs. William B. Leeds, who has been abroad with her inseparable companion, Lady Sarah Wilson, will spend the latter part of the winter season in New York, but has promised her many friends in London that she will return in the spring to take a house in Mayfair.

LOSS OF M. MILLERAND IS DEPLORED BY FRANCE

(By GEORGES DUFRESNE.)
PARIS, Feb. 1.—While everybody agrees that M. Millerand, the Socialist and patriot, died the only honorable and proper thing when he resigned as minister of war, is not to undervalue his chief, M. Poincaré, chances of the presidency, it is no less a fact that everybody at the same time deploras the country's great loss.

There can be no question that M. Millerand was one of the most successful war ministers of modern times. He not only proved himself a capable administrator, but he exhibited that quality which was a valuable asset to the army and to the country—the power of popularizing the army and winning back for it that respect and confidence which the anti-militarists and revolutionaries have done their best to destroy.

Millerand's regime at the war office was marked by an "elan" of patriotism which was not to be envied by his successors. The country has been and is suffering from the military tactics on a Saturday night. The spirit of the army is being lowered and the reforms are being postponed. A few years ago the same judges would have been ridiculed.

AWAKENED LOVE FOR ARMY.
The awakening in France of the old time love and enthusiasm for the army is only a part of the wonderful renaissance of the French people, who are at last emerging from the despondency and criminal spirit of the last few years. The anti-militarists and revolutionaries have done their best to destroy the army and the country, but the people are being awakened and the reforms are being pushed forward.

FAIL TO PROSECUTE.
The depopulation of France, which now amounts to a million less than in 1870, is due to the negligence of the authorities to enforce the present law and the Chamber of Deputies to frame new and sterner measures against a certain class of criminals which in all other countries in Europe are punished as ranking next to actual murderers.

In Echo de Paris, M. J. de Lamoignon wrote a few days ago an article against these people which has stirred up France beyond the writer's most sanguine expectations.

France is robbed of half a million babies each and every year by the depopulation which is the result of the depopulation of France. The women of France, who are as healthy and prolific as they ever were and if events were permitted to take their natural course the birth rate in France would be no lower than in most European countries, but in the maternity hospitals one-fourth of

FRANCE NAMES 'QUEEN OF QUEENS'

Pretty Typist Wins Honor at Election Presided Over by Mayor of Paris.

Former Philadelphia Beauty Is Found Starving in Attic and Sent to Hospital.

(By PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUX.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—If the solemn election of a president of the republic there followed this week the election of a queen for the mid-Lent festivities, France, not having a real queen, will have a mock one. Potent, grave and revered signors took part in the election of the queen. M. Galli, president of the municipal council of Paris, and the most accomplished mayor the city has ever had, presided. Maurice Barres, academicien, worked hard for his candidate, a ravishing little blonde.

In spite of his Bonapartist pretensions, Marcus Doon, who made a disturbance at the election of M. Poincaré, voted for a queen. Madame Caristiere Martel of the Comedie Francaise, was the only woman who voted for the queen of queens and made a point in favor of the feminists in that it was the first time a woman was permitted to participate in this election.

PRETTY TYPIST SELECTED.

The queen of queens was selected from nine previously elected by different sections of the city. The chosen one is Mlle. Germaine Bregnot, a pretty typist of 28. She will be a queen until her successor is chosen next year. Hence, Mayor Galli, when complimenting her, said: "Madame, we have one thing in common. We are both elected for the same length of time, one year."

The maids of honor were elected also. Nearly all are dressmaking girls. The election over, the queen of queens, the eight auxiliary queens and the ladies in waiting, took the underground home. So modest they will be dressed like queens, drive in carriages, be received at the Elysee by President Poincaré, who will present a bracelet to the queen of queens, drink champagne at the city hall, dance all night and be back at work the following morning.

FEW AMERICANS AT COURT BOW TO EMPEROR

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Only five or six Americans made their initial bow before Emperor William at the year's "reception," the opening court function at the palace. The whom Ambassador and Mrs. Lohman presented to their majesties included none of the American jeunesse dorée, which was conspicuous at former receptions. The members of the embassy and their wives and two or three prominent Americans, who happened to be in Berlin.

Of course, what the Americans lacked in quantity was brilliantly redeemed in quality of person and gorgeousness of raiment.

Mrs. Hornstadt, wife of the American military attaché, was one of the most attractive women of the occasion. Her gown was of blue and velvet and her 15 foot train, one of the most beautiful in the royal procession.

DAUGHTER OF MRS. SABIN.
Mrs. Hornstadt's daughter, Mrs. John Sabin of San Francisco, whose husband was president of the Pacific Coast Telephone company.

Mrs. Albin, wife of the youngest secretary at the embassy, was handsome in a gown of cream satin in lace. She was Miss Frances Kirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Kirk of Chicago.

Mrs. Chadwick, wife of Admiral Chadwick U. S. N., retired, was one of the simplest and yet one of the most attractive gowns of the occasion. Her train of brocade silk was the same she had worn at the Jubilee of Queen Victoria of England.

Miss Sirovack, the pretty daughter of ex-Governor Sirovack of New York, and Miss Grew were the other women presented.

The affair was one of the most brilliant in the history of German court life. Diplomats from every country on earth and women from every country of Europe paid their respects to William and his empress, appearing in court attire, according to the strict regulations of court etiquette.

DODGE NO. 13 ON STREETS OF LONDON
(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Quite a tenth of the London streets have no No. 13. There is no such number in the Strand, not in Holborn, Westbourne-grove, Haymarket, St. James' street, Lowndes square or Park Lane. Even the doctors ban it, for Upper Brook street goes from 11 to 154 on the odd number side of the street. In the humble quarters of London it is the same, for instance, Charlotte street Southwark, Rotherhithe street and Charles street, London. Even the printing press does not drive away superstition, for in Wine Office Court and other parts of Fleet street the number is missing. City men, too, have banished it from London street, Tokenhouse yard and Thresholme street. There is, however, a manufacturer greatly daring, who for years has carried on business at 13, Friday street.

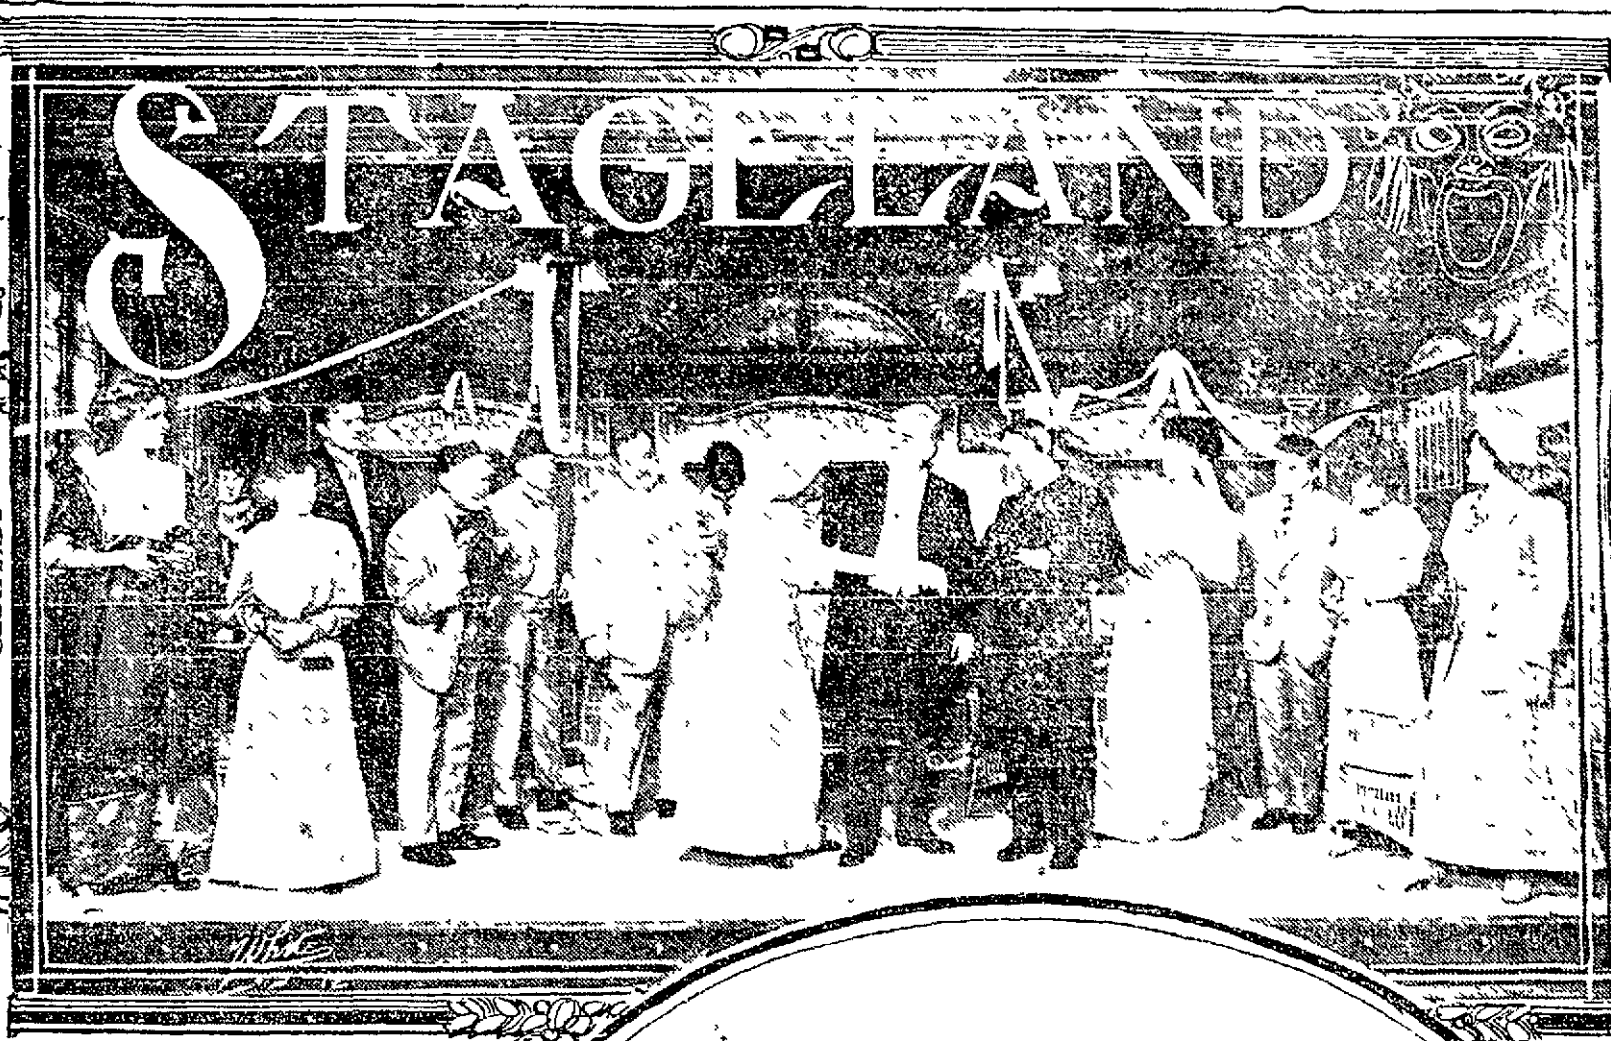

been are filed with cases of illegitimate children while the women which illegitimate children doctors treat in the home are probably four or five times as numerous.

Until now there is no punishment for mothers who bring their children into the world. But before the year grows much older the Chamber will be asked to pass a very drastic law.

ORPHEUMEND
SCENE FROM "EXCUSE

MACDONOUGH.

To the Macdonough today, for four evening performances and two matinees—one today and another Wednesday, Henry W. Savage will send a play that ranks among the most successful stage offerings this producer of successes has presented. It is the farce "Excuse Me" by Rupert Hughes, known from his plays and clever fiction contributions to magazines. "Excuse Me" has a sub-title "A Pullman Carnival" the descriptiveness of which is evident when it is understood that all the action of the play takes place on the Overland Limited train bound from Chicago across the continent.

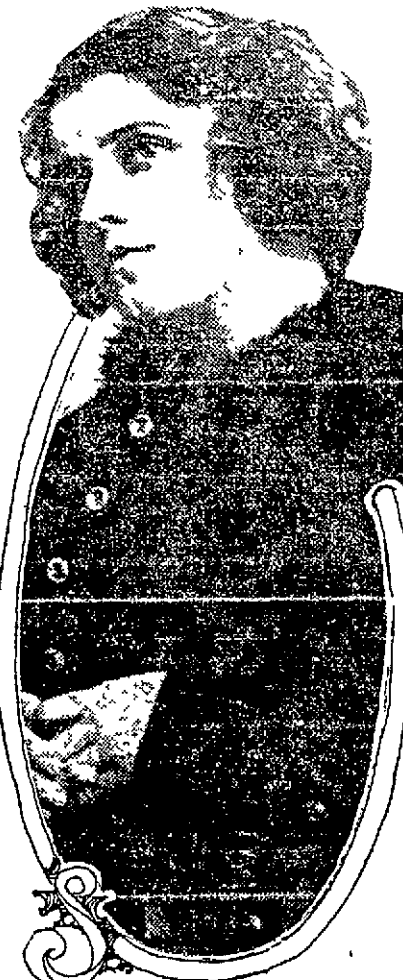

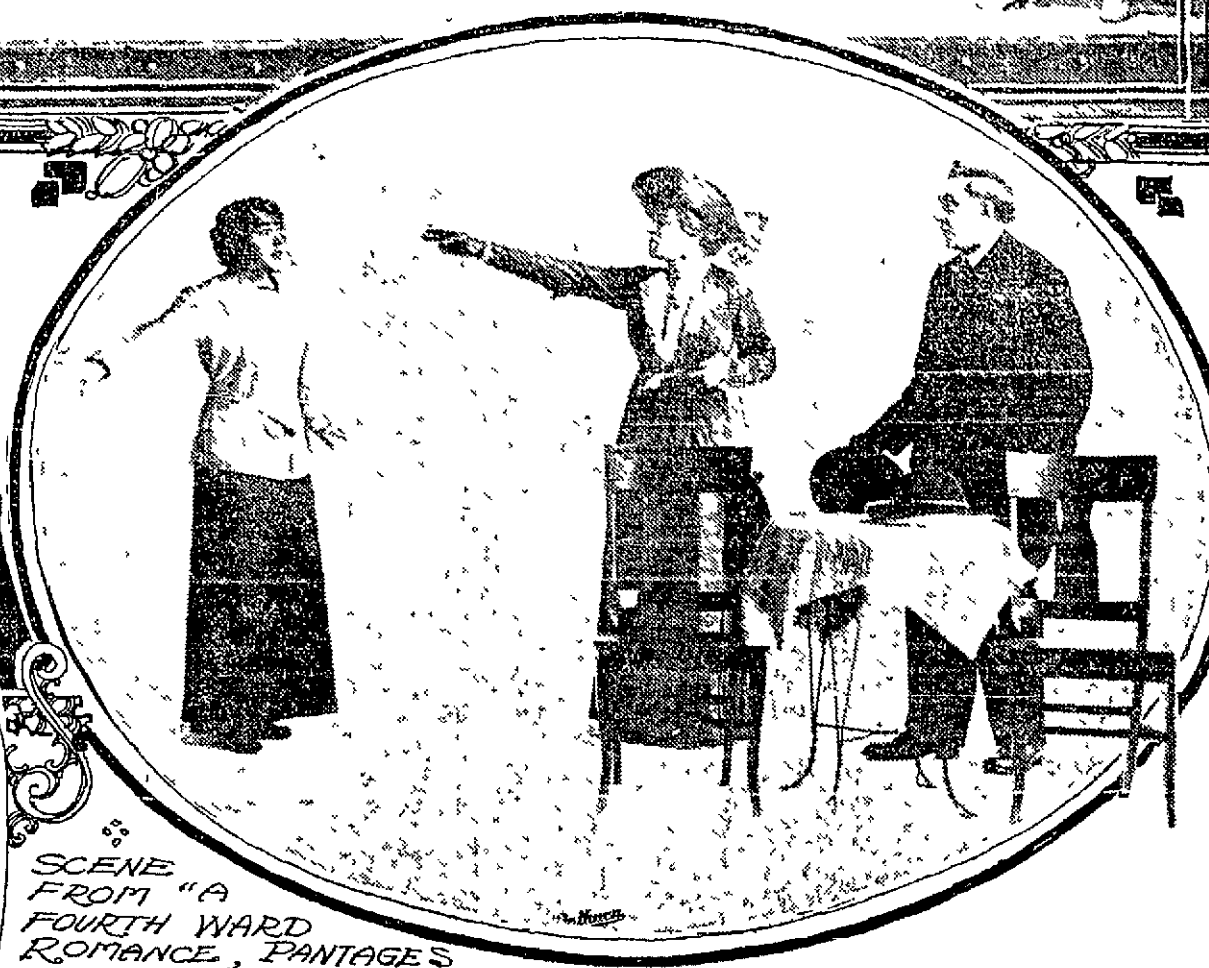

No one who has made a trip on a modern Pullman car can have failed to be struck by the possibility for humorous exploitation of the types among the fellow passengers, and "Excuse Me" represents the work of a skillful observer and clever writer who having noted these possibilities went about the task of putting them on the stage enthusiastically and joyously.

As Reno is one of the principal stopping points for Overland trains the passengers on the particular one which carries the story of "Excuse Me" include some who have that "separation metropolis" for their objective point and divorce as their object.

MINISTER IS ABOARD

Also there is a minister and his wife who for thirty years have been existing monotonously in a small town and have decided to treat themselves to a vacation without betraying the nature of the husband's calling. Then there is a young couple who would be on a wedding tour but for the fact that the breaking down of a taxicab has prevented their arriving at the parsonage in time for the marriage ceremony before boarding the train. The fact that friends of the couple believe them to have been married adds to the harrowing nature of their experience. In the score and half of passengers who are making the journey are numerous other types each of whom has experiences and troubles of his own and in addition there is a regulation train crew and a group of Pullman attendants. The three acts of "Excuse Me" so teem with incident that it would be futile to attempt to tell the story. The fact that it has proved to be the one really big laughing success will be accepted by local playgoers as sufficient to justify an un-partner, Winnie Hennings, is a pretty girl, a very clever actress and a finished comic player.

The Darling Darts have to offer something new in aerial performances. Their work is done in mid air on a balancing ladder on which they execute feats of acrobatic, juggling, bag punching, sharp shooting and trick cycle riding.

Work and Play is not intended to be symbolic of the performance given by the capable acrobatic comedians billed in this manner. They are two proper names—Frank Work and Jewel Play. They are representative tumblers and good all around athletes.

The harp, one of the most difficult instruments to master and one of the most exquisite when played well, is made to give forth its very sweetest tones by Roxie La Rocca, the famous harpist, who will be highly appreciated by Orpheum patrons.

A particularly interesting event for Oakland people will be the appearance of Phil Walsh, Eva Marius-Paigne and company in a new comedy by Will M. Cressy. Mr. Walsh's long connection with local stock has made him a local favorite. He was also for several years stage director for Andrew Mack. Eva Marius-Paigne is a clever young emotional actress who hails from Australia. "Algy Fitz-Jones-Crook" is the title of the Cressy comedy. This is the second Cressy play to receive its inaugural in Oakland within the month.

Alf Grant and Ethel Hoag will complete the list of acts with a new bunch of chatter and songs.

PANTAGES

Since Alex Pantages' advent in Oakland, it will be noticed that the local vaudeville house has been getting a much higher grade of standard acts and that this is fully appreciated is demonstrated by the large crowds that attend at both matinees and evenings. For the week starting Sunday, February 2, the bill will include another of the profile Ned Weyburn's acts, only this time it is a dancing number and not a musical tableau.

It is the original English Pony Ballet, containing eight London belles in a bewildering terpsichorean novelty of fluffly skirts and pink tights. This act out of Weyburn's stock is right girls who first appear in war time dress, sing and dance to follow with a change to Scotch bagpipers, each girl carrying a small xylophone on her back and played by the girl in the rear. The girls dance in unison and display much cleverness and the act is away from the from the Wayburn musical comedy class.

Tom and Edith Arnold present an act that is novel and versatile. The team opens with instrumental music solos, and duet and finish with a dance on ice skates on a pedestal in a scenic setting representing winter. Murray K. Hill, monologist, sings one song and then indulges in a rapid monologue that keeps an audience giggling.

Janet Loudon, assisted by Maud Mulberry and E. A. Anson, tell a story in "A Fourth Ward Romance" of the social standing between the lower five and the upper ten. Hazel Folsom is a "singer of simple songs." The Sereader Trio harmonize on harps and guitars in a special stage setting. Elsie Bell and Baldwin in a pantomimic absurdity, "A Night in the Swamp" showing the Florida Everglades, and a pictured story of John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" are the other acts on the rather out of the ordinary vaudeville program.

COLUMBIA.

"The Bumble Bee" is the title of Dillon and King's latest offering. The fun line to be produced at the Columbia Theater commencing with the matinee today. It goes without saying that the forthcoming production will be in keeping with the policy of the management, which is to give the theater going public something bigger and better every week.

Clever lines, catchy music and a maze of misfortune through which Mike and the carelessly wonder make up an entertainment that is unusually interesting. The comedy bears the Dillon and King trademark of perfection and contains many features that takes it out of the category of ordinary.

To those suffering from chronic grouch, melancholy and similar ills "The Bumble Bee" should prove an excellent remedy.

usual amount of interest. For the interpretation of the story of "Excuse Me" Mr. Savage has gathered a cast that is really remarkable.

With "Excuse Me," as the minister's wife, is Carrie Frost Snyder, a former well-known reader of Oakland. As End Gray, which is her stage name, she has scored many stage successes since leaving this coast for the East.

DAVID WARFIELD

"Peter Grimm," the newest Belasco character to be created by David Warfield, which the great actor will present here Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, February 10, 11, 12, 13, and Wednesday matinee at the Macdonough theater, is said to project all the lovable, noble qualities of manhood that made "The Music Master" such a memorable production. The character of Peter Grimm is thrown against episodes fully as dramatic and intense as those that encompassed "The Music Master," and through all the stirring scenes of the play a similar nobility of nature is shown.

Peter Grimm is a Dutch florist, whose good, simple life has been lived among the flowers, but when calamity falls upon his little girl ward because of him, the deeper dramatic notes of the story are asserted.

The entire original Belasco Theater cast and production will be seen here, including Marie Bates, Janet Dunbar, Marie Reichen, Joseph Brennan, Thomas Melghan, William Boag, John F. Webber, Percy Helton and Tony Bevan.

The sale of seats commences Wednesday. Mail orders are now being taken and will be filled in the order in which they are received.

ORPHEUM.

The Oakland Orpheum promises another big bill this week, and the acts scheduled to appear would indicate that all promises can be faithfully fulfilled. The bill is well balanced and particularly strong in its comedy, musical and sensational features.

Phil Walsh, a musical comedy favorite head-lines the list, with Amelia Stone and Armand Kalisz, as a special feature stellar quality. Other acts will be John and Winnie Hennings, "The Kill Kare Couple," "The Darling Darts," Work and Play, an acrobatic comedy team, Roxie La Rocca, a favorite harpist, Alf Grant and Ethel Hoag in some new fun and a new play by Will M. Cressy called "Algy-Fitz-Jones-Crook," to be offered for the first time on any stage by Phil Walsh, Eva Marius-Paigne and company.

DAINTY OPERETTA.

Exquisitely dainty is the operetta "Mon Amour," in which Amelia Stone and Armand Kalisz will appear next week as a special feature. There is a time of graceful dances and amusing comedy about the entire production that is charming. Both artists sing extremely well and look attractive. Miss Stone is a handsome woman with a wealth of magnetism. She is a most tasty dresser and carries a wardrobe that is rich in smart frocks of the latest patterns. Mr. Kalisz who is also responsible for the music and lyrics, is a clever French musical comedy star a tenor who came to this country under the management of Charles Frohman and appeared in "The House of Mirth," "The Dream" and other successes.

Sufferers from the blues are recommended to see John and Winnie Hennings. John is one of the funniest men in vaudeville. He is an extremely comical dancer, his piano playing is unique and he sings songs that are real laughs. His

'DON'T KEEP YOUNG.'
YOUTH IS ACTIVITY AND ACTIVITY MAKES ONE
YOUTHFUL," SAYS

Lillian Russell

By LILLIAN RUSSELL.

(Copyright, 1918, By Lillian Russell.)

EVERY woman who is normally healthful should do a certain amount of bending every day of her life.

Notice how heavy you become from sitting around and reading during a whole afternoon.

Take a three or four days' trip on a train and you will realize how necessary bending and action of all kinds are to your vitality. When you leave the train you long for a good stiff walk to limber up your joints and muscles.

Every woman cannot take exercise out of doors. That is a luxury. But every woman can exercise and exercise every day, indoors or out.

Making trifles an exercise may seem simple and ineffective to unthinking people. But just such simple actions as picking up pins and scraps from the floor, dropping a handkerchief and picking it up, properly bending the body from the hips while reaching down, are all exercises beneficial to the health and the prolongation of youth.

The person who says, "Don't exert yourself," unconsciously says, "Don't keep young." Youth is activity and activity is youthful.

Take only as much rest as you require. Never let yourself drop back into enervating lassitude, which is fatal.

Notice how a healthy young girl stands, with both heels together and shoulders back, her spine straight and whole body well poised.

The natural tendency of a woman when sitting at a table, desiring to get closer to her work or to read, is to bend the back bone until the body, from the hips to the neck, resembles a half circle. This position is injurious to the spine and all the internal organs, while keeping the shoulders and head erect and bending forward from the hip joints is beneficial to the health.

The backbone holds the "channel of life," the spinal cord. To it are secured the ribs that protect over vital organs and it is made up of many joints, and is so pliable that we may bend back and forward or twist from side to side with it.

However, it was not intended as a support in stooping over or leaning over. That task should fall upon the hip joints. They are equipped with all the proper hinges for that purpose.

To Keep Waist Slim.

American women wonder why their waists thicken. I have had numerous letters asking for the solution of that condition and I can safely say it is caused by insufficient use of the hip muscles. Too much reclining and relaxation and not enough bending.

Every woman should bend down to the floor fifty times a day, keeping her knees stiff and reaching for something. Such action will limber up all joints and keep them youthful.

It is never too late to begin bending from the hips. It may be difficult at first, if the fat has accumulated around the waist line, but it is only a question of a few days' perseverance in the exercise when the body will bend and a rounded back and shoulders will become straight again.

It is no idle saying that the proper use of the hip joints will retain a youthful figure. When working at a typewriter, washing at a tub, cutting beautiful flowers, or picking up things, always bend the body from the hips.

It is a sad sight to see young girls victims to too good natured or careless parents, for in the bringing up is the fault of round shoulders. The mother, father, elder sister, or brother who will let little girls sit round shouldered over a book and not correct them is absolutely at fault. Teachers in schools should watch the pupils to see that they sit correctly.

To insure a straight back and a beautiful figure the foundation must be begun in childhood, when the bones are soft and pliable. Just a little attention to how the little ones walk and sit will do the greater part, then proper exercise will do the finishing.

When a child walks slouchily it will grow up in the same manner if it is not severely corrected. Talking is generally thrown away on young people; severe correction is necessary. They resent it and call their parents "old-fashioned" and "distasteful," but they will thank them when they are old enough to appreciate what

Bending is Healthful

Such simple actions as picking up pins and scraps from the floor and picking them up properly bending the body from the hips while reaching down, are all beneficial exercises.

trouble they were obliged to go through to make them presentable.

Round Shoulders.

Round shoulders destroy beauty. A round shouldered girl can never look smart, for smart women are particularly straight and erect in figure. Clothes never hang properly on badly shaped shoulders, so look to the children when they are young.

When a girl begins to stoop, start treatment right away. Curtail the "sitting hours," make the girl go in for games and musical drill and physical exercises under a good teacher. Teach her breathing exercises. Make her take long, deep breaths with the mouth shut, the shoulders braced, and the arms hanging for five minutes two or three times a day. Teach her to hold herself properly, to walk erect, and see that her clothing is always loose and well fitting.

A great cause of ill health in school girls may be counteracted by ordinary common sense measures rather than by medical knowledge.

When children are growing too fast and begin to lean forward put a brace on their backs to hold the shoulders back, give them salt baths and rub their little back strongly, and compel them to eat plenty of baked potatoes and oatmeal, for these both have the quality for strengthening the bones.

Make them hold up their chins and when reading or looking at pictures never let them lean over; make them sit back firmly with their backs against a chair while reading.

Sometimes in cases of stooping shoulders there is the possibility of some growing weakness of the spine. To prevent serious future trouble a good physician should be consulted. Pay rather for prevention than cure.

The greatest aid to training a figure is a beautiful model. Point out its perfection to the children. It is a wonderful thing how one beautiful woman who carries herself well will insensibly improve the carriage of those about her. Her example unconsciously compels other women to draw themselves up to match her and even her smile is infectious.

Mothers can be and are the best examples for the future generation, and as women are growing yearly stronger in mind and beauty, so the coming generations will be far more healthy and beautiful in every way than the past or present.

Learn How to Rest.

Every one has to be taught what to do, so carefully study your young people and teach them to grow up in beauty of mind and body. Parents are responsible for their offspring until they make them responsible for themselves.

Learning to rest is difficult. Any one with the will to do can learn to sit and walk correctly while at work, but few learn how to rest. Sleeping is not always resting; neither is doing nothing a good form of rest. There are certain forms of indolence that are more fatiguing than hard work.

Real rest presupposes sufficient sleep and enough of the loosing spirit to get off tension, but it means more than that. One of the surest rests is in relaxing; change of occupation is resting, so also is change of scene and viewpoint.

There is an erroneous idea that if one keeps her shoulders back as far as she can this will keep the body straight.

This is entirely wrong.

The body can best be kept in correct standing position, and perfectly straight, by paying particular attention to the chin and neck and letting the shoulders take care of themselves.

A helpful thought, in keeping the body erect and acquiring a graceful carriage, is to think of the back of the neck as being on a direct line with the spine. The body should curve in at the front waist line, the chin should be in and up, the chest up, the abdomen in, and the weight of the body placed entirely on the balls of the foot.

Remember: Nature has provided the human body with many hinges. Use them and do not make the spinal cord do their work.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MISS I. R.: Discouragement and worry will do more than anything else to make you look old. Look on the bright side of things and take an interest in the small pleasures of everyday life. The tonic for prematurely gray hair will not restore the color—nothing will do that but a dye—but it will prevent it from becoming grayer. I shall send it to you if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. F.: I would not advise you to use olive oil on your face. It is too heavy and will cause a growth of hair. Massage your face each night with a good skin food. This will strengthen the flabby muscles. I shall be glad to send you formula for an excellent skin food, with complete instructions for facial massage; also exercises for developing the neck if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MRS. M. A. F.: I cannot give you the name of a cold cream. There are several on the market, but what agrees with one person's face may not agree with another's. However, if you will send me a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be glad to send you a formula for the cold cream which I use almost constantly. This is not a greaseless cream. While most people consider a greaseless cream the best, it must be remembered that it is the oils in the cream that do the skin the most good. If you use a good astringent lotion after the cream it will prevent a growth of hair.

MARY: I am sorry, but I cannot give you any information about the tonic you mention, as I know nothing about it. I would not advise you to cut your hair. This is sometimes beneficial in a child's case, but in an adult it is not always good. The hair may grow back again and it may not. I would advise you to massage your head about ten minutes each night before retiring. This will help you. I shall be glad to send you formula for tonic and instructions for scalp massage if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

ISABELLE: Annoying facial eruptions have often been observed to follow the eating of excessive amounts of candy or other sweets, buckwheat cakes, oatmeal, doughnuts, sausage, cheese, rich pastry, fried meats, and other indigestible foods. After excluding sugar and starch from the diet for a short time, these eruptions and biliousness have been found to disappear in many cases.

A. R. B. H.: There is nothing better for flat chested people, than deep breathing. This will straighten the shoulders and develop the chest and otherwise improve the general health. No one should be flat chested. A flat chested person always looks bent over and round shouldered. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you a formula for removing wrinkles, freckles, and instructions for deep breathing.

MISS A. O. D.: There is usually some internal cause for dark circles under the eyes. They are sometimes hereditary, but are usually caused from eye strain, lack of sleep, dissipation of any kind, or anemia, and the cure can only be temporary while the cause exists. Bathe the eyes each morning with very cold water, rubbing underneath gently with the tips of the fingers. A good skin food massaged gently underneath the eyes is also good, but be very careful when massaging that you do not press the eyeball and do not get any of the skin food into the eye. I shall send you the formula for the skin food upon receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

MINNIE G.: Are your teeth in good condition? This sometimes is the cause of a bad breath. If they are not, I would advise you to have them attended to immediately. Indigestion sometimes causes a bad breath. Find the cause and remedy it, then it will not be hard to remedy a bad breath. However, while you are doing this the following wash is good: One gram phenol acid, twenty-five grams borax acid, thirty drops thymol of mentha, ten grams tincture of nialce, and three pints distilled water. Rinse the mouth with this, which should be diluted for use in the proportion of one-half tooth wash to same quantity of clear water. Use after each meal and at any time required.

B. E. A.: While in my mind an oily cream is more beneficial to the skin, a great many people prefer a greaseless cream. Three drams gum tragacanth, five drams cologne spirits, fifty drams glycerin, thirty drams stronger rosewater, and twelve drams stronger orange flower water. Rub the gum tragacanth and cologne spirits into a smooth paste, then add the glycerin. Mix this thoroughly, then add the rosewater and orange flower water and beat to a smooth cream. A little of this cream is all that is necessary, as it is easily absorbed.

SOCIETY

MRS. FRANK C. Havens was the hostess yesterday at one of the most elaborate and most perfectly planned receptions of the winter, entertaining delightfully nearly five hundred guests in her beautiful home "Wildwood" at Piedmont.

The reception was given in honor of Mrs. Harold Havens, the beautiful young bride, who is being most cordially welcomed by the many members of her husband's family. Mrs. Havens' beautiful home never was more interesting as the hostess is constantly adding new effects and the home is simply wonderful in its superb Oriental setting. The greatest skill in the arts and crafts that the Orient has to offer finds its best expression in this wonderful home, and the many guests lingered long in the various apartments, enjoying the lovely works of art, rare treasures, the finest types of superb Oriental workmanship. When one crossed the threshold one was transported straightway to the heart of the Orient, to a wonderful palace, not the work of Aladdin, or a magician, but the concrete creation of a western woman, her own thought expressed in an old time architectural type, her dream realized in a home expressing all the rare artistic skill of the far East.

The learning of the East is ancient, its art is old; the best work of man down through the centuries is subtly interwoven in works of art. One must be a great student to appreciate only a part of it, and the essence of all that is best is expressed in Mrs. Havens' home; the East Indian home in our foothills, which bids fair to be one of the most historic homes on our coast.

Other homes lay claim to much beauty, but this is the only one which is absolutely and historically correct. Its magnificent woods, its wonderful brassy, its superb rugs—every detail of its architectural scheme is from the historic art of the Orient, and guests at Wildwood wander through the lovely home, as though they were in a far country, and would wake to find their dream come true.

It was all a dream originally—but it is a dream realized now, and one of the most generous hostesses in the world is glad to share her home with friends, and to have them enjoy the treasures that it has taken years to gather from the Orient.

And in the environment of this wonderful home the very beautiful reception was given yesterday for the young bride whose home will be in our city. Mrs. Havens never allows floral decorations to interfere with the historic decorations of her home so there were for the most part decorations in green, growing ferns in large brass jars, arranged beautifully in the many niches of the home.

The dining room was a charming scheme in yellow, tables being beautifully arranged in the wonderful dining room, which is so quaintly and artistically lighted. Tables were also arranged on the wide veranda and each carried decorations of daffodils, carrying out the scheme of yellow, with yellow chandeliers. The daffodils brought a message of spring, and the windows looked out upon the lovely canyon, in which also one may see the first signs of the spring time.

A stringed orchestra gave well chosen selections throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Havens and her guest of honor, Mrs. Harold Havens, received the visitors of the afternoon in the hall of the home, which is said to be the best expression of Oriental art to be found in our country. They made a charming picture, in themselves, and in the setting.

Mrs. Havens was very lovely, in a most exquisite gown, a flame colored costume, which exactly suited her. The lines were most artistic, and the design unique—a gown original and fascinating. It was trimmed in gold lace, and a cap of gold lace completed a costume, remarkable for its beauty of design. Mrs. Harold Havens was most beautifully gowned in white charmeuse, very elaborately trimmed in crystals and rhinestones. She looked very girlish and sweet in her lovely white gown and carrying an armful of orchids. She is a very charming bride, and a type of beauty very exquisite and original.

Mrs. Havens had a most interesting receiving party, who aided her most effectively in making welcome the large throng of guests who gathered at Wildwood to greet its hostess and her guest of honor.

The gowns of the afternoon were most elaborate, and many matrons of the receiving party and of the guests were lovely studies. Gowns are unique this season, with their clinging lines, and their wonderful designs. We have gone back in many cases to the old days, and many of the gowns seemed specially appropriate in the halls of this East Indian home.

Mrs. Wickham Havens is as helpful as she is beautiful and charming. Her gown of white charmeuse was beautifully trimmed in lace and rhinestones. Mrs. Edward Eng was also gowned in white charmeuse, the bodice showing an exceedingly beautiful arrangement of rare lace.

Mrs. Isaac Requa's gown was a superb creation of black brocade, with elaborate trimming in purple effects. Her ornaments were diamonds. Mrs. George McNear was gowned in white satin, the drapery being of wonderful Chantilly lace, and her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Hiram Johnson came from Sacramento to be present at Mrs. Havens' reception, and to aid her in receiving her guests, as Mrs. Havens performed the same office for her in Sacramento, at the official reception, not long ago. Mrs. Johnson wore an exceedingly handsome gown of green, in the Nile green tones. It was superbly trimmed in heavy ornaments and rhinestones, and the costume was most effective. Many of the guests were very pleased at this opportunity of meeting the popular wife of the governor of our state.

Mrs. Harry Maxwell was gowned in black charmeuse with black net outlining the corsage, and in her hair was becomingly arranged a black bird of paradise.

Mrs. Richard Partington makes a rare and exquisite study always. She was gowned in pale lavender charmeuse, the bodice outlined in very exquisite lace.

Mrs. Richard Partington makes a helpful member of a receiving party, and she was beautifully gowned in pale pink brocade, trimmed in lace, and her ornaments were diamonds.

Mrs. Willis F. Kelly was very stunning indeed, in an elaborate corse gown, with a bodice of rare lace.

Mrs. Louise Allender has rarely looked as well in her artistic gown of very pale pink, with a drape and garniture of very rare lace.

Mrs. George De Golia was gowned in an exceedingly effective way, in a costume of black and white, the corsage trimmed in rare lace.

Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brown was a charming study in blue, and Mrs. D. A. Proctor was exquisitely gowned in white.

Mrs. Frank L. Brown wore a very handsome New York gown of black velvet, with a corsage of rare lace. She was a very charming picture, with an ease and dignity of manner that are truly delightful.

Mrs. Samuel Taylor's gown was effective study in gray, the gown being faintly trimmed in lace.

Mrs. John F. Connors' gown was a stunning study in white, the gown of charmeuse being elaborately trimmed in pearls. A band of pearls worn in the hair completed a handsome costume.

Mrs. P. E. Bowles, who is entertaining Mrs. Hiram Johnson senior, looked very well indeed, wearing the elaborate gown she wore at the Governor's reception in Sacramento.

Mrs. Mary Fairweather was a popular member of the receiving party, and she was very handsomely gowned in black, the gown trimmed in pink, and a touch of pink in her hair.

Very lovely gowns were worn by most of the guests, and among the many exquisite costumes of the afternoon were noticed those worn by the following well known women who were happy indeed to be Mrs. Havens' guests:

Mrs. A. O. Posey	Mrs. Gordon Stolz

SOCIETY'S YOUNG MEN CLEVERLY DEPICTED.

New phases of the social world are being constantly depicted for us by the clever writers of our day. One of them, whose keen analyses are attracting general attention, tells us that "New York high society at the present time has no tone and directs nothing—not even itself."

And then he tells us that the only person who can scale the social heights today without money is the unattached young man. And in regard to the young man we read:

"As a matter of fact, almost the whole world is 'ordinary'—all but a men who amount to something in another world.

"Is that not conquest enough? To be enabled to lord it over a man who is really your superior and with whom you would not have the faintest chance of equality if once you met him on the bloody sands, is a sweet price to receive for this assiduous attention to feminine detail."

"Such a beau is a real blessing to a social woman. He is always a bachelor—actual or potential—and he adds to her resources for enjoyment the cap-sheaf of knowledge of how to obtain it. He knows what people to invite to a function; he knows how to seat them when they have arrived; he knows enough of various subjects to start conversations going at the required moment, and has enough restraint to leave them once they are progressing without him; his wit is never biting but always playful; his remarks will not bear analysis, for then they are likely to sound stupid, but when uttered they appear lively."

"If a dinner lags and becomes stupid—and what hostess does not fear this calamity more than a bankruptcy—he is always capable of doing or saying something to start a laugh or create a diversion. If there are wall-flowers at a ball he finds them partners. If an extra man is needed for a box party he knows how to produce him at a moment's notice."

Not an enviable picture, surely, to paint of an American man, but every one knows it to be a true picture, and the study is made by a very clever writer who lived formerly in San Francisco.

"The single exception! The good-looking unmarried young man, with or without money. In high society he is the most sought, the most desired, the most loved, the most admired of all entities."

"For the women who compose and guide 'society' are more in need of men than of anything else. As a matter of course they have gowns, jewels, dogs, horses, motor cars, servants, houses, and country estates. They even have husbands. But they are always in need of more men. The supply is never equal to the demand."

"The unattached young man maintains a sway that sometimes lasts many years, for which their return is unnumbered invitations to social functions. Nor should one imagine that they place themselves to so much trouble—for they curb their instincts and never permit personal desires to influence them in ignoring the women of social primature—for the mere indulgence in the food and wine and music which is apparently their only portion of reward. Far from that! Their true conquest lies in the fact that thus they are enabled, for certain hours at least, to shine equally and often more resplendently than other

English Beauty Tells Complexion Secrets

("Elise" in American Home.) "Through a fortunate meeting with an English lady, noted for her dazzling complexion, I recently learned the full meaning of that old adage, 'Beauty is but skin deep.' She revealed to me the secrets of my muddy old skin, revealing the young and beautiful skin underneath. The process is so simple, harmless and inexpensive, I'm sure you'll be glad to know about it. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercurized wax at any drug store and apply nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so. Every morning in washing off the wax, tiny particles of worn-out cuticle come off, too. The action is so gentle and gradual, there's no discomfort. It's a wonderful treatment, as it not only gets off the faded or discolored skin, but all of its defects, as chaps, freckles, pimples, blotches, etc., disappear, and soon even the deepest Youthful Appearance.

Every woman owes it to herself and loved ones to retain the youthfulness of nature has bestowed upon her. For over half a century this article has been used by actresses, singers and women of fashion. It renders the skin like the softness of velvet leaving it clear and pearly white and is highly desirable when preparing for daily or evening attire. As it is a liquid and non-greasy preparation, it remains unnoticed. When attending dances, balls or other entertainments, it prevents a greasy appearance of the complexion caused by the skin becoming heated.

Gouraud's Oriental Cream cures skin diseases and relieves sunburn, freckles, tan, pimples, blackheads, moth patches, redness, and vulgar redness. It gives a delicately clear and refined complexion.

THE MOST PRIZED BABY

My! How the Dutch Rejoiced When "the Orange Bud" Was Born! And More and More They Love Her Every Day!

IN EUROPE

She Knows That She's An Important Person. "That's for Me!" She Exclaims When She Hears the Throng Cheer Her.

Although a Princess, Juliana Likes Her Dolls and Toys, and, What Do You Think, She Just Dotes on Her Teddy Bear.

PRINCESS JULIANA of Holland is the most prized baby in Europe, and her mother is worried, fearing that she may become a most spoiled princess. Though the little princess is only a year and a half old she shows an independent disposition supported by plenty of self-will. The other day she knocked at the door of her mother's apartment and was told that she could not come in. After repeating her question a half dozen times she said, "It is little Princess Juliana who wants to come in," putting plenty of stress on the word princess.

Like most little Dutch girls she has a mind and will of her own. Conditions have done much to foster her independence and self-will.

The Queen of Holland waited eight years to have a little daughter and was the happiest mother in the world when a stork brought her this baby. She always has loved children, and when she was a child she was made unhappy because she did not have any brothers or sisters. Every year on her birthday, long before her little girl came, she gave a children's party for all the children at The Hague, when she played with them and gave them all the goodies their stomachs could stand.

Next to being a good queen her greatest ambition always has been to be a good mother to a large family. The greatest sorrow in her married life was that she was childless, so when the stork laid a healthy, rosy Dutch baby in her arms her soul was full of joy and thanksgiving. Every loyal Dutchman and Dutchwoman in her kingdom rejoiced with her in the birth of "their orange bud," forgetting it was only a baby girl instead of a male heir, as they had expected.

"I Want Only Pretty White Dresses!" She Cries—and Who Can Blame Her?

They were happy in knowing they had a future queen who could save them from ever coming under German control and possession, and without her they might have surrendered their liberty.

Therefore Juliana has ever been all joy to the people of Holland.

Likes Her Teddy Bear.

This little Dutch baby has a large assortment of toys that have been sent to her from all parts of the world. Until the present time her favorite toy has been an ugly wooden doll in Dutch peasant costume. This might have continued if she had not spied some costly

French toys hidden away in one of the closets. Among these were beautifully made and dressed French dolls, mechanical toys that had been given to her by the president of France and other distinguished guests. Since that time she has frowned on her simple Dutch dolls and only wants to play with her best dolls, woolly lambs, mechanical toys, and Teddy bear.

Ever since Juliana was born her mother has seen to it that she has spent much time out of doors. This is especially true when they are out in the country or at the seaside. The little girl has spent her days playing in the sand or in her own gardens, brilliant with many colored flowers. The time has come when her mother thinks that she is old enough to become acquainted with the Dutch alphabet. When her governess set her to work she was docile the first few days, but she rebelled at the end of a week, saying, "I'd much rather play than learn letters."

It was only last week that Juliana heard her mother tell a friend that when her little girl was older she would wear the Dutch national costume. The little girl said nothing until her mother's guest was gone, and then she burst into tears, saying, "I don't want to wear homely Dutch dresses. I want to wear pretty white dresses like the little girls wear in the country."

A portrait of her and her mother decorates practically every home in the country. Every thrifty Dutch housewife is pleased that the presents originally prepared for the baby were not wasted. Certainly no princess ever was welcomed by her own people with such lavish presents. Many women of the aristocracy formed little sewing circles and made handsome baby clothes and pillows. Other women embroidered screens for the royal nursery. A white cradle came from the women of Amsterdam, a gold rattle of exquisite workmanship came from the women of Groningen, and a complete set of furniture from the people of the little village of Apeldoorn.

Knows She's a Princess.

There is never any kind of celebration but the Dutch people show their pride and love for their sweet Orange bud by presents, greetings, etc. Last year when the queen took her little girl to Amsterdam 100,000 loyal subjects made holiday and scenes of extraordinary enthusiasm were witnessed when the proud royal mother and her happy faced baby smiled and acknowledged the devotion of these loyal subjects.

Little Juliana was unconscious of all this attention until one day a nurse brought her out on a balcony. There was plenty of shouting and cheering, and when all the noise had subsided the little girl clapped her hands and said, "That's for me."

Since then the fact has dawned on her that she is a child of some real importance. That she is self-conscious has dawned upon the queen, who spends much of her time thinking and worrying how she can rear a little girl to be happy and care free without being self-willed.

Gifts! Gifts! Gifts! From Cottage and Castle All Over the Land Constantly Come to the Little Future Queen.

She knows how many trials and unhappy days her self-will and strong temper cost her and she is determined that Juliana shall profit by her experience. She remembers well how her governess, Miss Winters, punished her time and again by making her draw maps of Europe because she did not acknowledge the greetings of the people. She has decided to use even more drastic measures with her little girl, such as sound spankings if Juliana shows the same determination to have her own way.

If the horoscope of Juliana reads rightly her mother will have to be firm with her, for an enterprising Dutch astrologer says: "Princess Juliana will be trustworthy, honorable, and prudent in word and deed. She will possess great power of will, which, however, will not be uselessly employed. She will be sympathetic and philanthropic and will work disinterestedly and quietly for others without desire for reward, but seeking perfection in all things. The princess also will follow art and science and will have a special talent for music and poetry. Companionable and eloquent of speech, she will possess the knack of getting on well with all sorts of people."

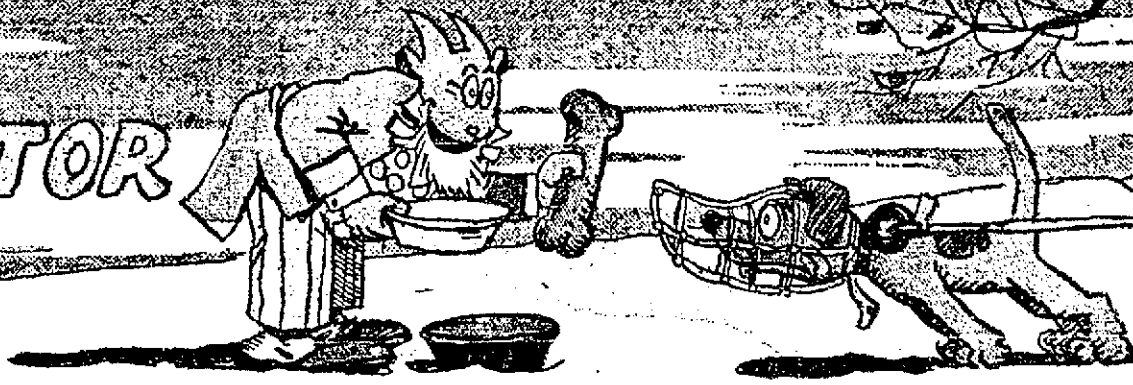

Her Picture Is in Every Home and She Is In Every Heart in Holland.

Bill Provides for Placing 55 Normal Persons on Government Farm

Idyllic Conditions Would Be Arranged Under Eyes of Experts

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—And now it is proposed to put practical eugenics to a test and to show that the human animal, like other animals, can improve his kind under conditions of properly regulated selection.

The California League of Justice has sent to Senator George Hays of Alameda county a bill on which he is conferring with Dr. W. F. Snow, secretary of the state health board.

The bill provides a plan for mating in marriage 25 selected couples on a state farm, where they and their offspring can be reared under idyllic conditions and the eyes of experts.

TO PUBLISH OPINIONS.

Under the League of Justice measure $25,000 is to be spent in securing and publishing opinions of experts on eugenics and formulating plans under the State Board of Health.

Twenty-five thousand dollars is to be expended in buying 1000 acres of land in a high and salubrious location for a mating farm.

Then $50,000 is to be spent on fitting up this farm for agricultural and horticultural work and in the purchase of books, magazines and periodicals interesting to students of eugenics.

And when this haven is ready, 25 males and 25 females are to be selected for mating there. Here are the tabulated measurements and conditions necessary for starting the work of perfecting the race:

CONDITIONS TABULATED.

Males:
Height 6 feet.
Weight 175 pounds.
Health robust.
Five senses, normal.
Height of father, 5 feet 10 inches.

Height of mother, 5 feet 8 inches.
Weight of mother, 160 pounds.

Females:

Weight 160 pounds.
Health robust.
Five senses, normal.
Height of father, 5 feet 10 inches.
Weight of father, 160 pounds.
Height of mother, 5 feet 8 inches.
Weight of mother, 150 pounds.

EXPERIMENTAL WARDS.

These fifty novitates shall enter on solemn agreement to serve as experimental wards of the state for 25 years.

Under the direction of the Board of Health they are to be selected and married, and the children are to be reared for at state expense.

It is insisted that children born under such circumstances will have higher qualities of manhood and womanhood and make far better citizens than children born under conditions of unrestricted mating of sub-normal men and women.

Churchmen Seek Order Restraining Rev. Whitaker From Following New Doctrine

Defeated Trustees Allege That Minister Is Using Church Property Illegally

SAN JOSE, Feb. 1.—Can an orthodox Baptist Church practice any faith other than that laid down in the New Hampshire confession, which provides for baptism by immersion with water, was the question presented to the Superior Court of Santa Clara county for decision today when a temporary restraining order was issued preventing Rev. Robert Whitaker, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Los Gatos, from following any other doctrinal standard than that prescribed by the founders of the Los Gatos church.

The controversy is over immersion, which has divided the congregation of the Los Gatos church, reached its climax with the election of a board of trustees who are favorable to the doctrine preached and taught by the pastor and which are in direct conflict with the principles laid down by the founders of the local institution thirty years ago.

ARE HARD LOSERS.

The plaintiffs constitute the retiring board of trustees of the church and they represent about half of the church membership. They are C. N. Wheeler, C. H. Joy, W. J. F. Givels, E. E. Wagner and Joseph Chilton. They allege that they constitute the official board of trustees.

They named as defendants the Rev. Robert Whitaker, pastor of the church and recent Socialist candidate for Congress, and a new board of trustees, N. E. Beckwith, W. V. Thompson, George E. Fox, E. E. Maynard and J. O. Mansfield.

MISS ELMOR D. WISE, WHO WILL WED THE "CATCH OF FRANCE" AND "THE CATCH."

Baltimore Belle to Become Bride of Duc de Richelieu

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 1.—Duc de Richelieu, who is to wed Miss Elmor Douglas Wise of this city, arrived today from France and the wedding will take place next Saturday. The ceremony will be performed at noon by Cardinal Gibbons in the cathedral at a nuptial mass, a dispensation having been granted by Cardinal Gibbons for the marriage to take place in Lent.

Miss Wise, who is being instructed, will be received into the Catholic church before that date. She arrived in Baltimore this week after an absence of five years spent abroad.

Miss Leslie Frick, the young niece of Miss Wise, will be her maid of honor and only attendant.

The engagement follows a romantic courtship in Paris, and as Miss Wise is by no means an heiress and as the duke is exceedingly rich the attraction is purely personal—unlike most international marriages of recent date.

They met at a dinner party given in Paris by Mrs. Barton French of New York. Mrs. French, who is a great friend of Miss Wise, told her she had the opportunity to meet the greatest catch in France and one for whom every American heiress had been angling for years.

Miss Wise, with delightful indifference, paid no attention to the duke, who immediately fell madly in love with her and followed up the meeting with serious attentions, resulting in an engagement.

He belongs to one of the oldest and most distinguished families of France, has a beautiful town house and three chateaus.

In speaking of her plans, Miss Wise said: "After our marriage we shall go to Rome, where we shall have an audience with the holy father. We shall then go to the Riviera, to visit at Monte Carlo, my future husband's mother, the Princess of Monaco. Later we shall go to England."

By Mrs. Belmont against her husband will be filed during the week. The former actress is suing on the grounds of desertion and non-support. The plea will include a demand for large alimony. After their marriage the young couple lived in the Gosford apartments for two weeks and then Belmont suddenly disappeared. Efforts extending several days to serve Raymond Belmont with a summons in the case have failed and today it was learned that he was having a vacation in South Carolina. Application will be made in the Supreme court next week for permission to serve him by publication. Mrs. Belmont, who continued her residence in the Gosford apartments under the name of Ethel Lorraine, left that address last week without giving any indication of her new address. Her lawyers say they are aware of her present address, but at her request refuse to give it out.

Albert Liner, father of Mrs. Belmont, reiterated his offer today to provide a home for the pair in case they should come together.

Suffragettes Smash Crown-Jewel Case in the Tower With Stones

Churchill's Child Is Guarded Against Kidnapers; Parliament in Panic

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Suffragettes today smashed with stones the glass cover of one of the cases in the jewel room of the Tower of London where the Crown jewels are kept. They were arrested and sent to Bow street.

This attack is in line with the militant suffragettes' expressed purpose to attack all of the government property.

Leaders in parliament, panic-stricken because of the militant methods of the suffragettes seldom venture into the streets now with out body guards. Their homes are also protected night and day by specially assigned police who have been warned to prevent incendiary fires or other damages.

Lloyd George has given up his favorite amusement of appearing in public restaurants and intends to eat his meals in the house of commons dining room.

Alarmed by rumors that his child would be kidnaped, Winston Churchill has four policemen constantly on guard outside his house. He is not lacking in personal courage but his beautiful wife has urged the authorities to take ample precautions against the suffragettes. The Churchill baby is invariably followed by plain clothes men from Scotland Yard when the nurse takes the child out for an airing.

Prime Minister Asquith objects strongly to having a bodyguard, but the police captain is not at all satisfied with the promises of the suffragettes to respect human life. He has

Transfusion of Blood May Be Necessary to Save Life

Leaving a letter instructing that his body be turned over to a medical college. C. W. Beck, a plumber of 2605 Central avenue, Alameda, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon in a rooming house at 822 Broadway, by inhaling gas through a rubber tube held in his mouth. He was removed to the receiving hospital where after several hours' effort at resuscitation, physicians announced that he had a chance of recovery through transfusion.

Notified of the circumstances, Mrs. Ada Beck, who is the would-be suicide, visited the hospital, accompanied by Rev. L. P. Russell, a friend of the family. She identified the victim, who was still undergoing treatment, and after remaining at the hospital for a short time left for her home.

In a letter addressed to his wife, Beck stated that he was dying to make her happy and asked her to settle her affairs here and to return East with their small child.

"You will be better off without me," he wrote. "When I turn on the gas it will be to make you happy."

Writing to Harry Knauff, a friend, Beck instructed him to have his body cremated or to give it to a medical college for payment of costs in his case.

Owing to the large quantity of gas consumed by the would-be suicide, and the seriousness of his condition, a pulmotor, loaned by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, was used with telling effect, prolonging his life for several hours according to the attending physician.

Young Woman Gives Blood To Save Life of Her Father

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The life blood of a healthy and strong young woman of 23 summers given freely in a desperate effort to save her father from death as a result of accidental asphyxiation, proved the necessary instrument to add the surgeon's skill at the California Emergency hospital this afternoon and now Sam Maxwell, retired and a former resident of Venice, is said to be on the road to recovery.

His daughter, Mrs. Fannie Norton, of 1050 O'Farrell street, who jeopardized her existence to save her parent, and who bravely allowed several pints of her blood to be transfused into his veins, is also out of danger. Maxwell came here to visit his daughter, a pretty brunette who is separated from her husband. When Maxwell did not meet his daughter today as agreed she hurried to his room and found him unconscious. Gas was escaping from defective tubing. He was hurried to the hospital where Dr. Harrison found that the only thing that would save his life would be a quantity of new blood.

Chief Surgeon Alanson Wood assisted by Dr. Harrison, performed the operation.

Court Awards Woman $1 Damages Against Bishop

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 1.—Bishop David M. Moore of Cincinnati will pay Mrs. Carrie E. Cope of Topeka $1 damages for alleged libel in a letter which he wrote to Mrs. George Robinson of Detroit, urging the central of missionary funds be taken from Mrs. Cope, if he submit to the judgment of a jury in that court. Mrs. Robinson, also a defendant, will not have to pay Mrs. Cope anything, according to the verdict. Costs of the case were assessed to the defense. Mrs. Cope sued for $50,000 on letters written by the Methodist Episcopal bishop, who decided in favor of Mrs. Robinson when she and Mrs. Cope, heads of rival home missionary societies, claimed $11,000 willed by Mrs. Fanny Murray of Atchison, Kan., for mission purposes. In the trial Bishop Moore said he had refused to apologize to Mrs. Cope for saying she was not the proper person to handle the funds and that he still believed as he had written.

FOURTH ATTEMPT MADE TO ROB STORE ON HOPKINS STREET

Neighbor Witnesses Operations and Sends Five Shots in Thieves' Direction

FIVE revolver shots fired at three burglars who were trying to jimmy the front door of a grocery store conducted by L. D. Adams, 1538 Hopkins street, shortly after 8 o'clock last evening, threw the neighborhood into a commotion and resulted in a hurried call being sent into the Central police station. The shots were fired by L. D. Turner, who lives across the street from the store and who had watched the operations of the three men for several minutes before he opened fire. Before the police arrived the men had escaped and no trace of them could be found.

Mice Eat Apple in Water Color Painting

Birds that Pecked Parthenon Grapes Had Nothing on Chicago Rodents.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Plutarch relates that Phidias, the sculptor, copied nature so faithfully in his designs for the frieze of the Parthenon that birds frequently cracked their bills pecking at the grapes wrought in marble.

A close analogy to this historic anecdote was experienced by Mrs. Clara M. Sims of the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois at Champaign. Mrs. Sims is a painter of still life in water colors. She has a large collection of paintings of apples, pears, grapes and foliage.

On Friday she painted a large red apple hanging from a sprig, which was mounted with green foliage. She left the painting in her office at the college. When she returned this morning she found that mice had eaten the whole of the apple and had left the sprig and foliage intact.

The attempt to enter the store is the fourth time that burglars have operated at this place within the last 18 months. Each time the parties have shown a boldness that has amazed the police and for some time the neighborhood has been in a state of nervousness upon panic through the sensational manner in which Adams, the proprietor, has been apparently singled out as a victim.

As a result of depredations committed in the vicinity of Hopkins and Randolph streets, neighbors have armed themselves and it was just such an emergency that resulted in the shots being fired by Turner last night.

It is not believed that either of the men were struck by the flying bullets, as no blood was found leading away from the front door. Marks of the jimmy were plainly discernible upon the door jam but the trio were frightened away before they had effected an entrance.

STORE IN LONELY SPOT.

Inspectors Green and Nells rushed to the scene in an automobile and conducted an investigation. Turner, told of firing the shots and evidences of his marksmanship were found in his panels of the front door and around the entrance.

The Adams store is opposite Beulah park and in a lonely neighborhood where passersby are infrequent. On each previous occasion when the store has been the object of night attack, the parties have found ready means of escape into the surrounding territory, either through the park or along the streets.

Less than two months ago, two men entered the store about 8 o'clock on Saturday night, bound and gagged Adams and tied him to a chair. He helplessly watched the burglars go through the cash drawer and remove $50 in gold and silver. They then fled and shortly after his neighbor, Turner, appeared on the scene and turned the aged man loose. He notified the police and a thorough search was made in the neighborhood but without result. Adams told the police that the burglars had overlooked about $300 hidden in a box beneath the counter.

THIRD ATTEMPT.

At another time Adams was awakened, according to his story, in the middle of the night, hearing some one trying to pry open the door. He said that he had fired at them. The bullet holes were conspicuously in evidence in the panels but that time also the burglars had vanished completely. On a previous attempt Adams was robbed and later saw the robber board a passing car and escape.

Just what is behind the persistent efforts which seem to be concentrated upon the Adams store in that particular neighborhood is a question that is puzzling the police.

"There were holes in the door, pointed out by Turner," said Inspector Green last night. "But the holes did not look any too fresh to me. I think there must be a mistake somewhere. Anyhow, the shots were fired as the neighbors attested."

Adams disclaims that there is anyone who might have a grudge against him and in view of the circumstances, the police are puzzled.

There's No Mistake About This Postmark

Postcard from Oakland Properly Bears Sign of Heavenly Origin.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 1.—A card "from heaven," postmarked Oakland, was received today by Assemblyman Arthur E. Smith, speaker of the lower house, which read: "$350,000 is enough property either in money, land, or any property, for a man to dispose of by will, and I recommend that your laws refuse to take note of any larger amount."

"Heaven," 63-1-1.

"What I can't figure out," said Smith, "is how a card from heaven could be postmarked Oakland."

pointed out that some of the younger and more ardent suffragettes have openly threatened to throw vitriol, which the police consider almost as serious as murder.

Incendiary fires are most feared by the authorities. They firmly believe attempts will be made to burn the principal government buildings. The force of night police in the neighborhood of Westminster consequently has been doubled.

The price paid for any great chapter of history in any country," said Mrs. Pankhurst, suffragette leader, "is enormous and sometimes costs human life. The other side has not paid with any lives but we have. I have, for my sister died three days after her release from prison. Physicians said death was due to the harsh treatment she received while a prisoner. We've lost many others, too, who died as a result of prison treatment."

Mrs. Pankhurst is extremely busy. In fact too busy to go to prison, much to her sorrow. Her labors are somewhat lightened by the assistance of Miss Zelle Emerson of Detroit, who looks after much of the detail work.

"I wish," said Mrs. Pankhurst, "that you would give my sympathizers in the United States a message through the International News Service. Tell them we haven't lost courage, that we intend to keep up a relentless warfare by using every conceivable method possible until we have succeeded in getting the vote."

Instead of the mad, dashing enthusiasm characteristic of Mrs. Pankhurst of a year ago, she has now assumed a reserve, seemingly due to the calm fortitude. But her spirit of determination to win has, if anything, increased. Her hair is grayer and at times a certain sadness is detected in her voice. Occasionally she struggled to stem tears as she reviewed the hard battles of the last seven years.

"We must have the help of our friends in America," she said. "We have a war chest that will hold as much money as they can afford to send us. Now that our bill has been thrown out of Parliament our fight will be greater than ever. But we haven't lost one ounce of courage and mean to fight the good fight to a finish."

Those who have gone to prison in the last few days have gone bravely. They are eager to come out again only that they may resume the fight. What better illustration of purity could one ask for?

"We will have the ballot within the next year or two. It must come. We will never permit the public to live peacefully until we have succeeded. We haven't anything against the shop-keeper, we don't like to break his windows. In fact we are his best customers. But we know that he won't get tired of this and will demand that the government shall give us a vote. And once we get suffrage in England the entire world will soon follow."

SEEK TO RESTRAIN REV. R. WHITAKER

Los Gatos Church Members Object to Pastor's Doctrine.

others are Christians who have received the New Hampshire confession as their doctrinal standard, that they belong to a congregation that was organized under the rules of the Baptist church on July 1, 1184, under the name of the First Baptist Church of Los Gatos.

They incorporated the following year "for the purpose of holding and conducting meetings for worship according to the rules, regulations and discipline of the Baptist church and to do such acts of charity and benevolence as may seem best."

Following their incorporation they acquired property and erected a church edifice which was maintained by those of the same belief as the founders.

NEW CHURCH FORMED.

The pastor and those named as constituting the new board of directors are alleged to have held a meeting on May 16, 1912, for the purpose of severing their connection with the Baptist church and repudiating the constitution, rules and regulations of the Baptist church and the New Hampshire confession and with intent to fraudulently deprive the congregation of the benefit of its corporate franchise and for the purpose of diverting the property of the corporation from the use it was originally dedicated.

DOCTRINE DIFFERENT, CLAIM.

Those opposed to the teaching of Pastor Whitaker allege that the minister has introduced a new and distinct religious society, which teaches a different doctrine from that of the New Hampshire confession and which refuses to set forth any creed or articles of faith although it does teach that Christian baptism by immersion in water is not pre-requisite to a church relation, but that baptism should be left to be determined by the individual believer and should not be forced upon any one as a condition of fellowship with other believers in a church of Christ.

CHURCH PROPERTY USED.

The defendants are alleged to have formed a new congregation consisting of persons following the leadership of the Rev. Robert Whitaker and to have received in fellowship a large number of persons who will not receive the New Hampshire confession. They allege that the church property is being used in furthering this work. The plaintiffs ask that they be declared the legal board of trustees and that the defendants be permanently enjoined from using the church property.

WAS OAKLAND PASTOR.

Rev. Robert Whitaker was pastor of the Twenty-third avenue Baptist Church, East Oakland, for several years, and about six years ago was in the limelight locally on account of making the general charge that graft existed in several of the departments of the Oakland city government. When called upon to prove his charges in open city council meeting, Rev. Whitaker failed to substantiate his accusations.

SLINGSBY CASE IN CHANCERY

English Court Will Now Decide Legitimacy of California Heir.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Proceedings began in the Chancery court next Monday relating to the estate of Rev. Dr. Slingsby, whose Yorkshire properties and acres are being contested by his eldest son, Lieutenant Slingsby, now a resident of California. Lieutenant Slingsby recently became possessed of his own inheritance from his father's estate, but the chancery court is now asked to decide as to the disposition of another portion of the estate valued at several hundred thousand pounds. Part of this property is being claimed by Lieutenant Slingsby for his son by his wife, Dorothy, who was born in California. The lieutenant's youngest brother is contesting this claim and asserts that the child mentioned died soon after birth and the natural son of a Sonoma county school girl was substituted. The result of the present proceedings depends upon the establishment of the child's identity. The case which is listed as Slingsby vs. Slingsby, will be heard before Justice Parker and the proceedings will be strictly private, as it will be heard as "chamber summons."

This means that the press and public will not be admitted to the court room.

Several prominent London counsel have been engaged for the case. Four applications will be made to Judge Parker on strictly legal points. They relate to the production of certain documents and evidence. This procedure is indicated as preliminary to an action which will be heard in open court later when the terms of Rev. Mr. Slingsby's will will be adjudicated.

They have and still do maintain that the millionaire was insane.

Not until the fifth inning did more than three Stanford batters face him, and it was then that he allowed the lone Stanford hit.

HANS IS AGAINST STATE GAME HOG

Introduces a Bill Which Will Probably Solve Question Now Cause of Worry.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Senator George J. Hans of Alameda county, chairman of the Senate committee on fish and game, has had a controversy with Frank M. Newbert, president of the State Fish and Game Commission, and leader in the fight to keep the wild game of the commonwealth from the mouths of the people, conserving it for the tables of the rich. Hans is against the game hog.

"Why do you want to prevent the sale of wild ducks?" asked the Alameda Senator.

"Because we cannot control the market hunter," replied Newbert.

"But you can control the market hunter," insisted Hans.

"Not if we had all the state militia behind us," retorted Newbert.

"I'll show you how," retorted Hans, and out of the controversy prepared a bill that he presented today. This measure provides that all persons engaged in hunting game or animals for profit shall be liable to a fine of $500 and give bonds in $500 each that they will keep the law providing the game bag limit and all other fish and game laws.

CAN OBTAIN LICENSES.

If the applicant is found to be a good citizen not having had a hunting license revoked before during 5 years he may secure a license on payment of $2.50 a year. None but citizens may secure these licenses. There are provisions that the hunter must make full reports of his kill. All common carriers must report their receipts of game to the Fish and Game Commissioners. The penalty provided is a fine of from $20 to $500 or imprisonment for from 10 to 100 days, or both.

Thirty-five bills which come from the Fish and Game Commission were introduced in the Assembly today by Assemblyman John Gull of Chico, chairman of the committee on fish and game. They represent the desire of the committee and the recommendations of the great fish and game protective association. Gull put them in by request and says that he has not committed himself on the support or non-support of any of the measures.

Some of the bills are directed toward the making of shooting in California better for the sportsman by stopping the sale of wild game, but there are others that will tend to break up the gun club privileges. One of these is to stop the baiting of ponds.

Other important measures put forth are directed against the fish trust and aim to give the people more fish at lower prices.

The same bills will be introduced in the Senate Monday by Senator Hans, chairman of the fish and game committee of the upper house.

A bill to protect birds and fish was introduced today by Senator Campbell. It introduced the discharge of oil, coal tar or any refuse of coal or petroleum on waters within twenty miles of the coast.

"Unloaded" Gun Users.
Classed as Murderers

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Careless users of firearms, mistaken hunters or who shoot "unloaded" guns, will stand under the law in the same position as those who kill willfully if a bill by Senator A. E. Boynton, majority leader, is successful. Boynton has introduced a bill to restrict the sale of firearms to those who do not show actual necessity for their use.

His bill today says:

"The mistaken belief that a human being is some other animal does not constitute a defense in the case of homicide."

Want Credit of State for Irrigation Bonds

Public Towels May be Ousted by State Law

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Public towels will be abolished if a bill by Senator Strobridge gets through the legislature. The bill was introduced today. It says that towels in every place except private residences can be used by only one person.

Another Strobridge bill provides for sanitary conditions in dairies and insures pure milk and cream.

OAKLAND JOCKEYS GIVEN FAREWELL

Jockey George Archibald and Jockey Eddie Dugan, who will leave for Europe, were hosts last night to a farewell banquet given to about fifty of their friends in the home of John Millin, 1852 Park avenue, Emeryville.

Both of the boys are well known in Oakland, where they make their homes. Both formerly were star riders at the Emeryville tracks and are well known to thousands of racegoers in California and throughout the country. Archibald will ride in Germany for the Oppenheim stable and Jockey Dugan will return to Australia, where he will be in the employ of a nobleman who owns a large stable.

The youngsters of the turf have been spending several months in this city and they will leave together in a few days.

DRINKS ON BAR WHEN MASKED MEN ENTER

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Q. Guaraldi, one of the proprietors of the Three Brothers restaurant, had just placed drinks on the bar for two customers at 11 o'clock when a masked bandit entered and forced him to throw up his hands. The robber paid little attention to the customers in the place other than to cover the entire party with his gun, but he spoke quickly and demanded the money from the cash.

Guaraldi handed over $35 and the three quickly withdrew. Outside he was joined by two companions who had evidently kept watch for the police. Before the cash had gone a full week, police officers were on the alert and a dozen officers responded. The captives, however, slipped through their hands and escaped.

HURL HOT WORDS IN WORKS' FIGHT

Six-Year-Term Resolution is Cause of Torrid Session in Senate.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—The Republicans and Democrats clashed again in the Senate today over the Sanford resolution to commend Senator Works and endorse his measure for a six-year term for Presidents.

Again the steam roller of the majority rolled over them, and now they are breathing fire and promising all sorts of things for the after-recess session of the legislature. They believe they can break apart the majority, which is part Progressive and part Republican, and get sufficient strength to swing things their own way.

BULL MOOSE ATTACKED.

Senator Sanford made a motion to have his original motion taken from the table, where it was laid by the motion of Senator Gates yesterday. He was defeated. Later in the day he sprang a new move, put in a new resolution, got it before the Senate and talked to his heart's content about Senator Works and the six-year term.

Sanford called the Progressives "a bunch of fakirs," referred to their leader, Colonel Roosevelt, as the "bravest man in the world," who clung up San Juan Hill behind a negro regiment as a windbreak.

"Senator Works got behind the real progressive of the nation, Woodrow Wilson," said Sanford.

"Are you going to abandon the man you elected to the United States Senate two years ago because a Democrat wants to commend him for his great work on behalf of the six-year term?" taunted Senator Caminetti, who was arrested in the Senate yesterday for his obstreperous part in the Works row.

Senator Gates, who was the leader of the opposition to the resolution, called it "hypocritical masquerading," and "moved that it be postponed until the second day after the 30-day recess."

At the end of the discussion that consumed an hour and a half Gates' motion was carried by a vote of 21 to 12 and the Democrats were left to their smoldering passions of reprisal later in the day.

S. F. HARBOR BILL STILL HIGH IN AIR

T. Cary Friedlander Has Difficult Time Finding Sponsor for Measure.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—T. Cary Friedlander, secretary of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, has been in Sacramento all day trying to have introduced the chamber's bill substituting an honorary board of seven for the present salaried board of three in the control of San Francisco harbor. When Friedlander made his visit earlier in the week he persuaded Assemblyman Jimmy Ryan of San Francisco to send up his bill in the Assembly and thought he had it fixed that Senator Boynton of Butte would introduce a similar bill in the Senate. But Boynton turned the bill over to Senator Tom Firth, leader of the San Francisco delegation. Then Ryan saw the Governor and the Governor frowned on the bill. So neither he nor Firth would so much as send the measure to the desk "by request." They notified Friedlander that the Chamber of Commerce would have to find other sponsors for the bill.

FRIEDLANDER AGAIN.

So up came Friedlander again and he spent much time in hunting some one who would present the measure. One legislator after another shook his head.

"My, but they all seem under control here this session," moaned the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the metropolis.

Then Friedlander tried to see the Governor and attempt to convert him to his views. But he did not succeed in getting any nearer the gubernatorial throne of grace than Alex. McCabe and the outer office.

SECRETARY FUSED.

"It looks very much as if the Governor don't want to see me," he fussed gloomily. He thought he might have to go as far as San Diego to get a San Francisco Chamber of Commerce bill introduced at last accounts he was still hunting a sponsor for a measure that the Governor had not approved in advance.

When Governor Johnson was asked by a TRIBUNE correspondent what he thought of the bill he replied:

"The bill is on my desk. I have not read it yet. I am not disposed to change the harbor board as now constituted unless there is good reason for it."

TO RESUME WAR TOMORROW MORN

Americans and Other Foreigners in Balkans Are in No Danger.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Dispatches to Secretary of State Knox from various sources in the Balkans today declared plans have been made to reopen hostilities at 7 o'clock Monday night, but that Americans and other foreigners in the territory involved are in no danger.

Minister Jackson at Belgrade reported that the Bulgarians have mined the entire shore of the sea of Marmora, occupied by the Bulgarian troops, and Minister Schurman at Athens informed the department that no vessels will be allowed to enter the harbor of Salonika after nightfall. Ambassador Rockhill at Constantinople announced all Americans are safe there.

NORTH OAKLAND BAPTIST CHURCH GETS PASTOR

The North Oakland Baptist church, Twenty-ninth street and San Pablo avenue, was incorporated a few days ago under the name of the Richard Clark Baptist church, after one of the founders of the church, who passed away about two years ago. The church has been without a pastor for about five months. The Rev. Taylor M. Davis having resigned. Rev. L. A. Brown, who has been acting since the resignation of Dr. Davis was tendered, is in receipt of a letter of recent date from the Rev. Dr. G. C. Coleman, D. D., of Washington, D. C., with whom the church has been corresponding, that he would arrive in Oakland about the 5th or 6th of February. Dr. Coleman comes highly recommended and the church is ready to receive him. He will preach his first sermon the second Sunday in February, the 8th.

GREAT LABOR BODY TO FIGHT THE STEEL TRUST

Strike of Men in Pittsburg
District Called by Federation.

Move Declared to be Opening Gun in Battle That is to be Waged.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 1.—War was declared here today by the American Federation of Labor on the United States Steel corporation. Following a mass meeting of the 2000 strikers from the Rankin and Braddock wire mills late this afternoon Frank L. Morrison, secretary of the Federation, issued a call for a general strike in all the steel corporation mills in the Pittsburg district.

Should the call be heeded 40,000 will come out next week. This conflict here, Morrison declared, was the opening gun in the great battle organized labor will wage upon the steel corporation.

BEGINNING OF BIG FIGHT.
Hostilities outlined in a statement last October by Samuel Gompers, Morrison says, will begin now in all the plants of the steel corporation. It will involve Chicago, Gary, Ind., Cleveland, Buffalo, Pueblo, Colo., and in fact every place where the steel corporation has a mill. In urging the men to come out Morrison said:

"This is the first step in our big fight for recognition by the steel trust. President Gompers and I discussed this affair earnestly. I can pledge to the steel workers in the Pittsburg district that a nation-wide contribution will be taken up to provide a strike fund large enough to enable us to continue the strike here for a year. The steel trust is ready to spend millions to prevent the unionizing of its mills and the Federation of Labor will spend millions to win its fight for the betterment of working conditions."

SEEK CONFERENCE.
An effort was made by the strikers to get a conference today with the officials of the company. This was refused. General Manager Jewett of the American Steel and Wire Co., said: "We are standing pat. There won't be any recognition of the union. The mills will be running Monday morning and we will take back any men who apply as individuals. But we won't discuss wage scales or other conditions. If the men want to work for us they can have their jobs. If they want to follow the labor agitators they can do that. We'll run the mills, no matter what course the strikers take."

OPEN SHOP OPPOSED.
SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 1.—As a part of the campaign that has been waged for months in the interest of a 100 percent union organization of mine workers throughout the anthracite field, about 6,500 employees of the Lackawanna Coal Company struck today at eight collieries. They refused to work with non-union men, engineers being included in this list, the miners insisting that they should belong to their organization.

HEALTH BOARD RECOMMENDATION

Raise of Salary for Secretary
Is Among Requests Made.

VALLEJO, Feb. 1.—The board of health submitted recommendations to the City Council this week. Among others was a request to raise the salary of registrar of the board, Arthur Klotz, from $25 a month to $50.

Several changes in the city jail were also recommended.

WOMAN DEFAMED BY SIGN WRITER

Hayward Is Shocked by Huge Notice Which Attacks Resident.

HAYWARD, Feb. 1.—A prominent Hayward woman and a number of other persons were discovered this morning to have been the victims of an attempt at defamation, the name of the woman in question being used in a serious allegation, which was painted in large letters extending for about twenty feet over the front wall of the Native Sons hall.

The infamous notice attracted a large crowd and created a sensation in the city, in which the person scandalized is well known and highly respected. Constable Ramage was summoned and, under his directions the entire front of the hall was immediately repainted, obliterating the obnoxious lettering. Endeavors are being made to trace the author of the notice and arrests will probably follow soon.

It is thought that malicious persons have been at work with the intention of harming the object of their attack, and the allegations are known to be absolutely without foundation.

NATIVE SONS TO SNOWBALL TODAY

Last Night.

Winter sports upon the snow covered slopes of Truckee pass will be indulged in today by about 300 members of Native Sons' Parlor about the bay, Sacramento and Antioch. A special train bearing this party left Oakland last evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The excursion is being handled by Athens' Parlor No. 195, of Oakland, and is an annual affair, which has been very much enjoyed in other years. The special train consisted of six Pullmans, a diner and observation car and will arrive at Truckee this morning. The day will be spent in tobogganing, skating on Donner lake, skiing and snowballing.

At 10 o'clock Sunday night the return trip will be started, the special being scheduled to arrive in Oakland Monday morning at 7 o'clock. The committee in charge includes Edward Babue, C. F. Corrigan and A. L. Gerhardt.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 1.—The jolly flock of Elks from the local lodge in making preparations to attend the Winter Carnival at Truckee on February 15, a special train leaving here on Saturday night of the 15th in time to be on hand in Alameda the following morning. En route this train will pick up other Elks to increase the host and ample provision will be made for the comfort of all that plan to go. The special train will consist of a solid vestibule Pullman, with observation car and diner.

This train will leave Oakland pier on Saturday evening at 7:05 o'clock, and returning will reach Oakland at 7:15 Monday morning. This will allow the excursionists a visit at Truckee from 6:30 Sunday morning until 9 o'clock that night.

The Truckee Chamber of Commerce has been making extensive preparations for this festival, which has become an annual affair. There are fine sleighing tours laid out, one skirting Donner lake, another going to Lake Tahoe, 14 miles distant from Truckee. A toboggan slide a half mile in length with sufficient rope to give the necessary thrills to the tobogganers, has been provided, and at present there are full six feet of snow handy to provide material for all the pleasures on the program. Snow-balling will be one of the features of the Elks' visit, picked teams having been selected to assure a battle that shall go down in the history of Elksdom.

Arrangements for all details, such as berths and fares, can be made through the local club. The committee in charge of the trip consists of J. E. Murray, L. R. Winnaman, L. E. Dickey, Val C. Smith, William Hammond, Jr., Robert Birmingham, William Weinmann and John Walker.

MADE $20 GROW ON ONE-DOLLAR BILL

But the Work Was Crude and
Got Wise.

After trying to pass a one dollar bill which had been raised to $20 through the application of figures cut from Confederate currency, a young man fled from the liquor store of W. B. Quigley at Tenth and Clay streets last evening, leaving the bill and his hat behind.

The mysterious stranger presented the bill in payment for a drink. Al Kearney, the bartender, became suspicious of the paper and ascertained that it was not altogether legal, particularly in the corners. He endeavored to engage the customer in conversation and at the same time notify the police. When he stepped into another room to telephone the man started toward the door. Kearney, anticipating the move, sprang after him. The fugitive lost his hat but made his escape in spite of the fact that several passersby attempted to intercept him.

Captain of Inspectors Agnew was furnished with a good description of the culprit and believes that he will soon have him in custody.

Anyhow, he says that there is a perfectly good hat, made in Germany, which the looter can have by calling at the Central station within the next few days.

LICENSE SYSTEM TO BE CHANGED

The Fortune Tellers Must Pay Quarterly Tax in Vallejo.

VALLEJO, Feb. 1.—The need of re-arrangement of the present system of city licenses is now being discussed by the City Council, which organization has found the local charges to be extremely low when compared with those in other cities.

Yesterday action was taken in regard to fortune tellers and other fakers of that description, who will have to contribute $50 per quarter to the city in the future. It will also be necessary for the place of business to be specified, which will hinder house to house canvasses. At present these people pay no license whatever.

"It is only a question of time before this investigation becomes a national affair," said Johnson.

RED TIE REVOLT IN S. F. HIGH SCHOOL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Ten members of the senior class in Commercial High school have been suspended by the principal, Colonel Charles H. Murphy, and their classmates are furious. The seniors plan to walk out in a body Monday if Murphy refuses to revoke the order of suspension against the ten.

Red ties and red sweaters are the insignia of the seniors, who are angry because the juniors control the school paper and have shut them out of it. The suspended boys defied the school authorities by wearing flaming scarves.

From among the wearers of red ties ten were selected by the principal for punishment, with the announcement that he believed that this would serve sufficiently as an example and he would stop at ten.

GOWNS AND WOMEN MAKE COTILLION BRILLIANT

Classic Ballroom of Hotel Oakland Scene of Social Event

The third dance of the Winter Cotillion last night was one of the most brilliant affairs of the season, perfect in all its appointments, and enjoyed by a large number of society folk of Oakland. The beautiful classic ballroom of Hotel Oakland never looked more charming than it did last night, when the stunning gowns of the dancers added a bright note of color to its effect of cream color and dull blue, mingled with the green of the decorations.

A number of dinner parties before the ball gave an impetus of merry-making to the occasion which did not wane during the evening. Dr. E. J. Boyes was a host at the Hotel Oakland to a dinner party of ten, numbering among his guests his brother, Dr. Ernest Boyes, who has made the arrangements for the cotillion, and Mrs. Boyes, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Mrs. Henry Miles Bull, Miss Mary L. Wolfing and Byron Boyes.

Another merry dinner party was presided over by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dukes, who had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rheem, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Perry.

A jolly coterie of friends joined in a dinner at the Hotel Oakland before the dance, among them being Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dimm, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baskall, Mr. and Mrs. George Beadle, Mr. and Mrs. Jenkin Bevan John, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Avery and Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Miller.

Nearly beautiful gowns were worn, some in the pastel shades and others in the new bright shades of yellow and American beauty. Among the society matrons whose gowns were particularly noticed for their style and beauty were the following:

Mrs. Charles A. Dukes—Lavender charmeuse trimmed with silver beads embroidery, with a bird of paradise in the hair.

Mrs. George Beadle—American beauty charmeuse draped with lace.

Mrs. Henry Miles Bull—Pink charmeuse with an overdress of chiffon in rose shades.

Mrs. George R. Chambers—Imported gown of lace and silk, hand embroidered in gold beads.

Mrs. Elliott B. Davis—Yellow charmeuse with an overdress of gold and black brocade and gold and black feather trimming, made in train, gold band in hair.

PLACER LEADS IN GOLD AND FRUIT

Is First in Gold and Second in Peach and Nectarine Crop.

Placer county ranks second among the fifty-eight counties of the State in annual peach and nectarine product, 1,084,566 bushels; fifth in number of bearing orchard fruit trees, 1,190,074; sixth in orchard fruit product, 1,078,143 bushels; sixth in plum and prune product, 323,731 bushels.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—From a leader in gold to a leader in golden fruit is the unusual but proud record made by Placer county, which, according to figures compiled by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan for publication in the State Blue Book, ranks second among the 58 counties of California in annual peach and nectarine production, fifth in the number of bearing orchard fruit trees, sixth in fruit product and sixth in plum and prune production.

This county was long famed as a mineral center, and it is estimated that its mineral production, since the discovery of gold at Auburn on May 13, 1848, has amounted to $75,000,000. But in recent years attention has been turned from the rich mineral lands to the fertile mountain, foothill and valley lands of the county. As a result, comments Secretary Jordan, the county in 1910 began to assume supremacy as a fruit growing section. It had then 1,190,074 bearing orchard fruit trees, 59,906 tropical fruit trees, 12,122 nut trees and 26,321 orange trees. The total number of bearing peach and nectarine trees was 632,824, the peach product amounted to 1,084,566 bushels. There were 279,766 bearing plum and prune trees and the product amounted to 323,731 bushels. The total fruit of orchard fruits was 1,078,143 bushels, the grape product 11,231,830 pounds, the fig product 106,802 pounds, the olive product 417,415 pounds, small fruits 1,581,263 quarts, nuts 60,065 pounds and almonds 64,481 pounds.

INCREASE IN VALUE.

By way of agricultural development Jordan relates that the value of all farm property in 1910 was $10,234,101. This alone shows an increase in ten years of $3,686,340, or 56.3 per cent, and represents 248,080 acres in farms from a total land area of the county of 892,800 acres. Domestic animals on farms were valued at $737,464, and those not on farms at $20,454. The total number of horses, cattle, mules, swine, sheep and goats was 42,592, and the value of the sale of animals $156,291. The milk product amounted to 623,260 gallons and the egg product to 235,606 dozen.

With all crops valued at $1,812,419, the fruit and nut crop amounted to $1,812,419. The hay and forage crop was valued at $194,464. There were 10,104 acres in cereals, and the cereal product amounted to 120,808 bushels, while there were 16,034 acres in hay and forage, and the product amounted to 13,404 tons. The cost of irrigation projects to July 1, 1910, was $2,798,740, and the average included in irrigation projects, 61,751. The dairy product for the year ending September 30, 1911, was 623,260 gallons, 205,000 pounds, cheese, 20,000 pounds.

MINERAL OUTPUT HEAVY.

The total mineral product for 1910 was $583,559.

In a descriptive way, Secretary Jordan tells of the topography of the county, embracing lands some 100 miles long, and varying in width from 10 to 30 miles, with 810 square miles of its area mountainous, 450 square miles foothills, and the remainder rich and fertile valleys.

The soil of the western or valley portion is termed "loam," composed of alluvial composition as all the soil in the Sacramento valley, and is well adapted to the growth of grain more than 30,000 acres are annually planted to wheat, barley, oats and hay.

Agricultural section includes both the valley and foothill lands, and the foothills everywhere possess a soil which only needs cultivation. There is hardly a fruit that is grown in the temperate or semi-tropical zones that cannot be profitably produced in this county. There is hardly a vegetable that cannot be raised. In the higher foothill apples do exceedingly well, the product being big, crisp and juicy, and having exceptional shipping qualities. On the lower ranges and in the valleys, oranges and lemons do well. Between the plains and the mountains lies a stretch of country that is dotted with pear, peach, plum, prune, cherry and olive orchards, and vineyards. Tomatoes bear profusely from the first of June to the middle of December. Cantaloupes, watermelons and cucumbers are profitable crops.

TOWNS ARE IMPORTANT.

The several towns of the county are given appropriate mention, among them Auburn, the county seat and center of thriving fruit orchards; Roseville, the terminal of the Southern Pacific railroad, center of a fruit packing plant, which enables fruit growers to cool and express their fruit so that it may arrive in eastern markets in good condition. Lincoln, which in addition to its fruit industry, is the center of pottery manufacture, Sheridan, situated in a rich farming section, Rocklin and Penryn, with their unexcelled granite quarries; Loomis, Newcastle, the largest shipping point for green fruit in California; Bowman, surrounded by prosperous ranches; Clipper Gap, where black and fusc powder is manufactured; Applegate, Williams, Lacey, Colfax, Alta, Gold Run, Dutch Flat, Blue Canyon and Emigrant Gap, forming a group of towns along the railroad whose interests are divided among fruit, timber and mining; Forest Hill, famous as a mining and timber district, and the mining towns on the Forest Hill divide—Westville, Bath, Last Chance, Michigan Bluff and Iowa Hill.

Finally, attention is called to the scenic beauties made possible in this semi-mountainous county, which are declared to be without parallel in the world, for here are seen the mountain peaks of the rugged Sierras, the magnificent canyons with limpid lakes nestling on their bosoms, and here withal is the land of delight to the nature lover, the hunter and the recreation seeker.

Throughout, the Blue Book article is complete in detail, and undoubtedly stands forth as one of the most comprehensive ever published about the county in a state publication.

Lives There a Woman With a Soul So Dead Who Does Not Want Nice Hair on Her Head

—HERPICIDE—

Certainly not! Every woman admires beautiful hair and wants it. Every woman can have nice hair. Not the kind that may be purchased at the store, but real live hair growing on her own head. There is nothing that adds so much to woman's charm as a nice head of fluffy hair. It is not difficult to have nice hair. If not interfered with the hair will grow long and luxuriantly.

The most destructive and most prevalent form of hair trouble is dandruff. HERPICIDE eradicates this annoying accumulation, keeps the scalp clean and prevents the hair from falling out. This allows the follicles not already atrophied to spring into life, shooting forth from the tiny dormant papilla new healthy hair.

You experience marvelous benefit from the first application. The terrible itching which is indicative of dandruff stops at once. The hair becomes glossy and lustrous with a beauty that always indicates a clean healthy scalp. More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of Newbro's Herpicide than from all other remedies combined. Why then court possible disappointments by using an off brand hair remedy when you can just as easily and cheaply have Herpicide, "The Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer"? It makes all hair beautiful.

THE HERPICIDE CO., Dept. 81B, Detroit, Michigan

will, upon receipt of Ten Cents in postage or silver, send a sample bottle and valuable pamphlet about the hair to any address.

Herpicide in 50 cents and $1.00 sizes may be found at all toilet goods counters. Ask your own dealer for it. If you are not satisfied he will refund your money. Applications obtained at the better barber shops and hairdressing parlors.

PEOPLE SOON TO ELECT SENATORS

Only One More State Needed to Make Amendment Constitutional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Notice of approval by the Oregon Legislature January 23 of the proposed constitutional amendment providing for the election of senators by direct vote, has just been received by the State department. This makes ten states which have approved the amendment. The rapidity with which the State legislatures now are acting upon the proposed amendment has suggested the possibility, though remote, of its actual ratification before the income tax amendment, though the votes of only one state are required for the latter vote. This would lead to a similar complication.

WEST VIRGINIA HAS RATIFIED AMENDMENT

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 1.—By a unanimous vote the West Virginia Legislature ratified late yesterday the income tax amendment to the federal constitution. Governor Glasscock has announced that he favors the measure. The vote of but one other state is needed to make the amendment constitutional.

FIND CURE FOR DREAD CANCER

Father Rosseth and Professor Powers Perfect Remedy for Disease.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Science has once more triumphed through the efforts put forward at a Catholic seat of learning conducted by Jesuit fathers. While Santa Clara was surprised the world from time to time with Father Ricard's wonderful knowledge of meteorology, at St. Ignace, the sister university, a quiet search has for many years been carried on for the chemical process that would destroy the ravages of the disease known as cancer and lupus. The two men, who, at St. Ignace, have bent their energies to this life-giving task, are Professor Thomas Powers, a man well versed in chemical research and attached to the teachers' staff of St. Ignace, and Rev. Felix A. Rossetti, S. J., one of the professors of chemistry at that university.

As far back as 1904, while Father Rossetti was still a scholastic at St. Ignace, these two men knew the remedy for which they touch today with no uncertain voice and are prepared to demonstrate the truth of their statement by the testimony of many who have been privileged to come under the treatment they prescribe.

WAS VETERINARY SURGEON.
Professor Powers is originally a veterinary surgeon. In this capacity he frequently noticed the fact that horses where saddle or harness had pressed upon the surface of their skin, suffered from cancerous wounds of the same nature as those by which human beings are afflicted, and it occurred to him to find a remedy for the healing of these wounds, a matter which presented as much difficulty as does the healing of the same wound with man.

In the young scholastic of St. Ignace, Felix Rossetti, the professor found an enthusiastic and intelligent co-worker, and between the two, step by step, and after many experiments on animals, the efforts of the two were crowned with positive success and the present remedy was discovered. For years past this cure has been an established fact, yet unpublished to the world. The progress of the researchers' labors was somewhat retarded by the fire of 1905, but, as soon as conditions allowed, the matter was again taken up by the two co-workers and at the present moment about 150 cases of external cancer have been positively cured, and they are now looking for something that will have the same effect upon internal symptoms of the dread disease. The medical profession generally and the military surgeons among them are beginning to take notice and are watching the cure with an ever-increasing interest, and there is a probability that it will soon be taken up in general practice.

Among well known men who have volunteered their testimonials are M. G. Fraser of Petaluma and Wharfinger H. A. Oser of San Francisco, who both were the victims of malignant cases of "lupus."

MINERS SPENT HUGE SUM FOR STRIKE RELIEF WORK
INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Almost $750,000 was spent for strike relief work by the United Mine Workers of America during the year ended December 1, 1912, according to the report of the International Auditing company, which was completed today. Most of this went into West Virginia.

START PAINT FACTORY.
SAN FERNANDO, Feb. 1.—This city is to have a factory to manufacture paint and mineral paint in the near future. A site with trackage has been secured and machinery for the plant has been purchased. The plant will make silumina, the product of the Paradise Borax Mines Company.

That Style? Your Figure? Impossible!

But women who are contemplating a new gown in the mode will have to content themselves with a reduction of their flesh before they visit the dressmaker. Fortunately this is nothing like the hard labor it was when one had nothing but corsets to wear. Now, thanks to the Marmola Prescription Tablets, a woman, however fat, to the proportions necessary for her to wear a Directoire gown. Let her take a Marmola Tablet (made in accordance with the famous prescription) and, therefore, harmless) after each meal and at bedtime and she should very soon be losing a pound a day. This result, accomplished without disturbing one's table customs, forming wrinkles or distending the stomach, antacidizes every-where. Even one large case, costing only 75 cents at any drugstore, or the same amount direct by mail from the Marmola Company, Farmington, Bldg., Detroit, gives positive results. Time and patience the price of success.

ONE KILLED WHEN CAR HITS WAGON

Police Ambulance in Accident While Rushing to Scene of Fatality.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—A disastrous collision on Sacramento street early tonight, resulted in the death of John Kilmadee, a laundry wagon driver of 651 Twenty-ninth street, and might have cost the lives of two additional men who were speeding in the scene in an automobile ambulance. Kilmadee was driving in an easterly direction and turned his wagon suddenly, going directly in front of a car on Line 23, which dashed into the light vehicle, smashing it almost into kindling wood and hurling the driver headforemost to the pavement.

AMBULANCE AXLE BREAKS.
A call was sent in to the Central Emergency hospital and Edward Wilmeth, with Driver Duttan, started for the scene in the automobile ambulance. The machine fortunately had slowed down for the crossing at McAllister and Gough streets on route when the front axle broke and the body of the car dropped. Both men were badly shaken up but had they been going at the 20-mile clip which was the speed of a moment before they would have been either killed or seriously injured. When the auto was wrecked the Richmond station was notified by telephone but when the patrol reached the scene of the original accident Kilmadee was dead. He was 38 years of age and is survived by a wife and child.

DEPUTIES REMOVED FROM J. D. ROCKEFELLER ESTATE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 1.—After having guarded the estate of John D. Rockefeller in Pocantico hills since last August, when an attempt was made to dynamite the cottage of Frank Briggs, superintendent of the property, a force of twenty deputy sheriffs has been removed from the estate by Sheriff Doyle. Robberies of workmen on the estate by handbills following the dynamiting and the guard was retained. The robbers later were caught and recently four of them were sent to Sing Sing for long terms.

NEW PENSION LAW HAS ABOLISHED AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—When Dr. A. H. Thompson, a long time employee of the pension bureau, took the oath of office today as disbursing officer the pension agencies that existed for years passed out. Hereafter all pension payments will be sent from Washington. Altogether eighteen agencies are abolished under the consolidation reform and their clerical forces have been established here. The reform was provided for in the last pension appropriation bill.

BUILD IRRIGATION SYSTEM.

MARTINEZ, Feb. 1.—Alex. Burgess, superintendent of the Marsh grant in Eastern Contra Costa county, yesterday announced that his company has filed appropriations for 20,000 inches of water to be taken from the San Joaquin river at Indian Slough for the great irrigation system being constructed in that section. Ground has been broken near Erentwood for this system, which will water more than 12,000 acres in the grant in addition to several thousand acres owned by adjoining ranchers.

SEBASTOPOL BERRY GROWERS.

SEBASTOPOL, Feb. 1.—The annual report of the Sebastopol Berry Growers, Inc., shows that at the close of business in 1912 the membership was 132 and the business for the year footed up $191,139.04, an increase of $114,139.64 in four years. In 1912 the corporation handled 1326 tons of fruit and berries, being 874 tons more than in 1911. The surplus took this year in 1912 totaled $1,092.89. Transactions in the merchandise department for the year amounted to $105,572.14.

WILSON WILL TALK ABOUT INCOME TAX

President-Elect Feels Fit After Having Two Days of Rest.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 1.—President-elect Wilson tonight said he would discuss the proposed income tax amendment to the United States constitution with the New Jersey senators Monday. The assembly has already passed the resolution providing for the amendment and the governor having urged it in his message, is anxious that the senate shall likewise act favorably upon it. "If the senate passes it, then the necessary three-fourths of all the states will have given their ratifications," he said. "It would be fine if New Jersey should clinch it," he said.

The governor arrived from New York early this afternoon. When the newspaperman entered his study he was standing before the open fireplace nibbling toasted crackers. His two days of rest appeared to have greatly refreshed him.

IS FEELING EXCELLENT.

"Now I'm feeling fit."

It is not his intention to attend the hearings which will begin Monday morning on the corporation bills introduced in the legislature at his instance. He expects, however, to have a talk with the senators and assemblymen about them at a conference next Tuesday.

The governor had no comment to make when he was told that the resolution of Senator Works, which extends the presidential term to six years, had passed the senate. The governor did not take his customary walk this afternoon.

PENNSYLVANIA CRUDE OIL FAILS TO MAKE ADVANCE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—Despite the predictions of oil men Pennsylvania crude did not end the week at $2.50, for the market, after a daily advance of 7 cents a barrel for five days, opened at yesterday's close, $2.40.

PINDLAY, O., Feb. 1.—The Ohio Oil Company today advanced the price of North and South Lima, Ind., and Illinois oils each 3 cent per barrel, making North Lima, $1.34; South Lima and Indiana, $1.29, and Illinois, $1.17.

RED BLUFF PRUNE SHIPMENTS.

RED BLUFF, Feb. 1.—The Sanitary Fruit Co. has just shipped two carloads of dried prunes to South Dakota and one carload of dried prunes to Chicago, for which good prices have been received. To date this company has shipped double the amount sent last year. Arrangements have been made to ship the dried fruit of the Cured Fruit Associations of Anderson, Shasta county, and Red Bluff. The plant in this city will be kept open until next May.

STRIKE LEADER REACHES HOME

Father of Joe Ettor Says That He Will Try to Keep Son in Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 1.—Joe Ettor, the strike leader who was a central figure in the Lawrence, Mass., riots and subsequent trial for inciting to murder which resulted in his acquittal, has reached home. If he obeys the command of his father he will stay here. It has been not the elder Ettor will renounce him forever, he declared after he had clasped his son in his arms at the union station. "I've got that boy in my heart," he said, "and I won't have any more of that stuff on my name. Joe's had enough. I am going to keep him here. I've got a good business and Joe can stay here and help me. But if he don't"—and the voice of the father became hard as flint—"if he don't I'll sell everything I've got, take my wife with me and disappear. Joe will never hear from me again. I'll hate to do it because Joe's been a good boy, but if I get mad enough"—here he placed his finger in his mouth and muttered the rest of the sentence.

The younger Ettor would say nothing as to his future plans except that he would be in Tacoma several months.

Beggars' Union Organized; Reaps Profit FOR GUILD AND BOSS

THE KNAVE

Some One Talked Too Much. Workers OF CHURCH ARE TOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—A beggars' guild or union is the latest of San Francisco's institutions. The mendicants of this city have organized and formed a bund with a boss, leader or walking delegate to manage their affairs and take toll from the fruits of their industry. In some quarters of the city the policemen collect a license fee of fifty cents a day from each of the "hard-luck strikers" operating on their beats.

Not long ago one of the mendicants operating in front of a leading hotel applied to the house detective for a loan of fifty cents. He said the cop on the beat would not allow him to work the street unless he came through with the regulation tip. "I've got to pay him in advance every night, or he will shoo me off or run me in," said the peddler of distress.

Then he told a queer story of the organization to which he belonged. He said the beggars all owed allegiance to one man who allotted each man his station and the hours he should spend on duty. No beggar was allowed to interfere with any other beggar or work anywhere outside the bounds fixed by the boss of the bund. The boss arranged the amount of the fee the patrolmen were to receive.

All the money taken in is turned into the boss every day, and after the boss deducts his commission as manager of the mendicants' guild, the balance is divided among the workers. Any beggar who defied the boss is harried by the police and boycotted by the fraternity.

The house detective advanced the fifty cents, and noted that the mendicant remained on his job. He faithfully repaid the loan.

Oysters Are Taking Anti-Fat

Has our glorious climate gone back on the oyster? Or has the oyster discovered that keeping thin is the only way to protect himself from being skinned and eaten alive?

All the oyster men are complaining that the oysters transplanted in the bay are so poor and thin that they are unfit to be eaten. The same condition prevails all up and down the Pacific Coast. In consequence the fresh oysters served at hotels and restaurants are shipped from the east in cans or frozen in the shell. The oyster men are at a loss to explain why the bivalves in the local beds are so thin as to be uneatable. They suspect the oysters are banting just to spite the men who breed and eat them. Either they don't eat at all or are feeding on breakfast food or some anti-fat compound which makes them thin, tough and leathery.

For many years the eastern oysters transplanted and brought to maturity on the Pacific Coast were the most delicious bivalves to be found anywhere, but of late they are not sustaining their reputation. The cause is unknown. Some of the oyster men are getting spawn from the Gulf Coast in the hope that the oysters bred in the waters of the Gulf will take on fat better than those brought from Chesapeake Bay, Long Island Sound or Cape Cod. But so far their hopes have not been realized.

Experts say the condition will be ephemeral. They say that every oyster breeding region has lean and fat periods. Periodically there are times, lasting from three to five years, when the oysters grow attenuated and tasteless from causes which have not yet been ascertained.

Some oyster men resort to the process of "water-fattening" to make their bivalves look fat and plump during the lean periods, but this process merely deceives the eye. In reality it deteriorates the oyster and is condemned by epicures. A few years ago oysters all along the Atlantic Coast were thin, watery and tasteless. Now they are fat and succulent, while the Pacific Coast bivalve is taking his turn at mocking the appetite. When the lean period passes, the oysters are of superior size and excellence because they gain a growth they would not be allowed to gain otherwise.

Harmony in San Francisco

A fine example has just been given of the harmony that prevails in this city. The attempt to give the control of the harbor front has met with an inglorious defeat.

As I pointed out on a previous occasion, the San Francisco delegation would not stand up for the city in the matter of the waterfront. A majority of the Senators and Assemblymen from this city are servants of the State machine rather than representatives of the people who elected them. Who is to blame? The voters who sent Tom Finn and his associates to Sacramento, knowing they were simply followers of the pie-wagon. The San Francisco delegation is a bread-line, and that is all there is to it. What can you expect with a band of hungry hoboes riding in the band-wagon and Happy Hooligan driving?

After palavering for weeks with the Chamber of Commerce, Assemblyman Milton L. Schmitt, framed a bill ceding the San Francisco waterfront to the city. He introduced it, and the Chamber of Commerce framed another bill, a compromise, and sent it to Sacramento by Secretary T. Carey Friedlander, who gave Schmitt the overlook and handed his bill to Assemblyman Ryan to introduce. Ryan belongs to the Finn push.

There's team-work for you.

After consulting with Tom Finn and Al McCabe, Ryan decided not to father the bill prepared by the Chamber of Commerce, and Schmitt got mad and threatened to walk out in a body because he had been virtually repudiated by the Commuters' Club which styles itself the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco.

So we are having harmony like Paddy beat the drum—like h—ll. The women are parading up and down crying, "all's well that ends Weller," while Dr. Clappett added to the gaiety of the situation by roasting Dr. Aked—a performance, by the way, which has given more genuine satisfaction than anything that has occurred lately.

Com. Walker and the Continental

Marshall Black is on his way to the penitentiary and Commissioner Walker has not yet got his hands on the books and assets of the Continental Building and Loan Association. The plans of mice and men gang aft aglee.

Walker is in a ridiculous plight. Assisted by a band of Sheriff Eggers' strong-armed deputies, he broke into the Continental's offices and cracked the safe. Not so much as a postage stamp was found, and the Commissioner has been running around asking different persons to tell him where he can find the missing books and assets. Gavin McNab knows, but he won't tell. Walker asked him for the keys to the Continental's offices and vault, but McNab discourteously replied that he was not giving aid to burglars.

Walker may decide to advertise for the missing books and assets. There does not appear to be anything else for him to do. In the meantime his friend Black has pleaded guilty and Sheriff Eggers has been sued for $50,000 damages.

The Continental is not doing any business with the public. Its officers have been liquidating the concern for more than a year, and it owes nothing to anybody save its stockholders, 95 per cent of whom are opposed to the Building and Loan Commissioner taking charge. The persons chiefly interested are satisfied with the way the liquidation is being conducted, therefore it is difficult to see whom Commissioner Walker is trying to protect. Possibly he is trying to protect some henchmen of the State machine from starvation.

Who Talked Too Much?

The local hotels were filled this week with delegates, both lay and clerical, coming to the annual convention of the diocese of California of the Episcopal Church. In the lobbies there has been much conversation in connection with the radical moves made by each church body, but I have not seen anything in the papers, nor has a whisper gone forth of several interesting things that occurred which are worth repeating. The house of church women held its session at the Fairmont Hotel and Mary Ashe Miller, a local newspaper woman, was asked by Mrs. George H. Kellogg, the president who lives in Berkeley, to make an address at one of the meetings. Miss Miller reminded her that she was a journalist and not a speech-maker and that she did not know just what to talk about at such a gathering of church people.

"Oh, just tell them they talk too much," said Mrs. Kellogg, who is a quiet, retiring sort of matron and who, for several years, has made a most diplomatic president of the organization.

The day arrived and Miss Miller rose to make her address. In her first words she let out the secret. She told of her quandary regarding the subject of her speech and of Mrs. Kellogg telling her to inform the ladies that they talked too much. The president blushed crimson at the remark and while the whole thing was taken in good part it could easily be seen that the situation was a tense one and that in reality no rebuke had been intended and that only a little advice was thought to be needed.

A bombshell of a similar nature was exploded by the Rev. Frederick W. Clappett on the occasion of his addressing the joint meeting of the Daughters of the King and the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. He referred to the new woman of today and hinted that she had deteriorated much from the retiring, womanly, home-loving woman of a score of years ago. He referred to the fact that women were allowed to hang to the straps in street cars, while the men sat over their newspapers and that the former polite bow and raising of the hat on the part of a man when he encountered a lady of his acquaintance had given place to a slight nod and a bare touching of the headgear. He placed the blame for the situation on the feminine tendencies of the age, which he characterized as all wrong.

One of the exciting features of the convention itself, which has not been mentioned, was the election of the last delegate to attend the triennial convention of the church to be held in New York in October. The place was coveted by the fashionable Trinity Church for their rector, Dr. Clappett, but the fortunate man proved to be Rev. H. H. Powell, D. D., of Berkeley. The reason for the non-selection of Dr. Clappett extends back several years and has resulted in a yearly battle on floor of the convention.

His Eye Not on Dollar Sign

Detective Sergeant Wren, one of the veterans of the police department, who is drifting steadily toward the pension age, is one of a few peace officers who have not their eye continually peeled on the dollar sign and who do not aspire to great riches. Witness Wren's attitude on money matters in connection with an estate left him by an old-time acquaintance of whom he thought a great deal.

The total amount of the property, they tell me, was about $3000 and the will gave it all to the detective. Instead of using it for his own purpose he spent approximately $2700 in erecting a suitable monument above the grave of his friend and in moving the remains of the latter's relatives from a remote burial ground to the same lot where the friend had been placed in his last resting place.

"I knew that is what he would have liked to have done with his money," explained Wren to one of his brother officers, and there was a wistful look in his eye as he thought of the happy times he had spent with the friend.

Georgette Was Willing

Georgette Leblanc, the actress-singer wife of Maurice Maeterlinck, little Shakespeare of Belgium, was known in Paris not only for her beauty, her singing and her dramatic power, but for the sharp wit with which she met those who dared her in the conversational duel. Madame Maeterlinck was recently in the United States, introducing her husband's "Pelleas and Melisande" in the opera form, clothed in the gossamer music of Debussy.

A story of Georgette Leblanc's snappy repartee has drifted West since her visit to this country, a story which showed the quickness and neatness with which she could give the riposte.

According to the story, which went the rounds of Paris gossips before it bridged the Atlantic and made its transcontinental tour to California, Isadora Duncan, who claims the honor of having been the mother of the modern cult of the bare-foot dance and the revival of quasi-Greek culture of the body, was a guest of the Maeterlincks at their beautiful country home. Isadora and Georgette were having one of those little heart-to-heart talks so dear to the soul of femininity in the Maeterlinck orchard, while Maurice was away in his apiary watching a queen bee accouchment.

The subject wandered to the science of Eugenics, and the fact that many men of genius have died childless.

"I have thought about this subject for a long time," said the stately Isadora. "I have thought that I should like to become the mother of great men. I should like to have seven sons, all of them great men and destined from birth to greatness."

"It is a delightful ambition," commented Madame Maeterlinck.

"To do this it has seemed to me that I should have seven sons, and that each one of them should have for his father one of the seven men of genius of Europe today. Then they would be assured of greatness."

There was a slight pause. Then an innocent smile slightly curled the lips of Madame Maeterlinck, but behind her eyes there was a faint suggestion of something that might hint at mockery.

"Dear me," she said naively. "It is admirable. And I have no objection if Maurice hasn't."

Will 10-Cent Movies Pay?

Theatrical managers here are watching with interest the steps being taken by the nickelodeon proprietors to raise the price of admission from 5 to 10 cents, predicting that it will mean prosperity for them, as the higher admission will send many to the legitimate attraction. The vaudeville houses which are charging only ten cents in different parts of the city have already announced to their patrons that no matter what happens they will not raise the price of admission and they are venturing to remark that when the five cent theaters double the fee, they might as well close their doors and lock their windows.

"It will be all off with most of them," was the way one manager put it. "They will have to come down, that is all. People go to a nickelodeon to pass away an hour. They don't mind the nickel, but they will object to twice as much."

It Was 'Capital Fooling' for Benson

They gave Benson, the English authority on pageantry, a jolly run at the Bohemian Club last Saturday night and when it was all over he exclaimed in his London enthusiastic way:

"Capital fooling! Capital fooling!"

At the outset of the evening the club authorities had thrown on a screen pictures of their last mid-summer jinks at Bohemia Grove, all of which were a delight to the noted visitor. Later on films about some of his pageants in England depicting interesting historic events out of doors in the very spots where they took place were exhibited to the great pleasure of the club people. Then came the piece resistance. It was called "Bohemia's Own Pageant." About sixty-five members took part in this joshing pageant and marched across the stage, lead by a Dago band of three all out of tune and weird with its musical effects. Then borrowed from the theaters and theatrical supply houses and the White House, came elephants, English war steeds, cows, pigs and a dozen other kinds of animals, all doing their humorous stage stunts in ways so clever as to continually call forth peals of laughter. And Benson called it by its pointed and right name when he exclaimed: "Capital fooling!"

Mrs. Oelrichs to Keep Country Land

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, who is on one of her regular visits to the city, where she lived so many years as Miss Tessie Fair, is said by those who know to be as much determined as ever not to relinquish to her brother-in-law, Charles Oelrichs of New York and Newport, unless the courts so decree, a lot of country land in the tules of Solano county that lie along and run back from the east shore of the Carquinez Straits. This land is not far from the colonization project of Patrick Calhoun and his associates which was recently incorporated. The trouble between Mrs. Oelrichs and her brother-in-law is one of the aftermaths of her husband's death and will in which he left his estate of about half a million all to his brother, Charles. His will specifically stated that he left nothing to his son because the mother had ample means to provide for him. The widow forced Charles Oelrichs to give a small part of the estate to her son. Among other things was Herman Oelrichs' duck preserve and other lands in the Suisun marshes. The boy afterwards sold the duck preserve, turning over the other tule lands, near Benicia, to his mother. Charles Oelrichs claims a mistake was made in relinquishing title to the latter acreage. He is determined to get it back if he can. So a legal battle over the matter may be expected. As the two are not friendly, and as the land has a greater value today than was generally appreciated five years ago, the contest will be all the fiercer.

Butter at Dinner! Horrors!

Tea, such as only the Englishman can make, or order, or as the San Francisco society matron who has been to London, or been a guest on an English country estate, can order, or make, has long been known as an culinary institution of note hereabouts. It has been particularly noticeable at the three big caravansaries where the Britisher in large numbers comes every year.

But butter at dinner! This bad taste at the principal meal of the day has proved utterly shocking to a party of English men and women who have been at the Fairmont during the past week. There was no discordant note from them about the service and the menu, and the way the wealthy Americans, both men and women, all about them in the big dining-room of the Fairmont dressed for the dinner hour was a joy to them. But butter at so many of the tables!

"And that, too, in a really charming and magnificent hotel."

They thought it revealed an astonishing lack of the proprieties. Of course in defense of the fair name of San Francisco, I must hasten to mention that the much-traveled members of the Pacific Union Club, and the coteries of the stay-at-homes over whom they have influence, together with the much-traveled Burlingame set, have not been using butter at dinner for lo these many months. I hope the English guests at the Fairmont will find out this important dinner propriety fact before they depart our shores.

MR. EVERYMAN Participate in This the Greatest of All OPPORTUNITIES

READ! Then join us in making yourself and family proof against adversity for life. Better than Insurance; better than your imagination could ever conjure.

THIS IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST IMPORTANT PIECE OF NEWS IN TODAY'S PAPER.

Important because it shows how to recognize Opportunity when we meet it. It also deals with another factor—Co-operation—the greatest force we have. This government is a Co-operative institution. E Pluribus Unum means Many in One—United—All working together instead of each for himself.

READ, PONDER, AND DIGEST THIS ARTICLE

Then if you believe in its statement, Co-operate; be one of us, even if it's for a small amount.

The Panama Canal is an assured fact.

The World's Fair is being built.

The Harbors of Oakland, San Francisco and Richmond are being improved.

The Railroads are enlarging. The East is restlessly bidding its time to make California its Home, especially around the Bay, where the greatest industrial activity in the history of this country is about to be born.

You know all this, you say. Well, we ask you point blank: What have you done to assure yourself of some of this immense activity? Are you going to cash in your checks or are you going to admit you neglected looking into this, the best opportunity you ever had, and pass it by? The way is clear. Remember, ONE GOOD INVESTMENT IS WORTH A LIFETIME OF LABOR.

Work, hustle, get busy, and save. Too many times a man wants to see things come his way instead of going across lots to head off his opportunity. He wants to set the time, but Opportunity knows no time. The Greatest chances for money-making have come from the advance in Real Estate. This is not only a safe investment, but a certain one as regards profits, and You, Mr. Everyman, who never had a chance, are going to have one pushed right at you today, you can't say you have nothing put away. You can start with $2.00 if that is all you can spare. It will be a start. The $2.00 will make you a co-operative brother, on the ground floor, in a Company that is going to be one of the largest institutions in California, and is at present operating on its own land, making good, substantial profits. We are going to show you how that $2.00 of yours added to each month grows and grows until you can hardly believe it possible that such a trifling sum can grow into such a big sum in so short a time.

Co-operative effort is the power back of it all.

A man can do nothing with a couple of dollars, but let a thousand men get together and put aside $2.00 each month and in ten months there is a fund of $20,000 available to buy a piece of property which in a year may double in value.

Real Estate is the Standard by which the prosperity of a community is judged and the foundation of all security and fortunes.

UNITED HOME BUILDERS is a Building and Investment Company, buying for cash and selling on terms. All their money is absolutely secured by the Best Real Estate in Oakland and Piedmont. There is no promotion stock nor favored few. Every one paid $1.00 per share, which is par value. We are one large family. Will you join us?

On Monday at 9 o'clock the subscription books of this Company will be open to the public for the sale of the first allotment of its stock at $1.00 per share. The allotment at this price is limited. We believe it will be over-subscribed and reserve the right to raise the price at any time.

AMBITION TRIES TO WRECK HOME

Mrs. Jacob Goldstein Objects to Living on Few Cents a Day.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—If Jacob Goldstein had not been a man of ambition, and incidentally a model husband, his wife Mollie would have no complaint against him. But she most decidedly objects to him and wants to be free from him. Superior Judge Graham, to whom she told her troubles today, was inclined to agree with her from her point of view, but the jurist's desire to prevent the wreck of the household was so great that he decided that he must be able to curb Jacob's ambition.

The family lives at 152 Russ street, and Mrs. Goldstein says her husband neither smokes, drinks or gambles and he is in every other way exemplary. His one desire, however, is to be wealthy and she claims that he is willing to live on a few cents a day in order to save for the end in view.

He wants her and her seven-year old son to do likewise, and there comes the rub. She told the court that he refuses to accept employment because he had planned to have a business of his own when the pennies became dollars and the dollars hundreds. Mrs. Goldstein keeps a lodging house and supports the family.

Judge Graham ordered that Jacob Goldstein appear next week and an effort will be made by "that doctor of domestic happiness" to settle the trouble without legal interference.

CRIME PAID POORLY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—A burglar broke into the saloon of M. D. Cahill, Hyde and North Point street, and was but ill rewarded for his trouble. He spent considerable time forcing the locks on two doors with a jimmy and smashing the cash register. There was only $2 in change in the receptacle and that he was not a drinking man was evidenced by the fact that the liquor was left undisturbed.

GOLD MEDALS TO REWARD BRAVERY

Conductor and Motorman Who Shot Robber Receive Honors.

In appreciation of the bravery exhibited on the night of October 5, 1912, when in the attempt to hold up a Grand avenue street car a highwayman was shot and killed, two beautiful gold medals were presented to V. E. Meeker and Herman Hegrow, conductor and motorman respectively, of the car. The presentation was made at the monthly meeting of the Vernon Heights and Lake Shore Improvement Club, held last night at the Miss Horton School Auditorium at Perkins and Palm streets.

The medals, which the men received with a short speech of thanks, are engraved with the names and initials of each and the words "Presented by the Vernon Heights and Lake Shore Improvement Club for public service on the night of October 5." Also the words "Semper Paratus."

Resolutions were passed thanking the committee for their work in having secured a free passage for pedestrians at the principal thoroughfares. It being this club that inaugurated automobiles back from Broadway.

Members from the Grand Avenue Improvement Club were present at the meeting and there were promises passed to work in co-operation in all measures for the public good. The Grand avenue delegates were: John Eonham, W. J. Johnson and Will Jones.

The Vernon Heights Club has accomplished a great deal in the past year and is recognized as a power for the advancement of the district. A special campaign is being promulgated at the present time and it is expected that the present membership of 330 will be extended to at least 500 as the result.

The newly elected officers are: President, James Vance; Vice-president, Rollin C. Ayres; secretary, Henry C. Petray, and Charles J. Sinclair, treasurer.

A special vote of thanks was extended to the retiring officers, who were: Harry East Miller, Dr. H. P. Carlton and Will J. Cahill.

SUICIDES' GHOSTS HAUNT THIS HOUSE

Jovial Frenchman Driven to Grave by Contagious Mania.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Is the suicidal mania contagious? One would almost think so after the experience in a small flat in an old house near the Hotel de Ville, where, within the space of one year three persons committed suicide. A man named Petit-Demange moved into the flat recently. He was a jovial fellow, and his thoughts were farthest from anything like suicide.

His neighbors made fun of him and said that two persons had put an end of their lives in his flat and he would surely be the third. He laughed at the idea, but he inquired into the story of his predecessors. The first one hanged himself over his bed about twelve months ago; the second was a commercial traveler, who turned on the gas, but as he had consideration for his neighbors he sent word to the police commissary, who came in time to turn it off and prevent an explosion.

Petit-Demange seemed to be influenced by the stories, and the result was that, like his immediate predecessor, he also turned on the gas and asphyxiated himself. But he forgot to notify the police and the result was that the neighbors who perceived the gas went to his rescue there was a terrific explosion, in which seven persons were injured and two of them very gravely. They were taken to the hospital and their lives are in danger. Petit-Demange was found dead in bed, and his room took fire.

DAMAGES CLAIMED.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Claiming $4000 for two years, the result of a motor-car accident, which she said affected the aesthetic lines of her face, Miss Vance is said to be suing damages against two chauffeurs here.

SUFFRAGE GAINS NOTED RECRUIT

Mrs. Scoffy Converted to the Cause by Mile. Denizard, Presidency Aspirant.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Scoffy of San Francisco, aunt of Mrs. Ross Ambler Curran of New York and Paris, has been induced by Mile. Denizard, leader of the French suffragettes, to take up the cause of woman's suffrage actively, both here and in America. Mile. Denizard is the young woman who recently ran for President of France against Poincare and Pains. The deputies and senators objected to her on the ground of sex, and she replied:

"What nonsense! A woman can't be chief of state. What do you say of Katherine the Great of Russia and Queen Victoria of England and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, actual heads of states? Haven't we had woman regents here in France during the minority of kings? Wasn't Empress Eugenie left in charge of the ship of state twice by Napoleon III?"

This is the woman who took the chair at Mrs. Scoffy's first meeting in the spacious salon in the Elisee Palace Hotel. Mrs. Scoffy outlined her program, saying the only question she would put on votes for either sex was an educational one. Voters should be able to read and write. It did not matter about property qualifications.

MATRIMONY AND FINANCE MIXED

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Myrtle Thomas, colored, of 423 Green street, recently brought suit against Charles Williams, also colored, for $5000 for breach of promise. Then she loaned him $26. Williams is a bootblack and married. He told her, she claims, that he wanted to use $10 of the money to buy a divorce from his wife and marry her. However, he didn't do it and he didn't come back with the $26. So she brought a second action to recover the money that she had given her the $26 in "drinks" and "drabs" and that it had gone mostly for the purchase by her of delicate perfume.

The judge, rendered in perpetuity at both litigants and decided that the matter was such a mighty weighty one that he would have to postpone his decision.

PORTO RICAN GROWERS WILL EXHIBIT ORANGES

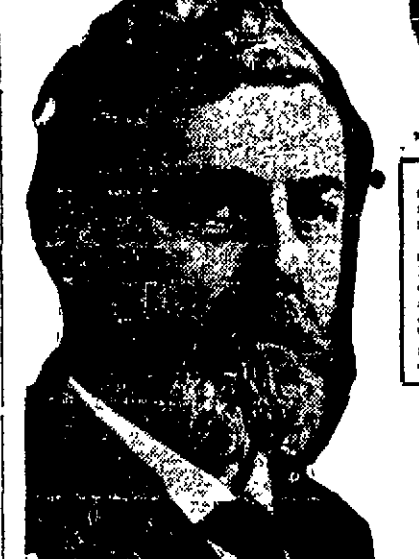

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 1.—Porto Rican orange growers are planning an exhibit for the United Nations Orange show to be held in San Bernardino, February 17 to 22. Word received from the United States Department of Agriculture that arrangements are being made for the immediate shipment of a collection of the citrus fruits grown on that island, to the orange show.

This exhibit will hold the "long distance" record for the orange show exhibits, and the fruit will without doubt attract much attention from the California growers, who will then have an opportunity to compare the character of the fruit with that produced on the coast.

Many special excursions are being planned to this city during the week of the show while reduced rates have been made by railroads from over a wide territory.

HELPING THE CAUSE OF HARMONY

THE Chronicle, noting the proposition that Oakland and Alameda county vote $1,000,000 to the Panama Exposition, remarks that it is the manifest destiny of Oakland to be annexed to San Francisco.

Know all men by these presents, that the more talk about the said manifest destiny, the less likely is that $1,000,000 for the Exposition.

Mock Heroics in the Name of Patriotism.

California is afflicted with patriotism by resolution—the kind that expends itself in vain ceremonies and empty shows. We are worshipping symbols instead of being loyal to principles. An example of making love of country and reverence for the men who have made it lustrous and great by law is Senator Caminetti's bill providing that hereafter the 24th day of January in each year be known as "Gold Discovery Day," in honor of the discovery of gold by James W. Marshall in California, at Coloma, in El Dorado county, in 1848. It provides for the commemoration of the event in all departments of the public school system of the State by appropriate exercises arranged by the principal or teachers, which may consist of recitals of the history and incidents preceding and following the date of gold discovery.

There is no legitimate excuse for all this folderol. James W. Marshall was not a great man nor a specially good one. The discovery of gold at Coloma was an accident—an accident fraught with momentous consequences; it is true, but still an accident. Marshall was not looking for gold, and his discovery was not due to genius or prescience, nor to any elevating principle or moral quality. It was his fortune to find some nuggets in a millrace he was building for another man.

Nor was the discovery of gold at that particular time an event of such moment as to be worth commemorating. The presence of the vast auriferous deposits of the precious metal, could not have remained long unknown to the keen-eyed pioneers who trekked in here after the cession of California to the United States. Marshall's discovery fired the imagination of the world and focused the eyes of mankind on California, but it was not a heroic feat, and no one can say with certainty that it materially altered the course of human events. It was inevitable that the gold lying in the mountain stream beds would have been discovered before long, and the same results would have flowed from the discovery that flowed from Marshall's find in Captain Sutter's millrace.

Our children loved the flag as well before the law required it to float over schoolhouses as they do now, and the American people were quite as patriotic when patriotism was simpler and more modest in its expression as they are at the present day. When we memorialize any event of man let us be sure that the event or the man is worthy of memorializing. Flag waving does not create patriotism, nor is greatness conferred by act of the Legislature. The effervescence of demagoguery is not to be confounded with love of country. There is infinitely more reason why the school children should celebrate the signing of the treaty which gave California to the United States than that they should celebrate the accidental discovery of gold.

The Turks seem determined to lick each other even if they can't lick the allies.

Los Angeles Times' Annual Number.

The story of the southland's development is told in story and picture in the annual midwinter number of the Los Angeles Times, a production of 176 pages and made up into magazine form of six parts.

The issue, which covers in detail the progress of Los Angeles and surrounding country, is as attractive and profuse in its illustrations as it is readable and comprehensible in text. The drawings and photographs tell of the south's advancement at a glance and in vivid fashion. But once does the artist stray away from the realm of the actual, and that is in picturing Los Angeles as he believes it will appear in 1938. On the front of one of the magazine sections is a drawing of the city twenty-five years hence, in which there appear several buildings ranging in height between sixty and ninety stories, between the upper reaches of which airships of all descriptions wend their course. Elevated trains are seen in the vision, speeding along at a height of a dozen stories. In the foreground is shown an expansive harbor.

On an inner page appears a drawing of Los Angeles' advanced plan for relief of overcrowded streets, in which are featured monorail tubes and other elevated cars, pedestrian walks and vehicle driveways, all swung at heights varying, apparently, from ten to forty stories.

The publication covers practically the entire southwest in its descriptions and mass of information. The contents dealing with the commercial, industrial, financial and other interests are so classified and arranged as to form a convenient, complete and attractive reference library.

Some of the subjects treated in picture and story are the festal attractions of southern California, modern development of the countryside, famous Los Angeles hangarous, the Franciscan missions, architectural possibilities of climate, beauties of the wilds, Griffith Park, Los Angeles; foliage in bloom in southern California, reawakening of Yuma's valleys, the business districts of Los Angeles, practical education in Los Angeles schools, benefits of co-operative marketing, good roads and bridges in Los Angeles, harbor traffic development at San Pedro, industries and crops, the great Owens river aqueduct, new buildings in Los Angeles in 1912, dry farming in the southland, Los Angeles industrial districts, deciduous fruits, the oil industry, the beet sugar bonanza of the southwest, and advantages offered to the homeseeker.

AT LAST

—LONDON PUNCH.

Turkey Plays Its Last Card.

In recalling its plenipotentiary at the London peace convention, the Sublime Porte at Constantinople has played its last card in the diplomatic game of bluff and procrastination in which it has been engaged with the representatives of the allied Balkan states for several weeks past. It has played the game with such marked success in all its numerous troubles with its neighbors during the past half century that it expected to win out once more in the most trying situation it has ever been placed since the flag of Mahomet was carried by its victorious hosts into the heart of Europe several centuries ago. But in all its past experiences it has always managed to divide the European powers by arousing rival mistrust, jealousy and opposing interests. It nearly succeeded this time in creating dissension among the great powers and plunging the whole of Europe into a general war, infinitely more disastrous and appalling than the Napoleonic wars of a century ago. The mobilization of the armies of Germany, Austria, Italy, Roumania and Russia on their respective frontiers looked ominous for a time a few weeks ago. But wiser councils have prevailed in the European chancelleries and the danger of a general war seems to have been averted. Apparently, at least, the great powers of Europe are working harmoniously for peace, but a peace founded on a basis which means to Turkey the loss of all the territory which the allied Balkan states have won by force of arms. To the victors belong the spoils of war is the unanimous verdict of Europe.

The only point which Turkey seems to have won as the result of the London convention is to get an expression from Germany that it will not consent to any invasion of Turkish territory in Asia Minor on the ground that it has vital interests to protect in that quarter. The German Chancellor's public announcement of that policy was evidently made as a warning to Greece to confine its activities to the islands of the Aegean sea and Turkish territory in Europe and refrain from an invasion of Asia Minor, which it at one time contemplated doing.

While the recall of the Turkish plenipotentiary from London is, on the face of it, an apparent decision to renew the war, its purpose is thoroughly understood to be merely a final move to force, if possible, intervention in favor of peace; but the government knows its case is hopeless. The country is racked with internal dissension and verging on a revolution; its resources exhausted; a deadly plague infests the capital; mutiny threatens its army; famine rages in the besieged fortresses of Scutari, Janina and Adrianople, and a renewal of hostilities invites the extinction of Ottoman authority on European soil. Under these circumstances there is scarcely room for doubt but what the Sublime Porte will, at the last moment of the period of grace given it by the allies, yield everything they demand.

Senator Caminetti has proved himself the Poltergeist of the Legislature. It is now up to the Tall Shannigan to do some original shenanigin or he will be altogether outclassed, which would never do.

TELEGRAPHERS' ERRORS

Although, according to most telegraphists, a telegraphist's life is not a happy one, there are certainly times when the saving grace of humor banishes for a few moments the dreary monotony of "key pushing."

These little humorous interludes generally arise from errors in telegrams; for, although the British telegraph service is the best and most accurate in the world even British telegraphists are but human. It must be understood, of course, that many of these errors are detected in transmission and rectified before the message is delivered.

For instance, a person receiving a wire, "Lizzie got a fine box. Come at once," would no doubt be very mystified. Fortunately the message was queried in transmission, and the resultant "Lizzie got a fine boy. Come at once," proved to be quite satisfactory to the recipient. Similarly, "cockle and cater works" is a very different message to "cycle and motor works," and also "Send trousers lime seated" a very unsatisfactory substitute for "Send trousers time stated."

Most of these errors are caused through bad spacing of the Morse dots and dashes, and also faulty wires are very conducive to mistakes. The following is a good example of faulty spacing: Just about the time Mr. Balfour retired from the leadership of the Conservative party a telegraphist was receiving some press work in which occurred the phrase "Mr. Balfour." Now, brackets are signalled "Rk" before and after the word contained in them. Through bad spacing however, the words were received, "Ta-ta, Mr. Balfour, Ta-ta," a result obtained by spilling up the "ik" badly. It was a fitting joke.

Another funny mistake was that of a telegraphist who got "bowling paralysis" for "bowling analysis" in a cricket message. Also the error "a godless game resulted," instead of "a godless game resulted," is somewhat remarkable. When Florence Nightingale was buried one of the hymns sung was "Onward, Christian Soldiers," but unfortunately a mistake occurred in the transmission of a certain message, and the result was "Onward, Christian Soldiers"—Tit-Bits.

HAWTHORNE'S DESK

The desk at which Nathaniel Hawthorne worked when he was surveyor of the port of Salem, during a period in the Polk administration, is still in existence in Salem, carefully preserved by its custodians.

Hawthorne secured the appointment as surveyor through the intervention of his Democratic friends, who were influential at Washington at the time. Senator Fairfield of Maine was especially active in the matter, and the munificent salary of $1200 enabled this somewhat financially-straitened literary genius of the first rank to live in comparative comfort during his four years of incumbency.

With the election of Taylor and Fillmore the Salem Whigs conspired to have Hawthorne supplanted by an official of their own political stripe, and the result of this unnecessary proscription against one of Salem's most noted native sons was his greatest story, "The Scarlet Letter." Appropriately, too, "The Scarlet Letter" is prefaced with an introduction. The collector at the time General James Miller, the hero of Lundy's Lane and Hawthorne's references to the man who could say in an exciting emergency, "Till try, sir," lends interest to what is really one of the most attractive portions of the book.

Hawthorne refers to this identical desk in his minute description of the business room of the custom house. "An old pine desk with a three-legged stool beside it," is the way he referred to this equipment.—Washington Herald.

SAN JOAQUIN COUNTY FAMOUS FOR PRODUCTS

Crops Are Varied and
Statistics

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—First among the fifty-eight counties of the state of California in the annual production of potatoes, first in annual production of cereals, first in annual production of barley, first in annual value of vegetables produced; second in the value of all crops; third in annual grape production; fifth in hay and forage production; fifth in the value of all farm property, $87,286,628, an increase of 115.5 per cent in ten years.

2200 farms, cut out of the great ranches, continues Jordan. There are approximately 5000 acres planted to asparagus and in 1910 the crop was estimated to have a value of $1,380,000. And of the orchards, to quote: "It is an inspiring sight to drive through the orchards of this county. The thousands of acres given over to citrus and deciduous fruits have a leafy suggestiveness of sturdy and permanent wealth. An orchard speaks for itself. Its trees are a suggestion of accomplishment, and a promise of future abundance. The first fruit to ripen here is the cherry, shipments often being made in April. Then come the apricots, and before they are gone, the peaches and plums, the almonds, walnuts, oranges and lemons."

Attention is called again to the excellence of the roads in the county, excelled nowhere, and how in 1909 the sum of $1,890,000 was voted for 238 miles of permanent stone or macadam road. These main highways, comprising only one-fifth of the public road mileage of the county, and more of the roadways being improved radiate from Stockton as a center, to the various agricultural districts, densely populated, north, south and east. This is said to be the largest amount of money ever voted by any county in the United States, according to wealth and population, for such a purpose, and while this is true, the county was in no serious danger of impairing its credit, for at the time of voting the bonds, it did not have a dollar of indebtedness.

RAILROAD FACILITIES. Transportation facilities include two lines of the Southern Pacific which connect Stockton with San Francisco and all points north and south as well as east, and the main line of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe traverses the county. The Western Pacific has its main line built through this city, affording another transcontinental outlet. The Stockton and Copperopolis road, The Sierra road extend to the lumbering and mother lode mining regions of the Sierra, and the Mammoth, Farmington, and the Tesla mines, 36 miles west. These do not include the several interurban electric lines, nor the steam lines making daily trips to San Francisco.

While the figures as to themselves significant, Secretary Jordan has prepared a general descriptive article on the county which is replete with interesting information. Here, he relates, is a county lying at the northern extremity of that vast interior valley of California, which sweeps for 250 miles from northeast to southwest, from the Sacramento river to the Tehachapi Pass. It has a river of its own, the San Joaquin, which bisects the county, and is navigable for 250 miles. With its tributaries and intricate systems of channels it greatly increased, and makes farms in a large area accessible by busy steamers and sailing craft which carry produce to market at a minimum cost. Here, too, is a section of fine climate having an annual mean temperature of 80.1 and average annual rainfall of 15.54. The winter rains are quite sufficient to mature the grain and many other crops. On the peat lands, where intensive farming results in enormous crops, water is secured in abundance and at the minimum cost, through the flood gates in the weirs. In the western part of the county is the largest area of peat lands in the United States, 200,000 acres of which, by means of levees, has been reclaimed.

Luther Burbank wants the people of California to enjoy the benefit of his new fruit and berry creations.

Every man who has a garden—or even a backyard—should have some of these wonderful new fruits and berries.

It is now possible for you to get some of these and have the enjoyment and satisfaction of having these fruits and berries for yourself.

The New "Burbank" Cherry.

This is the earliest of all large cherries. It is the largest of all early cherries. It is the best of all early cherries and unsurpassed by any cherry of any season. The "Burbank" cherry sold at wholesale in the Eastern States for $15.00 per ten-pound box, $7.50 per ten-pound box in carload lots; in Philadelphia $31.00 per ten-pound box was paid—$3.10 per pound wholesale.

If you like cherries, this is the cherry you should have. The trees are model in form, vigorous and never falling producers. The foliage is of unusual size and is so placed that the fruit is fully protected from birds and cracking by late spring winds. A few one and two-year trees, $1.50; ten for $10.00.

You should have some of each of these three plums in your garden. Notice the ripening dates. "Beauty" ripens from June 25th to July 1st; "Geewhiz" ripens from July 25th to August 10th; "Fasha" ripens from August 10th to the 20th.

The New Plum, "Fasha." A true home garden plum. It ripens in August from the 10th to the 20th; remarkable for size and productiveness. The fruit is 7 to 7½ inches in circumference, oval shape; light crimson color; the flesh is yellow, rich, juicy and sweet. It is a tree-ripe plum.

This corporation, The Luther Burbank Company, is the sole distributor of Luther Burbank horticultural productions, and from no other source can any one be positively assured of obtaining genuine Luther Burbank creations.

VALLEY COUNTIES PLAN BIG EXHIBIT

San Diego Exposition Assured of Fine Display From Sacramento County.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 1.—Another fine exhibit for the San Diego exposition in 1915 is assured, this being the display of the counties of the Sacramento valley. The visit of exposition commissioners and supervisors from that section to San Diego resulted in enthusiastic approval of the San Diego enterprise and the promise of a big building and outdoor display from that section.

Few delegations having visited San Diego on exposition matters have enjoyed more thoroughly the time spent here than did the Sacramento party. The visitors were taken to Point Loma, and there saw a barge from a government shipyard training grounds on North island mooring overhead. They visited Ramona's Marriage Place, and heard the story of the old missions of Southern California. The ladies of the party were taken to Frossmont for luncheon, and the entire time of the two days visit to San Diego was employed in study of the city and the plans for the exposition.

One of the best sites on the exposition grounds was selected for the exhibit of the Sacramento valley. This adjoins that of the Southern California counties, and is located on the main street of the exposition, directly abutting upon the magnificent drive across the mammoth bridge spanning the canon de Cabrillo. The location is directly east of the main group of exhibit buildings.

A feature of the visit of the Sacramento party here was the contribution of its members of a purse of $241 for the family of Fred Gilles, the engineer killed in the wreck of the special train carrying the party to San Diego. The exposition raised this to a total of $600, and the money was immediately forwarded to the family of the dead engineer, at San Bernardino.

The determination to provide a Sacramento valley exhibit at San Diego was reached at an executive session of the supervisors and commissioners. The exposition division of works was instructed to prepare at once plans for an exhibit building.

The members of the visiting party were Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Lindley, E. H. Miller, Gen. J. G. Martine, of Sacramento, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schute, Colusa, Mr. and Mrs. C. McKimley, Forest Hill; H. C. Flourne, H. G. Dorick, D. Ramel, C. W. Wendell, and H. J. Ireland, of Quincy; E. Franklin and C. A. Gelsendorfer, Colfax; W. J. Weyand, Dixon; E. H. ## TURKISH WAR HORRORS PICTURED BY GRADUATE

Former Berkeley Student at Constantinople
Writes From Seat of War

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Feb. 1.—Adolph Van Hemert, graduate of the university in the class of 1908, and now student interpreter in the American embassy at Constantinople, has written to the California Alumni Weekly a review of the situation at the Turkish capital which is of particular interest to the students of this university. The course extremely difficult for Turkey to take the offensive in any one of them, and her reverses are in a large measure attributable to this unfortunate circumstance. It must also be remembered that the reorganization of the Turkish army, instituted after the adoption of the constitution in 1908, had not sufficient time to become fully effective. Add to this the enormous difficulties of transporting troops from the interior of Asia Minor to the front without being able to use the Aegean Sea on account of the Greek fleet, you will be able to form an idea of the obstacles that had to be overcome before any fighting took place at all.

As regards the Turkish soldier, who has come in for a great deal of criticism of late, it is no doubt true that he has lost much of his fanatical zeal to battle for Allah and his Prophet, but it would still be difficult to find a modern army that would bear fatigue and hunger with resignation. Many gallant deeds, such as the defense of Adrianople, of Skutari, of Yanik, will form bright pages in the history of this war.

"Strange and picturesque indeed were the scenes Constantinople offered during the first days of the war. The recruits in endless streams from all parts of the Turkish dominions: from Angora, from Smyrna, from Jerusalem, from the shores of the Black Sea, and from the valley of the Tigris and Euphrates, Kurds, Kurds, and Armenians; Syrians, Arabs, and Persians; Christians and Muslims; the whole Empire was being summoned to defend its European heart against the onslaught of the Russian army. In the suburbs formed one huge camp, and on the streets the men in uniform far outnumbered all others. The horse-cars (there are no others) had to suspend business, and carriages for hire disappeared, as every horse and suitable vehicle was commandeered for the transportation of ammunition and provisions for man and beast.

"But the less cheerful and less picturesque sides of the war were not slow in appearing; trainloads of wounded and sick—themselves but a fraction of those who after unbreakable sufferings had come to the way—soon came pouring back into the capital, taking to the utmost all available hospitals and convalescent wards. No one who has not seen these poor wretches with shattered limbs and disfigured faces can realize the grim truth in Shaw's terse definition of this bloody business: 'Happily, the generous assistance lent by the foreign governments in the form of Red Cross units and money—the latter including liberal contributions from our own country—did much to alleviate some of the suffering. Our consulates took a special interest in the cholera camps at San Stefano where conditions were particularly bad, and I can assure you that the assistance rendered by the Red Cross was among the most heroic recollections of my life.

"But the soldiers were not the only ones whose misery had to be dealt with. Thousands upon thousands of refugees from the Thracian villages found their way into the city and being usually destitute of literally everything had to be promptly attended to. The Turkish government assisted in this task by the use of the American colony took a very creditable part—reminded me somewhat of the Red Cross in San Francisco. Except that here more primitive wants were being satisfied in a correspondingly more primitive manner. The refugees were being fed by the use of bread, and one loaf of bread a day for each individual was considered ample. In the case of the refugees, the Turkish government had been found, but as no visitors are at present admitted, I have not yet been able to see them myself."

ERECTING LIGHTS IN ENGINAL CITY

Moose Lodge Decides to Build Instead of Repairing.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 1.—The first step in construction work on installing the electric lights in district No. 8 was taken this week, when men began the street distances and locating lights for the construction crew, which will be at work next week. Owing to the large size of the district, it will probably be midsummer before the work is completed.

The municipal light plant buildings are progressing favorably. The auxiliary buildings are well along, and large quantities of material for the main structure are arriving daily.

So well is the Moose building fund prospering that the lodge has voted not to repair the old buildings on the new clubhouse site on Central avenue, but to build a new block in the immediate future.

The site is a central one and will enable the lodge to build to good advantage a combined business block and clubhouse. The site is 50 by 208 feet.

The new building will be a two-story structure, with a large hall, and will be completed by the close of 1912.

Investors are looking closely into Alameda realty conditions as shown by quiet inquiry regarding a number of good-sized tracts which have remained unsold for some time.

Parties have been looking up prices, terms and property descriptions with a view to good-sized investments before realty prices advance again.

CONTRACTS LET.

Contracts have been let on the new building at the site, which is now being erected. The contracts are for the building proper, and do not include the fittings and furnishings of the special and expensive fixtures that are to be installed by the lodge.

Structure when completed will be about $35,000. The work will require several months.

The following building permits were issued:

Herbert R. Connor, owner; Delaney & Mandell, builders, two-story, nine-room dwelling, 1634 Santa Clara avenue.

Louis Johnson, owner and builder; one-story, five-room dwelling, 2608 Santa Clara.

ALAMEDA TO MAKE DIESEL ENGINES

English Manufacturer in Oakland to Arrange for Local Industry.

G. Roland Williams, representing Williams & Robinson of Rugby, England, the largest manufacturers of Diesel Oil Engines in Great Britain, arrived in Oakland today direct from Europe. He comes here to negotiate with the Dow Pumping Engine Company of Alameda for the American manufacture of Diesel Oil Engines, and predicts that this will become one of the largest manufacturing enterprises in the State.

"Diesel engines should become a tremendous factor here," stated Williams last evening at the Hotel Oakland, "because of the propitious conditions under which they can be made here. Diesel engines use crude oil in place of gasoline or steam which these other types of engines employ, and with their greater efficiency of power from the use of this fuel, in connection with the large and cheap supply of this fuel here, it is really only a matter of time when Diesel engines will come into general use here, as they have already become in Europe. Diesel engines are used wherever stationary engines are used, and are particularly serviceable as marine engines."

Williams gave as comparative efficiency figures for these engines the following: Steam engines, 8 per cent; gas engines, 18 per cent; Diesel engines, 25 per cent.

The principle under which Diesel engines work is different from ordinary gas engines in that they have no valves, but the oil is burned under tremendous compression, and in this condition acts the same as steam in the steam engine.

One man can run a Diesel engine up to a very large size, and single engine units are made now as high as 3000 horsepower.

Williams, a talented musician, who has many years ago by Rudolph Diesel, a German, and Williams expressed surprise that America has not sooner taken up the manufacture and general use of this type of engine.

Oakland and California delighted Williams in that they have a very interesting and useful introduction here assured.

So Declares Bishop in Interview in Which He Reminds of Rome's Fall

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—Scoring certain tendencies of modern American life and pointing to perils that he sees in the present trend of thought and habit among the American people, the Right Rev. Richard Scannell, bishop of Omaha, and one of the well-known Catholic prelates of the country, gave to THE TRIBUNE a remarkable interview in which he declared that elements existing in the United States today are the same as those that caused the downfall of the Roman Empire.

"People nowadays," accompanied by the Right Rev. P. A. McGovern, bishop of Wyoming, at the Hotel Angeleno here on a visit, and the views he expressed today constitute a startling arraignment of the social and spiritual frailties of the age.

WOMAN MAY SMOKE.
Among other things, Bishop Scannell advocated the fortifying of the Panama canal and declared that it was no more of a sin for women to smoke than for them to drink tea.

"People nowadays," said the bishop, "are thinking only of themselves and for themselves. This is an era of vulgarity in that it is loud, showy and noisy. Christianity is non-existent in the large masses of the people."

"The outlook for the nation is serious and there may come such a fall as came to the Roman Empire. Without, we are strong enough to protect ourselves against any nation in the world. But it is within that danger lies."

MASSES SHOW UNREST.
"I am not filled with confidence of the future. The downfall may not come, of course. But in the next generation when the struggle for existence becomes more acute and the wealth of the nation continues to be in the hands of the few, who shall it be in a showy way, a feeling of unrest will come among the masses. There must be a change, for the hands of the clock are gradually coming around and the cycle of the world will begin again."

"A false system of materialistic education, I believe, is at the bottom of the whole trouble."

"There is a great hue and cry against women smoking," said the bishop. "Smoking is not a sin any more than drinking tea or coffee. If a woman cares to smoke, let her smoke. The great sin of the age is the lack of religious thought."

The bishop then turned to things material and expressed his views upon the Panama canal.

FORTIFY CANAL.
"This world peace movement," he said, "that has been so talked about, is very good, but I favor the fortifying of the Panama canal. One can never tell, and I believe it is foolish to trust to the peaceful dispositions of other nations. I don't advocate war, but I have no sympathy with these diplomatic professions."

"I trust the people in this hotel, but at night I lock my door. The same principle applies to the canal."

BULGARIANS ORDER NEW GUNS FROM AUSTRIA

Minister John B. Jackson, at Bucharest, reports that a contract to manufacture nickel coils for the Bulgarian Government has been given to the Bernadelli Metallwarenfabrik in Austria. The coils, it is said, will be minted in the Vienna mint, the quantity being 10 million 20-stottink (centimes) pieces, 13 million 10-stottink, and 14 million 5-stottink. It is also said that the minting of other coins is contemplated. The values in Bulgarian currency are based on the Latin Union; i. e., 100 stottink equal 1 lev, or 0.193.

Canadian cheese exports from a section of Quebec Province increased last year, according to a report from Consul Agent Geo. W. Stephenson Jr., of Victrolville. An average of 240,000 pounds being shipped every week to England via Montreal. The makers received about 12 cents per pound. Canada exported 155 million pounds of cheese, worth 21 million dollars, in the fiscal year ending March, 1912, nearly all to England. Canada's exports of cheese in 1908 to 200 million pounds and in 1908 to 170 million pounds. This renewed export trade from Quebec Province is therefore of interest.

Consul Edward J. Norton reports 272,795 long tons of manganese exported from Bombay during the seven months ended October, 1912, the value of which was $1,430,539. The shipments to the United States were 70,290 tons, worth $34,531. There was little change from the previous year in amount shipped.

Brooks, commercial agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor, dealing with the manufacture of electrical instruments and meters in Europe. Mr. Brooks has recently inspected 21 of the most important electrical works in England, France, Germany, and Italy. The products of each concern are treated in detail in the monograph, and descriptions are given of the buildings, equipment, labor conditions, kinds of materials used, and the market in which the products are sold. ## VARIED REPORTS ON WHEAT CROPS

The Day of Rumors Is at Hand and Wise Men Are Chary.

(By JOSEPH F. FRITCHARD.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—According to messages received here by a half dozen of the leading commission houses from farmers and grain merchants at Wichita and other points in Kansas, the wheat plant is not likely to suffer damage because of zero weather. These messages say that the plant was never as deeply and as strongly rooted as it is at the present time. Rumors being the honey wheat state as to the condition of the present crop, with the likelihood of a crop severe later on, may mean higher prices for both cash and futures.

DAMAGE TO BE SMALL

The crop experts with the best judgment, and who have been sent out of Chicago and into the wheat fields of Kansas for a half-dozen years or more, contend that no one is able to say with any degree of accuracy as to the probable deterioration before there has been enough growing weather to reflect actual conditions. It was reported here today that five above zero was the coldest weather experienced in the Sunflower state Friday and that the damage claims sent in were absurd. The day of crop damage reports is now upon us, however, and whether anything can be told as to changes or probable changes in crop prices, it will be remembered that on several sections of the southwest in which claims of difference have been made in order to influence price changes in wheat. The average speculator will do well to treat these dispatches with more or less caution, unless they are sent in by men who are known to be experts in the field and who are also known to be truthful.

HIGHER PRICES LATER

Those who favor the bull side of wheat believe that the movement from country points is likely to fall off because of crop uncertainty as to the condition of the present crop, with the likelihood of a crop severe later on, may mean higher prices for both cash and futures.

ASCENSION TAKEN BY COLORADO FUEL

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Today's stock market was dull, but in the main firm, with a sharp advance in Colorado Fuel of 8½ per cent and a jump in the preferred of four points to 155. Steel common closed steady at 85½. There was some indication of an early settlement of Union and Southern Pacific. Union Pacific was firm at 161 and Southern Pacific irregular at 167½, down one point on the day. Liquidation appeared in Transcontinental in the morning, year new financing to a considerable amount would be necessary in the near future. An interesting condition has developed in American telephone and telegraph, where the market is technically oversold by those who have anticipated the convertible clause in the new bonds and who have operated against their purchase of these securities. It is expected that Monday's market will show a continuation of strength in the bond list, with perceptible weakness in Southern Pacific. Number of shares sold today, 163,355; year ago, 182,718. Par value of bonds sold today, $1,510,000; year ago, $2,067,000.

LONDON MARKET HEAVY

These messages say that the plant was never as deeply and as strongly rooted as it is at the present time. Kansas being the banner wheat state of the country it is not surprising that reports from other sections where winter wheat is raised, it will be remembered, is an ever-recurring theme during the past downy snow reports have come from crop experts saying that the wheat was winter-killed and that the crop would be a total loss in some sections, but that with growing weather there was a general recuperation, and the wheat that was pronounced dead turned out to be alive and produced a good crop.

Sharp Advance Noted in New York Market, Which Is Dull, But Firm.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Today's stock market was dull, but in the main firm, with a sharp advance in Colorado Fuel of 3 1/4 per cent and a jump in the preferred of four points to 155. Steel common closed steady at 63 1/2. There was some anticipation of an early settlement of Union and Southern Pacific. Union Pacific was firm at 161 and Southern Pacific firmer at 167 1/2, down one point on the day. Identical quotations in Transportation on the same basis. There was a considerable amount of new financing to a considerable amount would be necessary in the near future. An interesting condition has developed in American telephone and telegraph, where the market is technically oversold by those who have anticipated the convertible clause in the new bonds and who have operated against their purchase of these securities. It is expected that Monday's market will show a continuation of strength in the general list, with perceptible weakness in Southern Pacific. Number of shares sold today, 163,359; year ago, 152,718. Par value of bonds sold today, $1,519,000; year ago, $2,067,000.

LONDON MARK HEAVY.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The market today was generally heavy and unsettled. Home calls and mines were generally lower. Discounts were unchanged. At Berlin and Vienna the market was heavy. The Paris exchange on London was lower at 25 fr. 22c. Berlin rate unchanged at 20 m. 40 1/2 pf.

OAKLAND DRAWS NEW RESIDENTS

INNER HARBOR FERRY TRAFFIC FORMS UNIQUE DAILY PROCESSION

Three 1200-ton ferry steamers of the Southern Pacific's inner harbor service, making forty trips a day, are required to carry the large number of vehicles and passengers between the foot of Broadway and San Francisco. Every half hour between 6:15 a. m. and 8:45 p. m. the ferry boats steam back and forth across the bay, carrying a seemingly endless string of vehicles of every size and description. It is estimated that over 1000 vehicles carrying produce and freight cross on these boats daily, while the number of automobiles is close to the 500 mark. On Sundays and holidays the number of automobiles crossing on the ferry almost reaches 1000. Traffic over the ferry is heaviest in the morning and evening hours, when vehicles of the various commercial houses in San Francisco and Oakland bear their varied burdens of freight. A conservative estimate of the amount of freight handled through this source daily is about 1500 tons, or 45,000 tons per month.

The automobile traffic has increased over 100 per cent in the last twelve months. The reason is that all of the machines which formerly went by way of Oakland mole have been diverted to the inner harbor route. This diversion was caused by the rule making it impossible for more than a limited number of automobiles to cross on the passenger ferry boats. The inner harbor service also accommodates a large number of passengers, the number of persons using this as a means of crossing the bay being estimated at about 3500 a day.

NEW CARLINE TO GIVE OUTLET FROM CENTER

Trolley Road to Extend From Grand Avenue Line Along Trestle Glen

Plans are being made by the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railway for a new carline along the southern edge of Trestle Glen to connect with the Grand Avenue line near Lake Merritt.

The announcement means much more than the laying of a few additional rails and ties and the operation of cars through a new territory.

It means that there will be an entirely new outlet from the heart of the city to the annexed district, further north than any now operated, and that there will be more cars on Grand Avenue, with an improvement in the service along the northern shore of the lake.

A large amount of traffic will be diverted into Fourteenth street and passengers from the annexed and lakeside districts landed in the center of the shopping district west of Broadway without change of cars.

These benefits are all in addition to the development of the new territory traversed by the line. This virgin section will be limited, as the road is to be a connecting link, rather than an extension, although it will connect with a line that has recently been extended east of Fruitvale avenue—the Diamond line running out East Sixteenth street, from the lake region.

The proposed road is to be built along the southern border of Trestle Glen from its junction with the Grand Avenue line. It will extend along Hopkins and into Twenty-seventh street, connecting with the Diamond line on Hopkins further east. The latter road has recently been extended to Alameda, tapping a district which is developing rapidly. Residence tracts in this section and along the new portion of the road will be benefited.

The line will follow a boulevard soon to be constructed.

With each new trolley and suburban railway improvement comes more San Franciscans to make their homes on this side of the bay.

The extensive area of Oakland's home-building spots, with all the attractions of fresh air, spacious gardens and marine views, is drawing heavily upon the cramped residence sections across the bay.

The real estate dealers and merchants of San Francisco are beginning to realize the meaning of this movement, but unfortunately for them and for San Francisco's reputation as a residence city, the metropolis is by nature deprived of wide spaces where middleclass homes can be built in large numbers. The new tracts outside of the sand dunes are for the well-to-do only. The only sections affording a marine view are on the hills in the built-up part of the city, and homes on or near Pacific avenue and in the Presidio district are not obtainable by the man of moderate means.

When it comes to a choice of going far down the peninsula or coming across the bay, the move is generally made in this direction, for financial reasons and because of the greater attractiveness of dwelling in the east bay region. Poor transportation facilities are held responsible for the inability of the San Francisco wage-earner to establish a home south of San Francisco but if the traveling were good it is doubtful whether the worker would invade the aristocratic precincts of the peninsula. The electrifying of the Southern Pacific line on the side of the bay, which, when completed, will form a fan-like system extending from Hayward to Richmond, is an improvement favoring the east shore as a residence rival of San Francisco. Electric trains of the same kind will not be running on the peninsula for several years, and in the meantime Oakland and environs will be expanding.

Making San Francisco and the region to the south attractive to the wage-earning and middleclass resident is a problem which the larger city will find difficult to solve.

There is a serious effort to keep the wealthy San Franciscan on that side of the bay. He is seeking out the most beautiful spots in the Oakland hills and buying a villa site where he will not feel cramped. He is buying such a spot, too, at a fraction of the price he would be compelled to pay for a site one-half as attractive on the other side of the bay.

The general movement of the leading churches to build modern and costly edifices in the residence sections, or just outside the main business district, has been as striking as the development in the main retail portion of the city, from which several of these churches have moved.

The latest plans of an expansive nature are those of the First Methodist Church (South), which sold its property at the northeast corner of Eleventh and Clay streets and the church of 1900, for $108,000, and purchased a cheaper structure at Third, Fourth and Elm, across one block east of Telegraph avenue. The latter has now been sold to the Second Church of Christ (Scientist), and a lot for the purchase of Telegraph avenue, at or near Thirty-sixth street, by the Methodists, for the erection of a memorial church, to cost $75,000. This edifice will be an ornament to that section of the city, and one of the finest churches in North Oakland. Its situation on the main thoroughfare between Oakland and Berkeley, and within one block of Woodward Park, and its convenience to street car and ferry train lines, make the building site an advantageous one. The downtown corner upon which the Methodists church membership was raised a year ago for $150,000. It is in the heart of the new retail district, almost opposite the new

OUTSIDE OPERATORS MAKE INVESTMENTS HERE

Oakland Real Estate Association Enters Upon New Era

M. T. Minney, newly-elected president of the Oakland Real Estate Association, has written for THE TRIBUNE a statement concerning the Oakland realty market, which he declares to be unusually favorable. President Minney's article follows:

(By M. T. MINNEY, President Oakland Real Estate Association.)

The real estate market in Oakland and throughout the state is showing great strength and favorable conditions for this period of the year.

The market for suburban properties is always better in the springtime than at any other time of year. This year the January market compared favorably with that usually existing in March or April.

Many builders are securing large numbers of residence lots, realizing that the prices are sure to advance in the near future.

The downtown market is also receiving a great deal of attention. Added to the local buyers are many who are coming here from other points. Another noticeable feature is the coming of numbers of real estate salesmen and operators from Los Angeles, Sacramento, Portland and various other cities.

These men, as well as the outside investors, are all of the one opinion—that Oakland is just now coming into a great commercial growth.

The Real Estate Association wishes to do everything possible to welcome these outside investors and operators.

new ideas and without the local bias regarding former conditions and sur-miser prices of real estate, which is apt to remain in the minds of those who have been residents of the community for a considerable number of years.

The banquet given recently by the Chamber of Commerce and other commercial organizations, which was so successful, together with the launching of a strong Commercial Club, is having the effect of creating a new spirit of energy and activity among the real estate men.

Summing up matters as a whole, the situation is undoubtedly more favorable than it has ever been before for the real estate men of Oakland to accomplish great results.

The Oakland Real Estate Association is going to do its best to keep step with the new pace that has been set by the various organizations of the city.

Trading in residence properties was a feature of the real estate market of Oakland during the last week. Deals to the number of 331 were filed. The listing business amounted to $440,621; the amount of the mortgages totaling $224,922, and deeds of trust $215,699. The number of new loans for the week ending last Wednesday, the cost being $33,137. The usual number of one-story houses were secured, however, since then were provided for in building permits, the total cost to be $1,000,000.

WEEK'S BUILDING COSTS $88,187

Permits Issued During Week for Nineteen 1-Story Dwellings.

13 BUNGALOWS TO BE BUILT IN PLEASANT VALLEY COURT

AN IDEAL BUNGALOW FOR A NARROW LOT—ONE OF A NUMBER OF HOMES TO BE BUILT BY THE REALTY SYNDICATE.

The sale of thirteen 40-foot lots in Pleasant Valley Court last week by the Realty Syndicate to an Oakland investor is further evidence of the popularity of the tract and particularly gratifying to the owners, who state that the purchase is to commence almost immediately the construction of thirteen bungalows to be sold for a low price on easy terms. All will adhere in every respect to the building restrictions. This activity is expected to result in bringing to Pleasant Valley Court a number of trans-bay commuters now living in apartment houses for want of medium-priced homes of their own.

LESSON OF THE MOVEMENT OF CHURCHES

city hall. One block distant, at Fourteenth and Clay streets, the First Methodist Episcopal church lot was sold for a much larger consideration. Fire broke the First Baptist church from the western edge of the city district. Fourteenth and Brush streets, almost ten years before the exodus of the other denominations from the downtown section. But for the burning of their edifice, which was regarded at the time as a serious loss, the congregation would probably have remained a few years longer, but it is likely that eventually they would have joined the movement of the churches to distant locations. The First Baptists' new location at Twenty-first street and Telegraph avenue was not regarded as a "house-in," but has been brought much nearer the heart of the business district through improved street car service and the growth of the mercantile section northward. Two electric lines run along the northern and southern sides of the block upon which the church is situated. The razing of the First Presbyterian church at Eleventh and Clay streets is almost completed, and its valuable site will soon be bared and ready for improvement, which is promised before the close of many months. It is not that the First Congregational church is likely to dispose of its downtown property at Twelfth and Clay streets for business purposes has been abandoned for the present, as it is apparently the intention of the congregation to maintain the last of the large churches in its old location, where its usefulness will be broad on account of the proximity to one great edifice in the business center, within reach of transients.

TO BUILD TOWN ON GREAT MORAGA TRACT

The Carpenter ranch, which was recently purchased by the Moraga Company, a subsidiary corporation of the E. J. Burgess Company, will be the stage of market activities within the next few weeks. This tract, a part of the old Moraga grant, comprising several thousand acres of land, lies in the Moraga valley, Contra Costa county. From the standpoint of its natural beauty and pending litigation regarding title, which was dismissed at the time of the Burgess purchase, it has become widely known. People have visited the property to satisfy their curiosity. That the ranch is to be subdivided is received as glad tidings to those familiar with the tract. The property will be subdivided into acre tracts, and an ideal township platted, to be known as the town of Moraga. On a trip to the property this week, accompanying John Promberger, sales manager for E. J. Burgess Company, were a party of engineers and architect G. A. Applegarth. Preliminary observations were taken relative to the planning of the development. They expect to have a corps of engineers on the property within the next 30 days.

STONEBURST BOASTS IMPROVEMENT ACTIVITY

That Stonehurst is coming to the front is evidenced by numerous improvements, due in a great measure to the efforts of its new improvement club. Hydrants for fire protection will soon be installed and better service is promised on the Southern Pacific line. A $25,000 station is to be erected at East Fourteenth street and One Hundred and Fifth avenue. C. Scheick is building two planned houses of six rooms each near the station on One Hundred and Fifth avenue. Scheick is the owner, and says that the houses will be a credit to Stonehurst. Each is to have an automobile garage on the premises. The new East Sixteenth street car has taken a heavy traffic on the East Fourteenth street line. Considerable work is going on in East Oakland in Steinfeld Terrace and Boulevard park tract. C. Scheick is building six houses on Harrington avenue.

REALTY FIRM HOLDS ITS ANNUAL MEETING

The stockholders of the M. T. Minney Realty Company held their annual meeting at the company's offices in the Syndicate building, Friday afternoon. Reports from various officers showed that the operations of the company during the year just closed had been unusually heavy, both in the handling of subdivisions and general trade in California and Oregon. M. T. Minney, C. S. Morse and J. M. Minney were present from the old group of directors. Others elected were H. J. Spencer, late of Los Angeles, and Frank B. Wade of Suburbia, Oregon. Both of these new members are to be actively connected with the firm.

MOTOR VACATION IS POPULAR NOW

Kissel Kar Man Claims Autos Change Plans of Annual Outings.

The coming of the automobile has changed the annual vacation monotony for many people, according to C. C. Eichelberger, the Kissel Kar distributor in Oakland. He asserts that the coming season will see many more taking advantage of the motor car for trips extending through the vacation time and embracing the most interesting tours practicable within the time instead of going to the beach and stopping the entire time as formerly. To illustrate the tendency of the times, Eichelberger reviews some of the motor vacations of last season that came to his attention. "The railroads are of little use to a person who wants to penetrate nature where it is wildest and most beautiful. Last summer a Californian, Mrs. A. J. Payson, bought a Kissel Kar truck chassis and had us build a special body capable of carrying, in the most convenient manner, everything needed for camp life, and convertible into a perfectly appointed and roomy boudoir. In this manner she spent three months in the Sierras of California and Oregon, shooting and fishing and making trails never before reached by an automobile. "Similar experiences are told by G. R. Van Auker, an Indianapolis Kissel Kar enthusiast, who took a party of four across the continent in his Kissel Kar "Six" and is now on his way to Alaska. He beaten paths for the Kissel Kar was a pioneer. It is said that nobody before him ever attempted in a motor car to climb the peak that towers above the village of Boss Lake, which is the highest settlement in the Rockies. It was more than 14,000 feet up there, but Van Auker made it without any trouble. "Here's the story of a party of St. Louisans, all Kissel Kar owners, who made a racking trip over the most difficult trails of the dark mountains. On account of the continuous short, steep and winding roads, most motorists do not care to put their cars to the test of this trip, yet these tough ones from St. Louis report that nothing occurred to mar their pleasure. "Mrs. J. W. Leavitt of San Francisco took a party to the famous California Geysers, after being warned that the roads were impassable. She reached points of scenic wonder believed absolutely inaccessible theretofore. "Here's a citizen of Portland, Maine, who bought a Kissel Kar in Chicago, drove the entire distance home, which gave him a splendid idea on his new car. This Portlander, Mr. T. M. Carroll, is a Kissel Kar booster for life through this little vacation story.

MODERN AUTO IS WOMANS' VEHICLE

The ease with which the modern motor car is handled is largely responsible for the number of women driving motor cars today. Mrs. Ernest Dawson of Indianapolis, has a mileage record for the past two years which is probably greater than that of any other woman in the country. This diminutive lady has in the past two years driven a Premier car a distance of 38,000 miles. She takes care of her car herself and will allow no one to do any work on it. In 1911 she drove a four-cylinder roadster 27,000 miles and in 1912 drove her touring car 22,350 miles. Long trips have no terrors for her whatsoever. Probably the hardest drive which she made last year was her return trip to Indianapolis after a visit to Detroit. Her speedometer showed 341 miles for this return trip, which was by way of Adrian, Michigan, and Port Wayne, Indiana. The increase in mileage was on account of the detours which she was obliged to make on account of several bridges being down. The average driving for this trip being 15 hours and 10 minutes, making an average of 28.2 miles an hour for the entire distance. Mrs. Dawson has just purchased a little six-cylinder Premier, and expects to have a total mileage of 80,000 miles during the coming year, as it is her intention to make a trip to the coast with the Indiana manufacturers' tour, which leaves Indianapolis the first of July.

BLODGETT TALKS ON CONSTRUCTION

"There is no disputing the fact," states Freeman R. Blodgett, "that there will be some changes made in future gas cars. B. M. Birdsell of Texas is in charge of the effort at the moment. It is expected that the new cars will be one of the main considerations, Springs 56 inches long, such as were never before used on that weight of car, take the road shocks, while 12 inches upholstery absorbs all vibrations. "The steering wheel sets at a rakish slant, even in the touring models, right in the driver's lap. Every control can be reached without moving from the natural driving position. "The electric starter eliminates the crank entirely, and electric lights and cigar lighter eliminates the match. A drop light enables a tire to be changed on the road at night with the comfort of working in a garage. The electric virtue of the new type Starnwell demountable rims, can be performed in a few minutes. The changing of a tube in one of these rims can also be done without the aid of the old-fashioned tire or rusting of the rim has no effect. "We have taken scarcely a single order where the possibilities of the car being handled by a woman were not fully considered; the ladies are going through all the operations of starting shifting gears and driving."

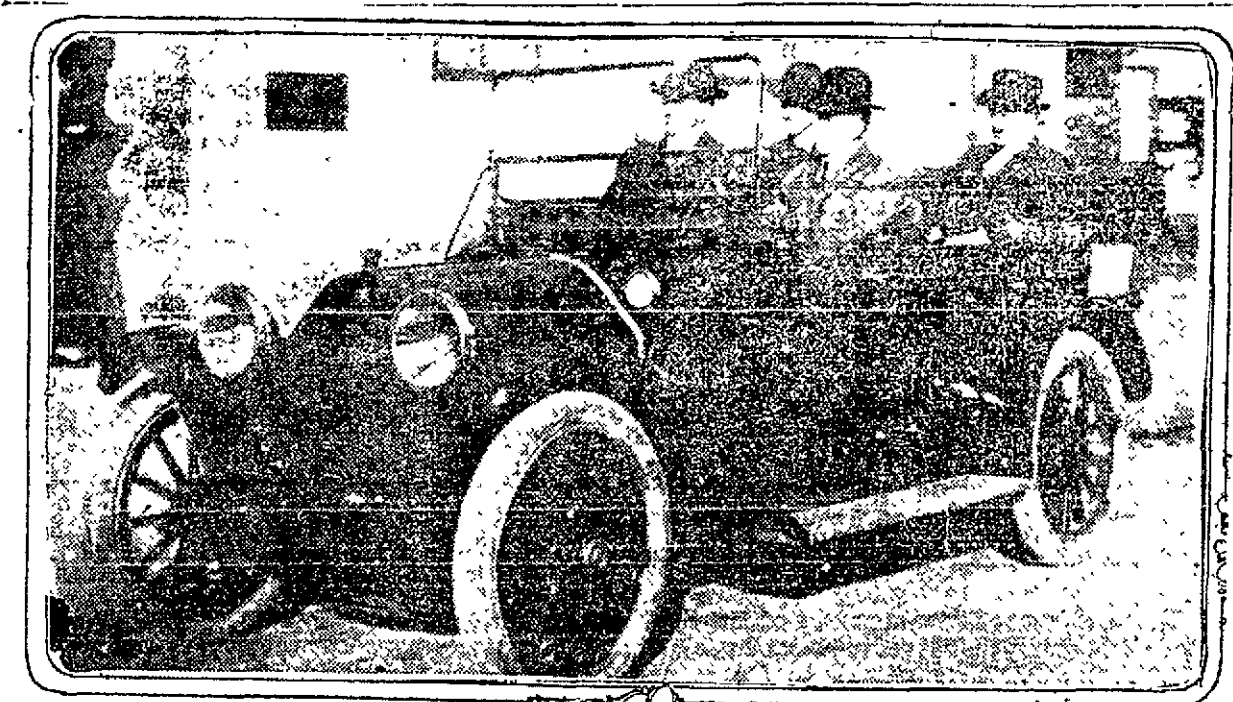

MOTOR TRUCK IS STUDEBAKER AIM

After years of experimenting, The Studebaker Corporation announces its intention of marketing, during the coming year, a complete line of gasoline commercial cars, ranging in length from eight to twelve feet. The new line of trucks, space has accordingly been reserved at the New York and Chicago headquarters to make a place on view two of the new designs. These models are links in the chain of four chassis types which, with varying gear ratios, frames, tires and bodies will cover a range of from 1500 to 12,000 pounds. The other models are now undergoing test at Detroit. The Studebaker designs are by Albert F. Maie, who took charge of this department more than a year ago. A distinctive feature of all models is the internal-rear drive which imparts stiffness to the chassis, and the rear wheel where the gear-reduction is made. This plan gives all the advantage of the chain drive, with an added protection against dirt and freedom from wear. It is a feature of the new design, which is designed that three parts respectively the weight of the truck, the drive and the torque.

SIX-PASSENGER HUPP ENROUTE TO OAKLAND

The small car makers are growing more and more ambitious and successful in their efforts to supply machines as fully equipped as graceful in appearance and as durable as the big, costly cars without proportionate advance in price. Their success is demonstrated by the latest output of the Hupmobile factory, a six-passenger machine, the first of which will arrive in a few days at the salesrooms of S. G. Chapman, local distributor. "They have fairly kept us on the jump," said Chapman yesterday. "Some way the coming of this model seems to have got about among a lot of people without our knowledge. They have flocked in to obtain information and arrange for demonstrations."

The KisselKar flexible self-starting motor

The Kissel Kar is built up around a wonderfully successful automobile motor. The Kissels were experienced engine builders before they became automobile manufacturers. For this reason the Kissel Kar motor has always exceeded the quality standard of most automobile motors. The Kissel Kar motor — is one of the simplest to operate power plants ever put into an automobile. —absolutely silent. —no vibration of consequence, even when the clutch is out and the car is standing. —always a reserve of power. —no heavy smoking possible, which is exclusively a Kissel Kar feature. —electric started on the touch of a foot lever. —widest range of throttle control.

Kissel Kar motor flexibility practically eliminates gear-shifting in all ordinary driving. Get into "high" and you can stay there—you can throttle down to three miles per hour in traffic, and you have the power at slow speeds to climb hills without rushing. If you want to see what the Kissel Kar motor will do, stop in the middle of the hill—shut off your engine—touch the starter foot lever—throw in your clutch—go back into the fourth speed, geared up, and finished the climb. This is an easy feat for any Kissel Kar model.

MOTOR CAR BOON FOR REALTY MEN

This automobile has been a God-send to the real estate men, according to Jos. H. Rucker of this city, one of the busiest operators. Rucker's concern, Jos. H. Rucker & Co., has been substituting a good bit of ground and they keep two automobiles busy all the time. They have had two big Haynes touring cars on the work of showing land to prospective purchasers for many months and Rucker told the Haynes Auto Sales Company people yesterday, when he dropped in for a chat, that he would not know how to do business without his cars. "They make it possible to do three times the work we formerly could get through in a day," Rucker said. "There are always three roads to go out, and they carry a possible buyer out to the country, as well as show him the land, long three-way street car ride or the slow trip behind a team that used to be the lot. Then, too, nobody wants to buy."

OHIO ELECTRIC COUPLE IS HERE

Latest Models Are Clever in Design, Says Manager Cosby.

The first of the new models of the Ohio electric vehicles arrived this week at the salesrooms of the A. B. Cosby Motor Car Company, the newly appointed agent for the Ohio electric line in this territory. Salesmanager James Cosby of the Oakland house is very enthusiastic over the appearances of the new arrivals and claims that they will prove very popular in Oakland. He says:

"The model 'O' Ohio Electric Coupe, which is one of the several Ohio models, has attracted considerable attention, owing to the fact that it has the same chassis as the larger models H and M, but with a smaller body and single control seats are arranged to enable passenger to face forward or vis-a-vis, as desired."

"The brake is of magnetic type, located on the control handle and the car is stopped instantly, by merely pressing a small button, without shifting the hand from its natural position. The strongest, most reliable and easily operated brakes on any electric car are attached to the rear wheels, any one of them is capable of holding the car on the steepest hills."

"The car is the chainless, direct shaft drive type without universal joints. Entire driving mechanism enclosed and bathed in oil preventing any direct getting into the bearings. Imported Hess-Fright D W F bearings used throughout."

KELLY TRUCK MANAGER ADOPTS NOVEL SCHEME

"That's my latest scheme. I've got my whole line rolled into one, so to speak, and take it right along with me on a sales campaign. I have no use whatever for a catalogue. I've got the real thing with me to show whenever I want to talk business."

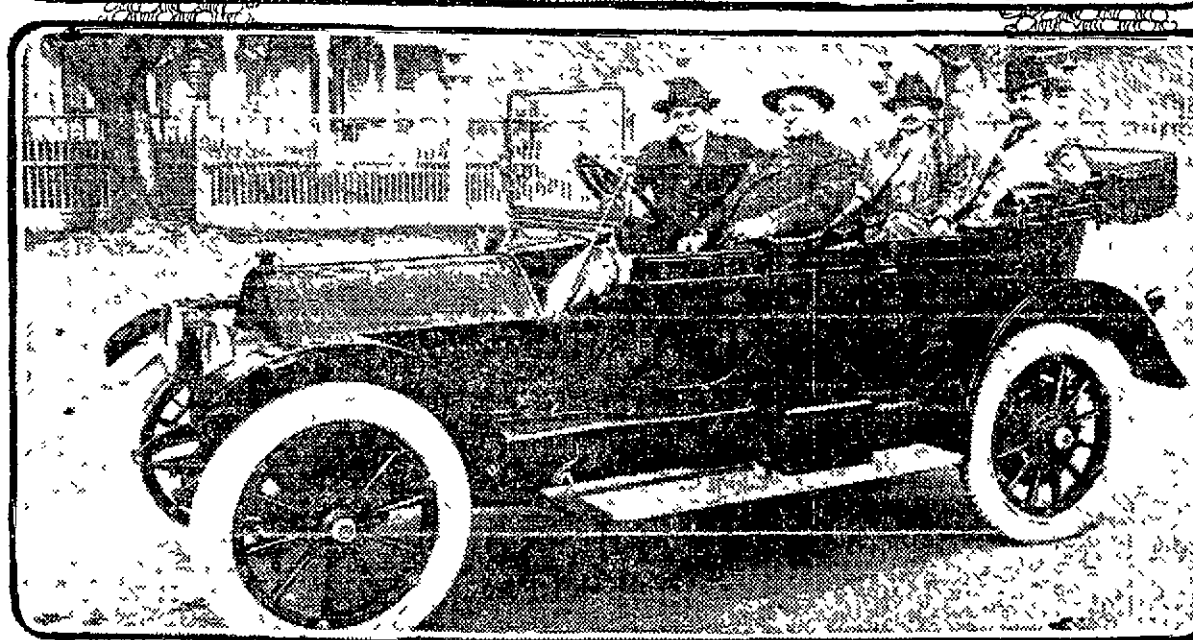

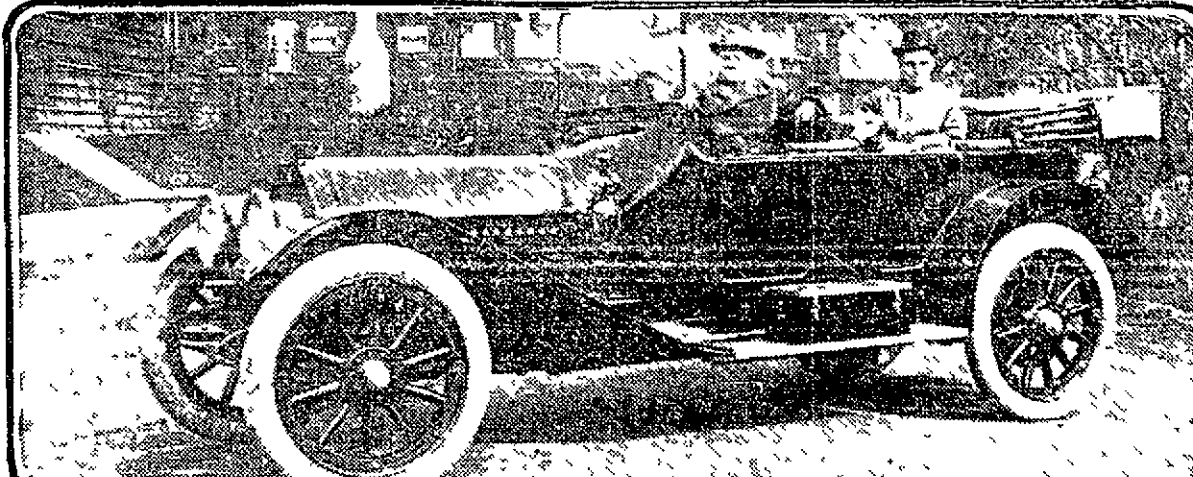

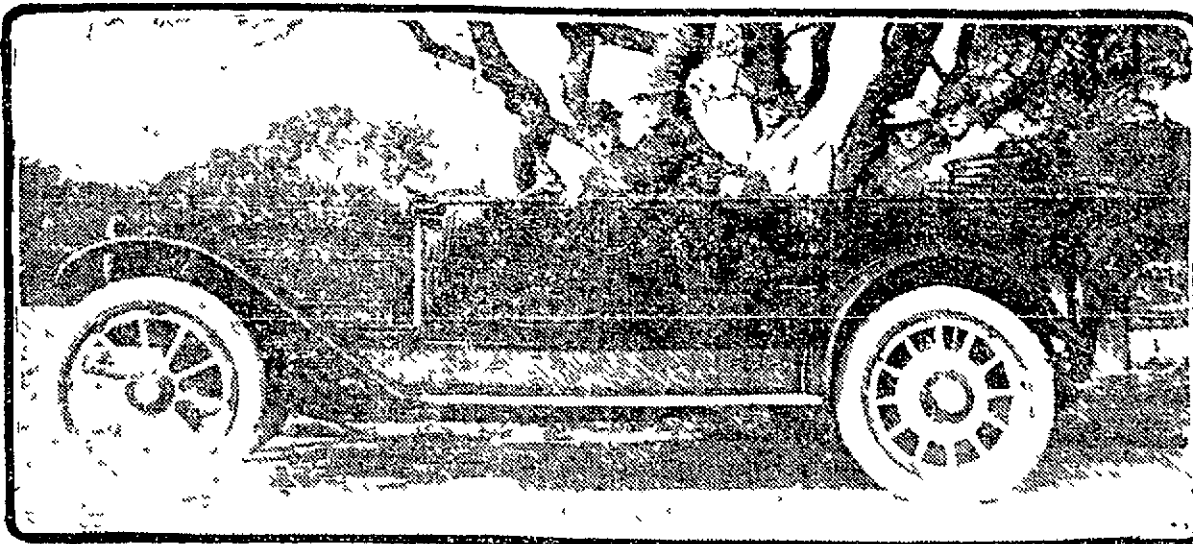

Such was the statement of Frank G. Miner, branch manager for the central and southern California territory of the Kelly-Springfield Motor Truck Company. To explain his meaning, he waved a hand toward the street where "Big Kelly," the three-ton Kelly truck stood with a one-ton Kelly truck perched upon it.

"Those are my samples," Miner said. "That's the whole line and as I don't feel justified in running both trucks and two crews along whenever I go out to see a man who wants a truck, I've just stuck the little one upon the big one, and there I am. It's quite simple, isn't it? I show him the whole business at one crack."

MOGUL TRUCKS HERE ARE SCORING A HIT

That the Standard Motor Car Co. has picked a winner in the Mogul truck is proved by the amount of favorable comment the big wagon has created and by the orders already given for immediate delivery.

The E. K. Wood Lumber Co. is first on the list, having placed an order for a 4-ton lumber truck.

E. L. Cutting, traveling representative for the Standard Motor Car Company, leaves this week with Mr. Haase of the Mogul factory, to cover the state, visiting every point where the company has an agent, with a view to closing contracts for the new trucks.

RENSTROM GIVES AUTOISTS ADVICE

Big Flock of Don'ts for New Car Owners Scattered Broadcast.

Gus O. Renstrom, head of the Renstrom house in Oakland, handling the Regal cars, has devised a list of "Don'ts" for owners of new cars. The program he outlines is a simple one and those just beginning to operate a car will do well to heed his warnings.

The first "Don't" sounds a warning note to those drivers who are wont to overlook the necessity of supplies.

Renstrom heads his list with: "Don't try to run without oil or water; it will only make business for the repair man." Next follow the several cautions.

"Don't try to start without the switch turned on, it can't be done. "Don't drive fast or try to stop quickly on a wet or slippery pavement."

"Don't neglect in cold weather, to use anti-freezing solution which is suitable for your particular locality, your radiator will freeze if you forget."

"Don't forget to release the emergency brake before attempting to start. "Don't try to shift the gears with your clutch in."

"Don't try to break all the speed laws of your particular locality. "Don't fail to keep your car properly lubricated."

"Don't let the car stand so that the tires rub or chafe against the curbing. "Don't start your car with a jerk."

"Don't run the wheels out of true. "Don't fail to examine your tires after each trip; it may prevent trouble on the next one."

"Don't forget to keep your rims free from dust and sharp edges. "Don't use the casing after it is worn to the extent that it shows the canvas, have it re-treaded to prolong its service. Put your repaired tires on the front wheels."

"Keep tires well pumped up according to information advanced by the maker. "If tires begin to show wear on one side from running in ruts or other causes, it is a good plan to turn them around, in that way the life of the tire may be prolonged."

CLEAR VISION IS LATEST ELECTRIC

Detroit Electric Broughams Proving Popular Here, Says Agent.

The new model "42" clear vision Detroit Electric brougham is making a decided hit in Oakland, according to Manager A. B. Swauger of the United Electric Vehicle Company, direct factory representative for the Detroit Electric factory.

"Outside of those that have driven electric to some extent, but few realize the absolute necessity of a clear vision attachment."

design on an electric," says Swauger. "In the East where electric are used more extensively than they are here, some cities have ordinances forbidding the operation of vehicles where the driver has not a clear and unobstructed view to observe the traffic from all angles."

"In such places the Detroit clear vision model makes a ten strike. The rear of the brougham is so designed that instead of the usual upright in the corners of the body, curved glass is used, permitting the occupants of the vehicle and the operator in particular to get a clear vision in all directions. Statistics compiled prove that the majority of accidents could have been avoided had the operator of the vehicle had a better knowledge of the surrounding traffic."

"Outside of the practicability of the clear vision design the beauty of the car is accentuated by the use of glass instead of the heavier appearing wood stanchions."

REPAIRING IN ALL ITS BRANCHES

Isn't it much more vital to give FIRST CONSIDERATION to the CAR you buy than to some SPECIAL EQUIPMENT that is put on it as a TALKING POINT to cover up and sell an INFERIOR MACHINE?

Don't deceive yourself or permit yourself to be TALKED into buying EQUIPMENT. The machine itself is the thing from which you will get SATISFACTION or OTHERWISE.

Examine closely a Buick that has had FIVE YEARS' HARD SERVICE (of which there now are hundreds in daily use). Look at any other make of car near Buick prices after TWO YEARS' USE. The facts will be self-evident. The superiority of the Buick will be indisputably established. The five-year-old Buick will be "up and ready" and "FULL OF PEP." The two-year-old "other make" will probably be found spending most of its days in the repair shop.

CADILLAC OWNERS TELL ABOUT CARS

Manager Weber Says Electric Starters Have Proven Successful.

A recent investigation by the Cadillac Company developed some very interesting information concerning the efficiency of their electric cranking device, according to Manager W. L. Webber of the Don Lee branch house in Oakland, who says:

"Out of 617 replies received 528 owners reported that in not one single instance had they been obliged to crank their cars by hand, while only 89 owners had done so. Among the reasons

NEW PAIGE CARS HERE FOR TODAY

Hebrank Gets New Models for One Day Exhibition in Oakland.

Scoring one for Oakland, C. H. Hebrank, head of the Osen and Hunter Company of Oakland arranged late yesterday to have the new Paige "36" car that has just arrived from the Eastern factory to be on display in the Oakland salesrooms today before it is exhibited in San Francisco beginning tomorrow morning.

The new car which just arrived appears to be the "class" that it has been heralded in the company's advance literature and its display today in the local Osen and Hunter Garage is expected to be the motif of many interested motorists spending the day on the Twelfth street row. The car is the first of its type to be seen here and it is the first car received by the newly formed Mutual Motor Agencies of California since securing the agency for the Detroit factory.

In a few words, the Paige "36" is rather a revelation in modern motor car construction, for, notwithstanding that it remains in the cheap price class, it combines such modern features as the Gray & Davis electric starting and lighting system. It also has a wheel base of 116 inches, embodies the left hand drive and center control and employs the unit power plant. The silent chain drive is used for the cam shaft, pump or generator, and the clutch is a multiple disk cork insert. The motor develops 26 actual horsepower and is accredited with not only being quiet, but also economical.

One of the distinctive features of the car is the arrangement of the gasoline tank, which is placed under the shroud of the dash and is filled from the outside. The brake drums are 14 inches in diameter.

There are five different models of the Paige "36"—a five passenger touring car, a two passenger roadster, a two passenger coupe and a six passenger sedan.

The models that were received yesterday by the company will be placed on exhibition today, and the sturdiness of the cars will be demonstrated in a series of tests in and about the city.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Now 6,000 Daily

The present output of Goodyear tires exceeds six thousand daily.

As fast as possible, we are bringing the output up to 8,000 tires a day.

For the evidence is that men this year will want two million Goodyear tires. And that means enough to completely equip 500,000 cars.

Consider What This Means

The present demand for No-Rim-Cut tires is seven times larger than two years ago.

Last year's demand by far exceeded our previous 12 years put together.

This year, nearly half of all new cars will go out with Goodyear tires.

Mileage Did It

This fact is due to mileage tests on at least a quarter-million cars.

Men in these days are using odometers. They are making comparisons on tires.

Names and claims don't count as they used to. Upkeep cost, with most men now, decides the type of tire.

This has brought men to tires which can't rim-cut—tires 10 per cent oversize.

And our patent type—the No-Rim-Cut type—forms the only satisfactory way to meet these requirements.

That's why Goodyear tires today so dominate this field. That's why they outsell others.

And these tires will win you, as they have legions of others, when you once make a comparison. Your tire bills then, under average conditions, will be almost cut in two.

About one motorist in three knows that this is so.

Chalmers 1913 MOTOR CARS

Made in Chalmers Shops.

Why Chalmers Steel Is Heat Treated

Heat-treating is a guaranty of long life in the working parts of a motor car. It is the Chalmers heat treating process that makes Chalmers parts so wonderfully strong.

By this modern intricate piece of steel of ordinary strength is given a toughness of fiber and a hardness that the sword makers of old Toledo might well envy.

In fact, the steel in Chalmers cars is as fine in quality and as carefully tempered as the steel in the finest swords and tools.

You can take a Chalmers transmission gear and—if you have machines strong enough—you can bend it nearly double before it will break. You can try the sharpest file on its surface; there won't be a scratch. You can pound the teeth with a sledge; you won't break them.

For the magic of fire has transformed the very structure of the metal. It has made the outer surface dense, fine-grained, hard as glass—to resist wear. It has made the inside fibrous, like oak—strong to withstand all strains.

The Chalmers heat treating plant—a part of the Chalmers factory—is one of the latest and most completely equipped in the automobile industry.

Chalmers cars have more heat treated parts than any other cars in their price classes. This is one of the many reasons for Chalmers quality.

Call and get the "Story of the Chalmers Car," which tells about this and other wonderful processes of manufacture which make Chalmers cars such good cars.

We invite you to see the 1913 models at our salesrooms.

TWO 1913 COLE MODELS ARRIVE

Indianapolis Plant Shipping
Four and Six Cylinders to Coast.

The Cole "60," the 132-inch wheel base car, just completed for the market by this company, arrived this week at the salesrooms of the Pacific Motor Car Company. It was immediately given a thorough test by the sales force, who have been eager to look over this new member of the Cole family. At the same time the first Cole "50," the big car of the four-cylinder line, also arrived, and it has shared attention with the six-lunger.

The Cole "60" is much similar in design to the four-cylinder car, the main difference being the size of the motor; the larger wheel base and the 3744-inch tire equipment. It has the built in electric starting device used in the new model Cokes, and is equipped with full electric lighting system. The body is long, with straight lines and all unnecessary outside equipment has been removed or placed under cover, giving the machine a clean appearance throughout.

The "60" motor is designed for steady power under any conditions, its stroke being 4 1/2 inches to the 4 1/2 inch bore.

In design it is known as the unit power system, with enclosed valve gear, and the clutch and transmission included in the jacket, thus being protected from the dirt of ordinary travel. The mechanism of gasoline feed and ignition has been so accurately set that a stock car can be brought down to a one and one-half mile gallop on the high speed without jarring those in the car. There is little noise from the motor and even at that slow speed it pulls steadily and evenly.

The company has altered its previous designs as to running gear very little, the only very noticeable change being in a lower center gravity. They also have given the passengers a little more room in the tonneau.

CHALMERS AGENT TALKS STARTERS

First Consideration, It Does Its Work, Says C. A. Penfield.

"No recent development of motor car construction has so completely caught the fancy of the motoring public as the self-starter, because no recent development has so fully satisfied so great a need for the man or woman who drives," says C. A. Penfield, manager for the Oakland branch of the Pioneer Automobile Company, representative for the Chalmers cars in this territory.

"Not long ago," says Penfield, "a consulting engineer told me that he had received during the past year nearly one thousand letters of inquiry about self-starters, and in giving me the gist of his replies, he said a thing which strikes me as being very true. That was, that the measure of the success of any starting device is simply this: Will it work?"

"There are a number of good starting devices on the market, but I firmly believe that the most continuously satisfactory device which has been used to any extent up to this time is the compressed air starter."

"The air starter is simple in its operation. There is nothing to get out of order about it. It requires practically no attention. It is light in weight. It is inexpensive both to build and to maintain. It is absolutely safe, and within the range of possibility of any mechanical device for starting the motor, it is highly efficient."

"I think the person who, in this day of motor car development, purchases a car without a self-starter is buying very unwisely. Of course, one should buy a car before buying a self-starter, for the self-starter is far from being the most important thing about an automobile. But even the best automobile in the world would not be a source of satisfaction if it were equipped with a starting device which was not good.

"In judging the kind of starter you want for your car, I would like to suggest the following points to be considered:

"First—Does it work? That, after all, is the most important thing.

"Second—Is it simple? The self-starter should be a thing by itself, not involving any of the important operations of the motor. It certainly should not involve the ignition system.

"Third—Is it light in weight? Certainly, no man wants to carry a lot of dead weight on his car. Dead weight eats up oil and gasoline and means extra wear on tires.

"Fourth—Is it costly or inexpensive? The answer to this question means much in determining the final price of the car.

"Fifth—Is it safe in its operation and easy to care for?"

"The perfect self-starter has not yet been built. Perhaps it never will be built. Perhaps no one will ever devise a starter better than the present highly efficient air starter. The problem which confronts a purchaser, then, is to select the starter which represents the best practice up to the present time.

A farmer living near Topeka, Kansas, found his motorcycle of great assistance late one night when he discovered that his horses had broken pasture and were galloping away. Quick as a flash, he was on his two-wheeler, and in hot pursuit. After a few minutes' ride he was able to overtake the runaway.

CANADIAN BRANCH FOR FISK TIRES IS LATEST

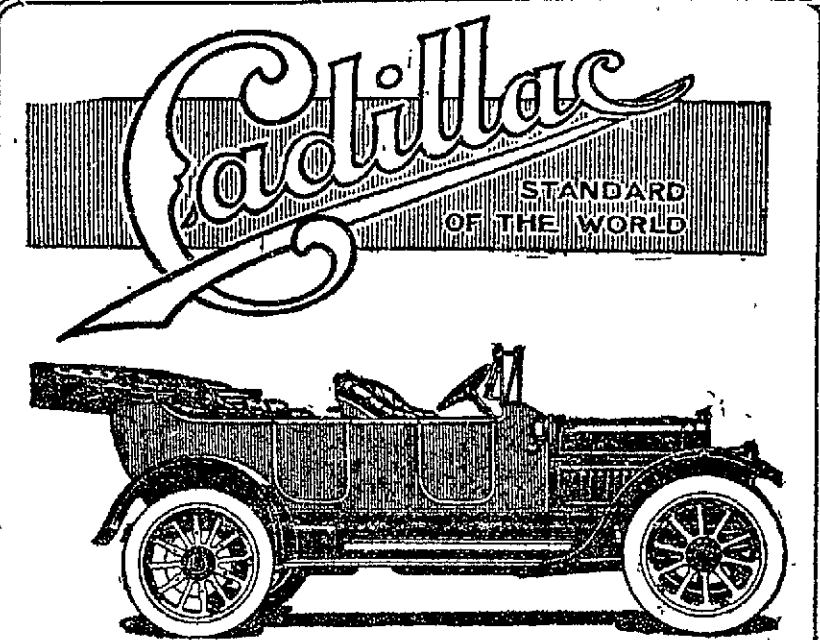

Canada is assuming a prominent place in the automobile buying world in America. A number of the motor car manufacturers have established plants across the line. The large amount of business in accessories and tires has attracted the attention of the accessory manufacturers and the special demand for Fisk tires has caused the Fisk Tire and Rubber Company to establish a direct branch in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

R. B. Pratt, Pacific Coast manager, in speaking of the Canadian branch, says: "For some time past the factory officials have had under consideration the establishment of the Canadian branch. Heretofore the tire output has been handled by an exceedingly fine chain of agencies, and the growing demand for Fisk tires has necessitated a supply depot across the line to get past the long waits necessary through the red tape of the custom-house.

"Winnipeg has been selected for this station inasmuch as it is practically central for Canada, being about equally distant from the Atlantic and Pacific Coast."

Vere Loos and Miss Lulu Geiger of Coshocton, Ohio, have added their names to the long list of motorcycle owners. Motorcycle clubs have recently been formed at Allegheny, Pa., and Reddy, Cal.

One Standard Quality in Seven Different Body Types

The Cadillac is identified with no "class" excepting its own—a distinctive class. It finds its sale not especially among purchasers whose limit of investment is the Cadillac price. It appeals alike to the discriminating motorist who demands a dollar's worth for every dollar of investment, and to the motorist who places dependability, service and luxury above all price consideration.

U. S. TREASURY CHANGES SYSTEM

New Plan Will Work Many Beneficial Changes in Money Circles.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The United States Treasury today revolutionized its business system and placed the ordinary fiscal transactions of the federal government on a modern basis. The change, it is declared, will prevent in large measure the temporary tying up in the vaults of the sub-treasuries of a large amount of money available for circulation without increasing the deposits of the government in the banks.

Beginning today, the daily government receipts from customs, internal revenue and other sources will be placed with the national bank depositories to the credit of the treasurer of the United States. All checks of government disbursing officers will be drawn on the treasurer and will be payable at any sub-treasury or national bank depository in any part of the country. A national depository paying one of these checks may immediately reimburse its specified government account from daily receipts of customs or internal revenue deposited with it and forward to the nearest sub-treasury only the remainder of the receipts. This extends the clearing-house principle to the government business system.

In the past all receipts in the shape of checks for customs dues or internal revenue taxes have been forwarded to the sub-treasuries for conversion into actual cash. This process, which it is said, drew money into the treasury unnecessarily for a limited time at least, will now be avoided. Also, it is declared, the change will obviate the payment by pensioners and others of exchange on government checks.

CRACKSMEN GET $100 FROM SAFE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The safe in the store of Heinemann & Stern, 1040 McAllister street, was opened by cracksmen who broke into the place at an early hour. Money to the amount of $100 and a number of checks were obtained by the burglars, who were evidently old hands at the game. They first drilled holes in the safe and then blew open the door. Detectives from headquarters are working on the case, but have only a slender clue in the shape of an abandoned drill.

ROGER SULLIVAN DENIES SENATORIAL AMBITIONS

NEW YORK, February 1.—Roger Sullivan, erstwhile Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, referring to gossip using his name as a candidate for United States senator denied today any ambition in that line.

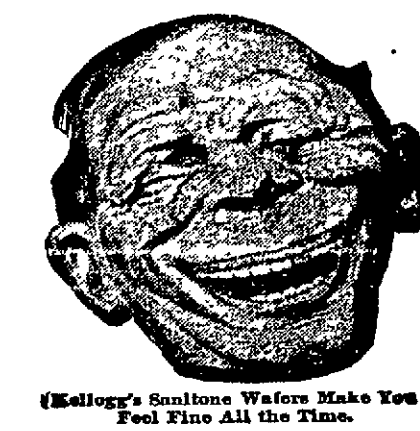

"Any man who mentions my name in connection with the toga is no friend of mine," said Sullivan.

ITALIAN SINGERS' TO BE FEATURE OF HALCYON CLUB

ANDREATTO GONDOLFO.

Much activity is being evidenced by the members of the Halcyon Club of Trinity Episcopal church in its efforts for the success of the annual entertainment of the organization, which will take place at Ebell hall Tuesday evening next. The membership of the club includes about 100, who, with their associates and friends, make perhaps the best known of the church social organizations around the bay.

For 11 months of the year the meetings of the club are purely social, but the annual event is always given for some altruistic purpose. This year the "Trinity Parish House and Community Center," which the rector, Rev. Clifton Macon, and the vestry have been promoting for the past few months, will be the beneficiary. In this building the club will have its quarters, where provisions will be made for dramatic, literary and social functions. The whole plant will cost between $25,000 and $30,000, and through the parish proposes to reach out in its work until it touches all the more pressing social needs of the people, irrespective of ecclesiastical affiliation.

Among the members of the club who will contribute to the program for this year's entertainment are: Miss Florence Campbell, Miss Lillian Gard, Miss Nettie Davis, Miss Gladys Garish, Miss Lillian Campbell, Miss Elsie Gier, Miss Ruth Oliver, Miss Agnes Cox, Miss Olive Davey, Miss Maud Davey, Miss Virginia Frost, Miss Mary Preet, Miss Georgia Merguire, Miss Altha Gordon, Miss Neida Evers, Miss Margaret Reek, Miss Anita Gladding, Mrs. E. M. A. Campbell, Mrs. Rose Storey, Robert Tupper, the president of the club, Bert Resner, Christopher Hampton, E. M. A. Campbell, F. E. Johns, Whitford Kelly, Hewlett Benjamin, J. Roy Munsell, A. Fairchild Sherman, Henry C. Knight, Fred W. Knight, Otto Gaither, Hugh Cox, Charles Pickering, August Pickering, Basil Mills, Harold Greenman, F. A. Campbell and Andreatto Gondolfo.

The patronesses will include: Mrs. Clifton Macon, Mrs. John Bakewell, Mrs. Samuel Mills, Mrs. J. E. McElrath, Mrs. Archibald Forland, Mrs. Samuel J. Taylor, Mrs. Lillian James and Mrs. F. A. Campbell.

The "Italian Street Singers" will be a feature of the entertainment. The Street Singers, in Italian garb, will sing the songs of Italy, and a number of chorus numbers, in which members of the club, one of the leading church organizations of the bay region, will take part, will be given.

The Street Singers are composed of the following musicians: Miss Lillian Gard, Chris Hampton, Andreatto Gondolfo, and Director Munsell, who has charge of the musical numbers of the program.

NON-WORKING MAN TIES UP WIFE'S ESTATE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Madame Hissault, formerly Mrs. John Bennett of Philadelphia, has her affairs legally entangled by her husband, who does not believe married men should work, that her costly furniture and other effects have been seized for rent. Her divorce case is not yet decided by the Paris courts and the decree of the court, ordering her husband to pay her alimony of $200 a month out of her own estate, is still in force. Mr. Hissault closed his office the day of his marriage and has persistently declined to go there since, as on principle he is opposed to work. He admits he married Mrs. Bennett for her money and pleads her marked senility for proof. She could not pay the rent of a fashionable flat at No. 23 Avenue du Bois de Boulogne out of the $200 a month, hence the seizure by her landlord, Mrs. Whitcombe.

Mrs. Whitcombe is the widow of the San Francisco lawyer who settled in Paris a half century ago and grew rich by real estate transactions. He left Mrs. Whitcombe the bulk of his estate, and she has been able to buy a French count for her daughter and has many millions left.

WOMAN STAYS IN BED; COURT IS PONDERING

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—How to deal with a woman who persistently stayed in bed was a problem presented to the Exeter magistrates recently when Margaret Whately appeared on an adjourned charge of neglecting her two children. The husband said that his wife went to bed on December 26 and he had not seen her up until she came to the court. It had been suggested that he should leave her without food, but he did not like to see her starve. As far as he knew, there was nothing the matter with her. The magistrate sent the woman to prison for four months with hard labor.

PLANS SUICIDE AT BIG BANQUET

Kills Self Before Friends at Conclusion of Gay Affair.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Jan. 31.—Maurice Auer, a young man of 25, residing at Bordeaux, had the idea of committing suicide at a banquet, to which he invited his friends. He had long announced his intention of putting an end to his life, but it was not supposed that he was in earnest. He finally issued an invitation to his friends to a banquet, which he said would be his last, and at the end of a wild day he made his exit from the world. One came and enjoyed a plentiful supper during which he was very gay. A waiter lay beside him on the table, with which he said he was going to shoot himself at the end of the supper. He asked if any of them had cartridges, because he had bought the revolver only that afternoon and had forgotten to get it loaded.

One of his friends, imagining that he was only continuing a joke, loaded his revolver for him, and then they all stood up to drink his health for the last time. As soon as they had done so, and before any one could interfere with his act, Maurice Auer held the revolver to his forehead and shot himself. He fell with his face forward on the supper table and expired.

Two Men and Girl Found Dead on Road; Killed With Revolver.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The fact that two men and a girl were found on the highway in the neighborhood of Brunswick recently. They had all evidently been killed with a revolver, which lay near them. The men were both artists and the girl apparently belonged to the unfortunate class, as it is stated that she was known in the town as Martha, but was otherwise unidentifiable. The trio spent the evening up to midnight in a neighboring restaurant where they wrote six postcards and four letters in which it is believed, that they made known their determination to take leave of life together. The police are puzzled to know how they have not been published, seem to have come to the conclusion that the tragedy is a case of that rare event, triple suicide, and had some strange love complication as its motive.

CLERICAL FOXHUNTER FAST DISAPPEARING

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The clerical foxhunter is a fast disappearing figure. A generation or two ago, however, the country person who rode to hounds was by no means a rarity. G. W. Russell has a story of Bishop Samuel Wilberforce, who was once "effectually scored off by one of his own clergy whom he had rebuked for his addiction to fox hunting. The bishop urged that it had a worldly appearance. The clergyman replied that it was not a bit more worldly than a ball at Blenheim Palace at which the bishop had been present. The bishop explained that he was staying in the house but was never within three rooms of the dancing. "Oh, if it comes to that," replied the clergyman, "I never am within three fields of the hounds."

TAFT'S ADIOS TO GRIDIRON CLUB

His Cabinet and Uncle Joe Cannon Are Also Shown the Exits.

Democrats' Grip on Reins of Government Subject of Much Merriment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—In one of the most entertaining of the Gridiron dinners, the members of that famous organization tonight said: "Adieu, but not good bye," to President Taft, to the Taft cabinet, to Uncle Joe Cannon and to other figures in public life whom the club has delighted to poke fun at for four years—and more.

Nothing in the oratorical record of the president has become him more than the speech he made as his share of the farewell ceremonies and Uncle Joe ran the president a close second when he arose to say his own farewells.

Coincident with the farewelling was the welcoming of the Wilson administration. The president-elect, of course, was not present. His turn will come at the next dinner. But the club gave his inaugural parade, not in the simplified form recommended by him, but on a scale that was almost Roman in its regal magnificence.

President Rudolph Kauffman, who is a president-elect himself, delivered the welcoming address after the welcome song in the darkness and the flashing of the big gridiron.

Then came the parade led by a drum major with an enormous baton, the Stauinon Cornet band, the West A. E. P. Fraternity, which is one of the few Mr. Wilson did not omit from Princeton, and a host of Tammanyites all hungry and thirsting for office.

While the parade was going its rounds, a prodigious noise was noticed in the office and a member of the club informed those present that this was the Illinois legislature making a herculean effort to elect Jim Ham Lewis to the senate.

The suffragettes who were by no means the least important part of the parade, chanted as they marched: We want pants, We want pants, So do our sisters and our cousins and our aunts.

BRYAN—THAT'S ALL.
The Tammanyites were clad in peacock coats and high hats, after the manner of Tammanyites looking forward to four years of prosperity in the nation's affairs and knowing the value of a front to make appointment doubly sure.

At the conclusion President Kauffman was invested with the magnificent golden jeweled gridiron which falls to the president of the club. Wilson's cabinet which was represented by members of the club, consisted of nine accurate representatives of William Jennings Bryan and all these gentlemen held converse with each other on the future administration of the government.

The secretary of the state announced that he wanted the Monroe doctrine recalled. What he wanted to call it when he recalled it was the Bryan doctrine.

The secretary of the treasury admitted that he had not had a financial idea that looked like a winner since 1896.

FUTURE TRUST POLICY.
The secretary of the navy said he was against battleships and would be with the Platts was dropped out and Lincoln, Nebraska, made a seaport town.

The attorney-general mourned because he was the residuary legatee of Mr. Wickham's 400 uncompleted trust prosecutions. When he was asked what his trust policy was he said:

"To bust those we can't trust and trust those we can't bust."

This was received with a howl of delight from the out-going office-holders.

The musical stunt of the evening was a travesty on the opera "Mascot," hoodoes being substituted for the mascot.

The libretto, which bubbled with fun, was entitled "Miss Democracy's Mascot," the late Thomas Jefferson acting as the father in the play.

BURST INTO SONG.
After Miss Democracy had welcomed the mascots and messengers that Bryan sends, the chorus bursts forth into song, as follows:

"Since election days are over,
Democrats we come in turn.
We'll learn to live in clover
And we'll have a lot to learn.
While the big parade went by,
Workin' hard and always hopin'
For our inning by and by!"

The principals were Miss Democracy and Professor Higher Education. The latter sang an ideal dramatic and promised to stand by with Miss Democracy in spite of threatening disasters, while Miss Democracy expressed a natural anxiety about those friends of mine who think they ought to be postmasters, but when Miss Democracy chortled "Office," "office," "office," Professor Higher Education simply answered: "Bah!"

MUST HAVE POSITIONS.
Miss Democracy—The victors want the spoils, you know. You'll have to give the gang positions.

Prof. Higher Education—I say that office must go to college men, not to politicians.

Miss Democracy—But Thomas Ryan's drawing near and Tammany is some voracious.

Prof. Higher Education—I will confess to you my dear, your argument seems perspicuous. But I will educate them yet.

Chorus—But we all want ours, you bet, when we say to you "office," "office," "office."

Prof. Higher Education—I repeat to you Bah!

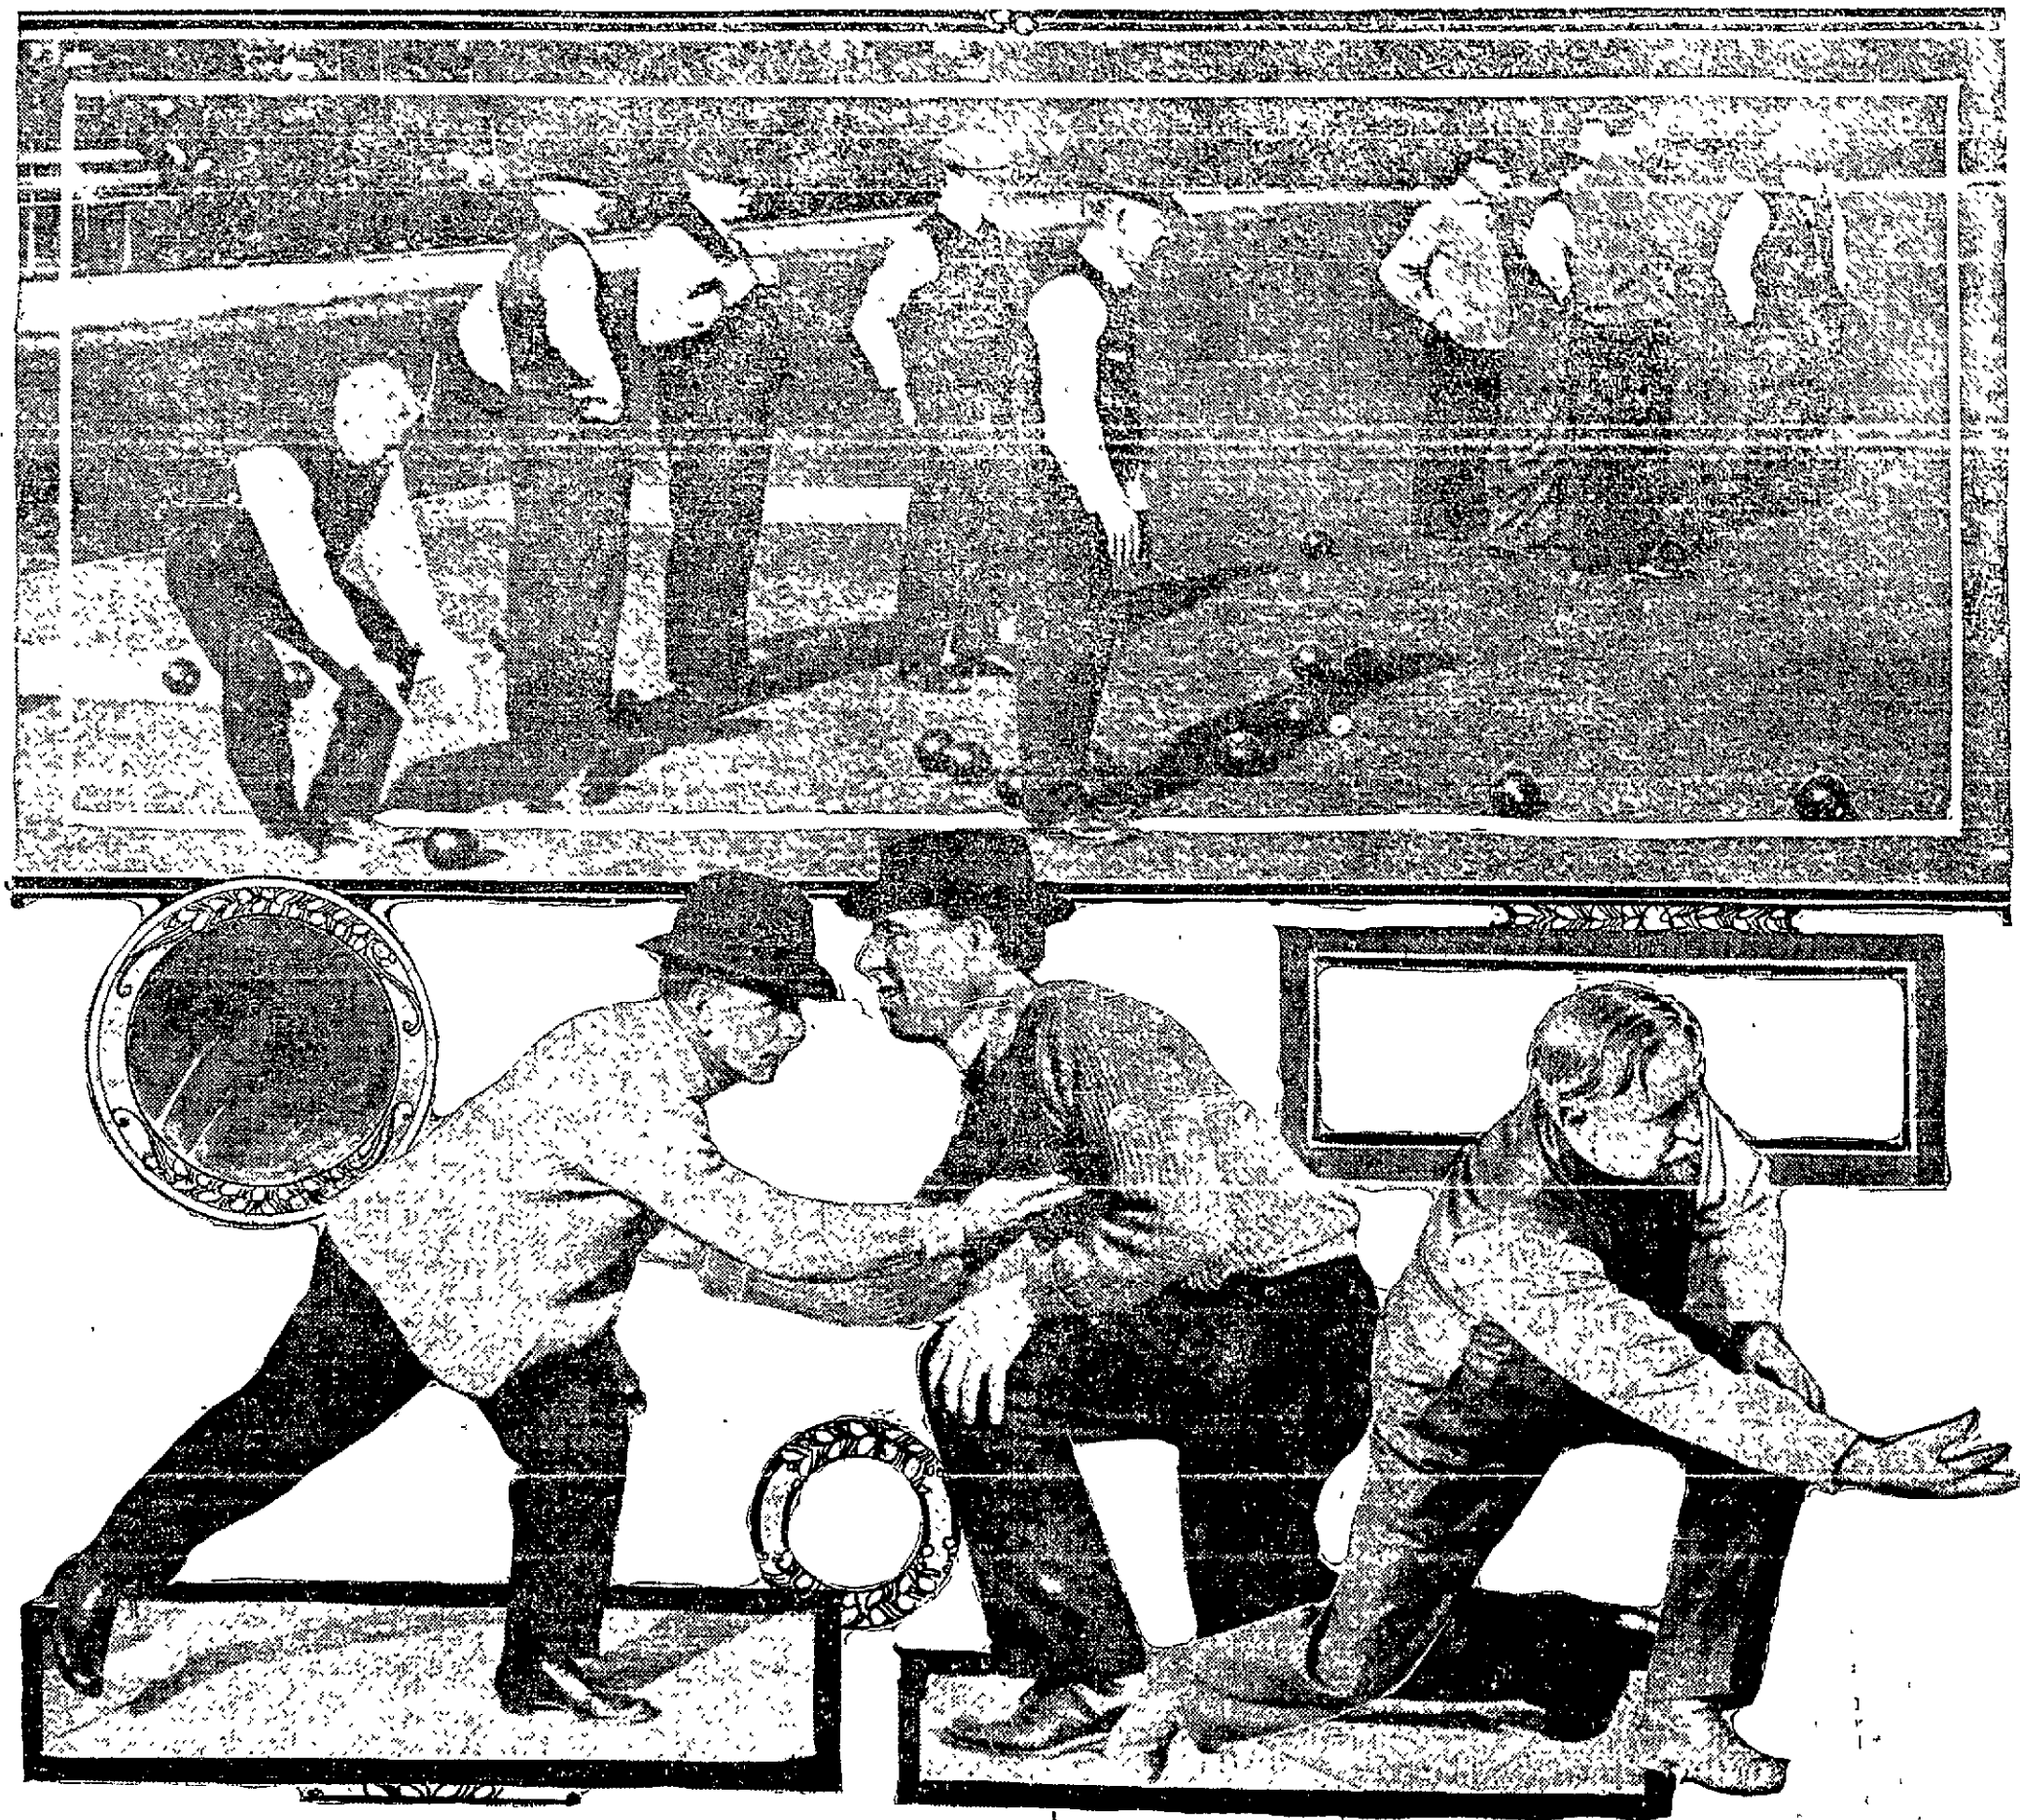

Chorus—"Office," "office," "office."

SINCERE GOOD-BYES.
There were many good topical songs and many good speeches, but the best of the latter was that of the President, who, while fully entering into the spirit of the jollity that prevailed, was, behind it all, really earnest in his good-byes as a public officer and in his expression of good will toward an organization which has often rallied at him but has always had for him a deep and sincere liking.

The menu was as follows:
Anchovy leaves, Monomoy Point oysters, celery, olives, radishes, salted nuts, clear green turtle, English sole, hot-house cucumbers, mignon of lamb, new peas, Bermuda potatoes, terrapin Marvland, gridiron punch, guinea chicken, heart of lettuce, Russian dressing, mouse of fresh strawberries, cakes, coffee, cigars, cigarettes, martini cocktails, haut sauterne, Moet Chandon, imperial crown brut, apolinaris.

LOCAL BOWLERS SHOW SKILL ON LAKESIDE GREEN PASTORS DOFF COATS AND DISPLAY THEIR BRAWN

SAN FRANCISCO PLAYERS DO NOT BACK CHALLENGE

Local Teams Ready for Fray, but Men From Across Bay Fail to Show

It was a great surprise and a disappointment to the members of the Oakland Scottish Bowling club and their friends that the members of the San Francisco Scottish Bowling club defaulted on their own challenge for a friendly match between the two clubs on the Lakeside park bowling green, particularly in view of the fact that the park men had taken special pains to roll the green into excellent shape for the contest. This is the second or third time that the San Franciscans have defaulted on their own contract. The second match of the series of three for the holding of the perpetual championship cup last year was scheduled to be played on the Lakeside park green, on a given date, the first of the series having been won, with a good margin to spare, by the Oakland team on the San Francisco Scottish bowling club's own grounds—the Golden Gate Park green. But when the time came to play the second match on the Lakeside Park bowling green the San Franciscans were three men short, and, to relieve them of the handicap, the Oakland Scottish Bowling club loaned them three of its good players. The latter organization positively refused to take advantage of the predicament in which the San Franciscans were placed through the delinquency of the absentees and thereby lost the second match of the championship series and later the final match played on the crown Gato Park green.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.
The challenges of the San Francisco club to play a friendly match on the Lakeside Park bowling green was accepted last Tuesday and there was ample time to notify the Oakland bowling club of any derangement of the program in the meantime.

There was a goodly gathering of the members of the Oakland Scottish Bowling club at the Lakeside green of the long afternoon at 2 o'clock—the hour set for the opening of the league club match; but there were no San Franciscans in evidence. President

Howden therefore decided, after waiting a half hour, to arrange a friendly match between three teams selected by himself and Andrew Proctor, and played simultaneously on three separate rinks on the green.

The teams and their skips were selected by lot by Howden and Proctor in the following order:
Howden's teams—Rink No. 1.—Rev. Mr. Sanborn, Robert Daisiel, Sr., and R. Howden, skip.
Rink No. 2.—A. Daisiel, Jr.; Rev. A. Allen and James P. Taylor, skip.
Rink No. 3.—A. Daisiel, Jr., A. Huley and T. Evans, skip.

Proctor's teams—Rink No. 1.—Rev. Mr. Macon, W. Weir and Alex Donaldson, skip.
Rink No. 2.—Dr. E. R. Hill, J. Smille and Andrew Proctor, skip.
Rink No. 3.—Lester Burpee, Jas. A. Smille, Major H. Hume, skip.

The aggregate score of the rival teams on the three rinks stood at the close of the match at 62 for the Proctor players and 60 for the Howdenites. The score cards show the battle with bowls was lost and won.

Donaldson's team... 020 001 000 100 101 721 010—18
Taylor's team... 210 010 020 020 110 200 000—12
Proctor's team... 002 001 101 101 008 054 121—27
Huley's team... 002 010 010 010 010 042 005—21
Hume's team... 102 401 311 001 013 100 110—20

SENSATIONAL FINISH.
The only real contest on the three rinks was between the Hume-Evans teams which was not decided until the last end was played. At the close of the twentieth end the score stood 16 to 20 in favor of the Hume team. Then came a sensational finish in the twenty-first end. A. Daisiel started it by advancing the jack to a position where two of his bowls rested in a winning position. Huley, his mate, followed with a third bowl for a companion and skip Evans added a fourth, with the first of his three bowls and narrowly escaped putting in a fifth with his second bowl after Hume had failed, with his second, to disturb the head with a drive. Hume failed to break with the third bowl and Evans broke the tie and won the match, so far as his own team was concerned.

OAKLAND'S CAR SYSTEM MAKES GOOD SHOWING

City Has One-Half As Much Mileage As New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The five-cent basis of street car fares may be completely revolutionized as the result of the findings of a "committee on determining the proper basis for rates and fares" submitted today in the continued mid-year conference of the American Electric Railway Association.

That the railroad cities in the United States are "selling goods under cost" by charging only a single five-cent fare over two broad a territory in the various cities is the report of the committee.

The establishment of a fare zone system in each city, similar in plan to the country's parcel post zone system, was urged by speakers in the conference. Traction officials from Boston, Milwaukee, Manchester, N. H., Indianapolis, Newark, N. J., San Francisco, Oakland, Cal., and other cities supported the zone suggestion, with a fare of five cents for a four-mile ride and several cents additional for farther distances. A permanent committee plans to consider the matter at length before recommending to railroads are made.

OAKLAND'S GOOD SHOWING.
W. R. Alberger, general manager of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal railways, is in attendance, and produced facts and figures to prove that the street car service in Oakland was far in advance in point of accommodation and fares of any of the other large cities of the United States.

The arguments produced by Alberger were along the lines of the average cost per mile, seating capacity furnished and transfers issued, as by landing his last bowl safely in the bunch close to the jack.

The accompanying illustrations are reproductions of photographs taken on the scene during the afternoon by THE TRIBUNE photographer, among them being the Reverends Allen, Macon and Sanborn who are enthusiastic devotees of the recreation of bowling on the green.

In New York the longest average ride for the five-cent fare is 5.5 miles from a central point. In Oakland the average taken from five different directions is 6.4 miles, but this may be doubled by transferring.

The table prepared by Alberger is as follows:

	Population	Average
New York	4,766,833	5.5
Chicago	2,126,233	5.3
Philadelphia	1,549,008	7.2
Boston	670,585	7.2
Oakland	160,174	6.4

The longest ride which may be had in Oakland for the five-cent fare is to take a car at the city limits near San Leandro and ride to the end of the Arlington line at Berkeley, a distance of 18 miles.

Thus, Oakland with but one-twentieth of the population, has one-half as much street car mileage as New York. New York has 494 miles, Boston 410, Chicago 572, Philadelphia 545 and Oakland 245 miles of local car lines in operation.

AHEAD OF POPULATION.
Comparative figures from the same cities show that Oakland has a car service that is far ahead of the population. One mile of track in New York serves a population of 5585; in Boston 2545; in Chicago 3814; Philadelphia 2940; and Oakland 948 to the mile.

While in Oakland 4315 seats are furnished to the mile, in Philadelphia only 1418 are furnished. In other words, while in Oakland enough seats are furnished to carry passengers an average of 10.5 miles, in New York the average is but 4.5 miles and in Philadelphia the individual average is a seat for only 5.5 miles.

Of the total number of passengers carried in New York 27 per cent take transfers. Oakland has the same percentage. In Chicago 12 per cent are transferred; in Boston 33 per cent and in Philadelphia 15 per cent. It is believed that a representative of the Oakland system will be made a member of the permanent committee to look into the question further.

OFFICIALS OF NATION ARE ATTACKED

The Independent Oil Company Charges That Czar Rules at 26 Broadway.

Many Involved in the Sweeping Statement Against Standard Oil Trust.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The direct and specific charges that Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher and other high officials of the government are controlled by the Standard Oil Company is made in a remarkable brief filed with the House Committee on Indian Affairs by the Uncle Sam Oil Company, the independent company which has appealed to Congress for validation of oil and gas leases it negotiated with the council of the Osage Indians in Oklahoma. The leases are said to be worth $800,000,000.

The brief was prepared by Albert L. Wilson of Kansas City, counsel for the independent company. The original charges in the case were made by members of the Indian council and they declared that Secretary Fisher had discriminated in favor of the oil trust against the independent.

CZAR AT 26 BROADWAY.
"We have a czar in the United States and he sits at 26 Broadway," says the brief of the independent company. "His edict is more powerful than the edict of the czar. He commands the government officials as thoroughly and as completely as though they had sworn allegiance to him."

A former President of the United States and a former Attorney-General and former Postmaster General, two federal judges, a district attorney, the present Secretary of the Interior, the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs and many minor officials have proven themselves willing instruments in carrying out policies directly in harmony with the wishes and aims of the czar at 26 Broadway.

MANY IMPLICATED.
"No man can take this record and come to any other conclusion than that the officers of the United States government have been conducting the affairs of their offices just precisely as the czar at 26 Broadway would have conducted them if he had had his own employees in these positions."

At another point in the brief reference is made to an act "of the Secretary of the Interior who has shown all along that he is absolutely dominated and controlled by the same influence that guides its orders from the czar at 26 Broadway."

Attorney-General Wickham is also implicated by the independent company.

Was Drawn on Jury That Indicted Him
President of St. Paul Investment Co. Escaped Service. Indicted for Larceny.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 1.—If Henrik Strom, president of an investment company, had remained in St. Paul, he might have been a member of the grand jury which is now in session for the purpose of investigating the alleged larceny of $4,223.81.

Strom was arrested in Los Angeles yesterday and Sheriff John Wagner will leave tonight for that city to bring him to St. Paul. Three additional indictments, charging grand larceny in the first degree, make the total sum alleged to have been embezzled $4,223.81.

Fortune-Telling Unbalanced Mind
NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Fortune tellers are blamed for hallucinations which reached a climax today when Mrs. Agnes Walsh, a well-to-do Philadelphia, threw herself screaming from a pier. A horseman pulled her out of the water.

Her husband said that a year ago after a fortune teller told his wife there was to be a great fire in Ireland, whence Walsh and his wife came 21 years ago, the belief that the opposing parties in the home rule struggle would burn up the country finally became so fixed in her mind that her husband, thinking to restore her mental balance, consented to let her return to Ireland. She was waiting to board the Cymric when she jumped into the water.

DANCING GOWN MAKES APPEARANCE IN LONDON

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—A prominent American hostess in Berlin created a stir at a dinner-dance, at a fashionable hotel, by appearing in the ballroom after dinner clad in a different dress from that in which she had dined. Her costume of old lace over satin and chiffon, with a train, had given place to a simple evening gown of satin with a short skirt convenient for dancing.

"Modish evening clothes for women are not designed for comfortable dancing, nor are they durable enough to stand the wear and tear of the two-step, 'turkey-trotting' and other popular dancing movements," she explained. "I have therefore hit upon the plan of bringing two costumes to a dinner-dance. I find the system enables me to do with one or two evening costumes a season, though two or four used to be necessary."

The scores for the evening are: Miss Barbara Leonard, Miss Pearl Leonard, Miss Kathryn Towne, Miss Delphine Kenney, Miss Mary Barry, Miss Agnes Treacy, Miss Pauline May, Miss Josephine McCarthy and Miss Margaret McNally.

NAVAL ACADEMY EXTENDS COURSES

Post Graduate Work for the Younger Officers Includes Many Branches.

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Arrangements practically have been completed for extending the system of post graduate instruction at the naval academy for the younger officers so as to include all professional branches. The additional courses will be established next week.

A school in marine engineering has been in operation at the academy for the last three years. New classes are to be formed in naval construction, ordnance, electrical engineering, physics and chemistry.

Extending the scope of post graduate work at the academy will relieve the government of the expense of sending officers to technological schools.

FULL GRAIN BINS NOT REAL WEALTH

Kansas Professor Says Country Life Must Be Developed on New Lines.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 1.—"Barns bursting with produce, well stocked pastures and swine pens and four-legged bank deposits in the possession of farmers do not constitute real rural wealth. Work so far done to make country life more attractive is on wrong lines. Symptoms have been treated rather than the disease. A new and constructive program is needed, one that suggests human development along all lines."

These were statements made here tonight by William A. McKeever, professor of philosophy in the Kansas State Agricultural College, in an address to the third annual Country Life Conference. Professor McKeever argued that the condition of the farmer is need of spiritual rather than material improvement.

"The development of a well-poised, self-reliant and happy personality in the average farm dweller is the problem," he said.

"I have known the materials of wealth to be heaped up around a farm house which contained a sad and disappointed wife and from which the sons had fled without even a grammar school education," said Professor McKeever. "The idea of the dignity of labor must be fostered but the material wealth of the individual is not the aim."

Orders of January 23 relating to First Lieutenant John S. Upham, infantry, are revoked.

TO GROW CITRUS FRUITS. LINCOLN, Feb. 1.—A citrus land syndicate, composed of Alfred Larsen and V. S. Colbert of Pasadena, N. A. McPhaul, J. S. Weyward of Hollywood, Los Angeles county, R. E. Idelson and S. A. Tase of Los Angeles have invested over $200,000 in the purchase of 4000 acres in this vicinity. The sale was made by the O. H. Cope Co. of Sacramento. The ranches purchased include the Martiner, Wm. Jones, Chas. Crook, S. Barry and Johnston holdings.

WARMEST JANUARY IN EAST RECORDED

Boston and Philadelphia Have Sunny Winter Days.

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—The warmest January in the history of the weather service in Boston went out yesterday in a blaze of sunshine with the thermometer reaching a maximum for the day of sixty-three degrees.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—This was the warmest January ever recorded in Philadelphia, according to figures compiled by the local weather bureau. The mean temperature for the month was 42.2 degrees, while the hottest January previously recorded was in 1890, when the mean for the month was 41.8 degrees. The highest temperature was 62 on the 17th, and the lowest was 22 on the 9th. The maximum temperature today was 62 degrees.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Mary Balthwell of 642 Hampshire street, who was pardoned by Governor Gillett after being released from San Quentin penitentiary on parole, in 1908, was arrested at an early hour this morning and is being held in detinue at the city prison pending an investigation into the death of Mrs. Agnes Schoenhuber of 38 Arbor street. Mrs. Schoenhuber died on January 24 at St. Luke's Hospital following the performing of an unlawful operation on January 20. Mrs. Balthwell, a midwife, was accused and Detective Burke and Richards decided today to take her into custody. They declare that they will bring a charge against her. The woman was convicted of a similar offense in 1903 and sentenced to ten years in San Quentin.

WOMAN RELEASED ON PAROLE IS ARRESTED

CHANGES IN U. S. ARMY RANKS ARE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1.—Captain Samuel A. Purdum, Second Cavalry, will report to attending surgeons, this city, for physical examination.

First Lieutenant Charles C. Herman, Jr., Third Cavalry, is detailed as professor of military science in Delaware college, Newark, Delaware.

First Lieutenant George F. Roselle, Jr., Twenty-second Infantry, is detailed as professor of military science in the Louisiana state university and agricultural and mechanical college, Baton Rouge, La.

Orders of January 23 relating to First Lieutenant John S. Upham, infantry, are revoked.

SAGE AND SULPHUR, OLD-TIME REMEDY, A SCALP TONIC AND COLOR RESTORER

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

For generations Sage and Sulphur have been used for hair and scalp troubles. Almost everyone knows the value of such a combination for keeping the hair a good even color, for curing dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair, and for promoting the growth of the hair. Years ago the only way to get a Hair Tonic of this kind was to make it in the home, which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays, almost any up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully prepared in perfectly equipped laboratories.

An ideal preparation of this sort is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for scalp troubles and thin, weak hair that is losing its color or coming out. After using this remedy for a few days, you will notice the color gradually coming back, your scalp will feel better, the dandruff will soon be gone and in less than a month's time there will be a wonderful difference in your hair.

Don't neglect your hair if it is full of dandruff, losing its color or coming out. Get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Agents, The Owl Drug Stores.
